PREFACE

CINCE the last Report was offered to the Class, the world, and the Class as a part of it, has gone through the test of the Great War. How well the Class stood the test is shown in the number of men who did their parts here and abroad. To those who died no finer tribute can be given than was given in the address of Palfrey Perkins at our memorial service last year. This is printed elsewhere in this volume.

There is, however, the reverse of the medal. Great things have been done, and a great Victory won and now we all seem averse to undertaking the ordinary minor things, the drudgeries that are necessary for the final rehabilitation of the world. This is shown most clearly in the difficulties of the work of the various class secretaries during the past year. I speak not alone for myself.

The number of men who did not return their class "lives" was remarkably large, the number of men who had changed their addresses and sent no notice to the secretary so that for the time being, at least, they were rated as "lost" was greater than ever before. All this can be laid, it seems, to the spirit of "we have fought a good fight and won, let us rest a bit." Petty as these things may seem, yet they exemplify the spirit of the times.

Too great credit cannot be given to Charles E. Mason for the publication of this report. It was thought best that it be published in Boston and as a result he took it in charge and by him all the real work has been done.

I also wish to thank Sam Hinckley for leaving to me a perfectly oiled piece of machinery in his records and system so that practically all I had to do was to stand by and watch the wheels go round.

LEWIS M. THORNTON.

MEMORIAL ADDRESS

Delivered by Rev. Palfrey Perkins, Divinity Chapel, Cambridge, June 17, 1919

Classmates:

We have come away from the gaiety of Class Day to spend a little while in this quiet upper room, and we have come, as I see it, with a two-fold purpose. Our purpose is not to mourn, for we do not mourn, but rather rejoice for those few, those happy few,—who have not and who will not come back from the war. Our purpose is not eulogy, for the words of any of us are but poor beside the eulogies which their own lives and deaths utter for them.

We have come here first for remembrance,— to remember these friends of ours who went forth to a high adventure, and are now out upon the last and highest adventure of all. For proud and grateful remembrance we are here.

And the other purpose is consecration; to consecrate ourselves and our powers in such devotion as shall be possible for us, to that cause of right and justice and truth in whose service they gave the last full measure of devotion. For earnest and humble consecration, we are here.

They are and will always be the "heroes" of our Class. All that the rest of us may ever do can never equal what they have already done. In differing forms of service and in differing circumstances they met death,—some in hospitals, some on the field.—but they were all serving the same cause,—two following the Union Jack,—the others under the Stars and Stripes,—heroes all.

We may well pause to think of the grace and beauty of their heroism. Whether they lay sick, or whether they went into action, we are sure that they were meeting the test of their divinest possibilities, straining their every effort of manhood, commanding themselves sternly, to die if need be, but to carry on, and to conquer, come what might. And we are sure that they departed without complaint, without fear,— with that fine kind of fatalism so characteristic in soldiers, not afraid, but confident that all is well here or there for the soul that has done its duty. We are sure that it was in that spirit that these men we remember came to die — heroes every one.

All that they hoped for and were ready to work for, all this they were equally ready to give up in order that the world might be a better place to live in. Their supreme gift was part of the price of the world's salvation from tyranny, from brutality, from war itself. Our remembrance of that shall ever be our dearest treasure and our deepest inspiration.

Of course you and I remember them most vividly as undergraduates, and all the happy memories of those days in college come thronging back. We see them again with all their varying traits and charms just as we saw them then; and always we shall see them thus. We shall grow old and lose our strength, make great failures or rise to great successes, and visibly change before one another's eyes as the years go on; they will never change, will never grow old. For us they will still be as we knew them, hopeful, vigorous, brave, high-spirited. Nothing of evil can befall them. The problems that must perplex us, and the weaknesses that must worry us shall not touch them. They are in peace, and their remembrance is for evermore — always boys, always heroes to us.

As I have said, we are not here for eulogy, but you would not have me fail to speak a word of remembrance for each of them. Each made his individual contribution to the cause, each served in that capacity which best fitted him.

ORIC BATES died at Camp Taylor in October, 1918. He had, during the first part of the war, made good use of his remarkable knowledge of navigation acquired in many summer cruises along the Maine coast, by helping train efficient and serviceable officers for our Merchant Marine. And then, restless to be in closer touch with action, he began to train for an artillery commission. His reserves, however, were too depleted to withstand the attack of pneumonia. At college the intimate of a small circle, he never was widely known to the class. He was a scholar. He was a gentleman.

WILLIAM MORTON BUNTING died at Camp Devens in September, 1918. He enlisted as a private in the Coast Artillery Corps nearly a year before his death, and rose, because of his special qualifications, to the rank of Captain in that branch upon which so much of the fitness and skill of the great new army depended, as Personnel Officer on General McCain's staff. So he served where he could do the most and best. His genuine friendly nature won for him much affection.

Warren Barton Blake was drowned in August, 1918. He had been an inspector with the rank of Captain in the American Red Cross in France, where his abilities had proved of remarkable service.

His literary gifts were of great promise, and he had made a place for himself in the very influential field of magazine writing. His was a quiet humor and a delicate appreciation of life and friendship.

ALVAH CROCKER, JR., died at Brest in June, 1918. You will remember the alert intensity of his nature, and realize, perhaps, how the spirit over drove the mind and body, as he rose by hard work to a Captaincy in the Corps of Engineers until he literally poured out his nervous force and energy, and tragically met his end.

EZRA CHARLES FITCH, IR., died at Hartford in August, 1917. He was an enlisted man in the Black Watch, Royal Highlanders, and was eagerly seeking recruits to be his brothers-in-arms when death overtook him. He was but two years in college and was only slightly identified with the Class, but we are proud to have had a classmate in the ranks of a regiment so honorable and glorious as the Black Watch.

PHILIP OVERTON MILLS died behind the lines in France on the same day as Crocker, in June, 1918. He did a double service in the war, first as an ambulance driver with the American Field Service, and then, after the United States went in, as a Captain in the 308th Infantry. He was killed by the accidental discharge of a rifle grenade, the working of which he was explaining to his men. It was part of the irony of his fate that he had never led these men into action, but you can well imagine what an officer he made in the splendid power and magnetism of his personal presence. He was ever a fighter, and yet beneath that rugged strength and dominating will was a generous and even a gentle heart. We shall not soon forget the simple, forceful words in which he spoke to us three years ago of Williamson, and how he brought into that crowd of celebrating classmates a moment of true solemnity and commemoration. He was a soldier "sans peur et sans reproche."

EDWIN FIELD SAMPSON died at Camp Taylor in April, 1919. In the Medical Corps as a First Lieutenant, he had a chance to use the skill and judgment which his years as a bacteriologist and pathologist had developed, and clearly in the line of duty he died of blood poisoning. He was not well known in the Class, but he had won a place in his profession, and by his services in the dull routine of an army camp and the sacrifice of his life there, he has won a place in our respectful memory.

HARRISON BRIGGS WEBSTER was killed in action at Bois de Septsarges in October, 1918. He was Regimental Surgeon of the 47th Infantry, with the rank of Major. I can do no better than to read part of a letter from a non-commissioned officer who assisted him during the last weeks of his life:

xxiv HARVARD COLLEGE—CLASS OF 1905

Major Webster was a friend to all who knew him, whether officer or enlisted man. He was known by every member of our Division, medical men or doughboys, for his strict attention to duty, his inexhaustible capacity for work, his extreme nerve and bravery and cool-headedness, even under the worst fire. During the second phase of the Argonne-Meuse River offensive, our Division had driven the enemy far beyond the Bois de Septsarges, the Bois de Brieulles and the Bois de Fave. The regimental dressing stations were located in the northern edge of the Bois de Septsarges facing these other woods and the enemy. The battalion dressing stations were in advance, nearer to the front line. Major Webster's own regiment had been relieved twice by another of our Divisions, but he, because of his tireless energy and innate longing and willingness to help others to the fullest extent of his strength, would, when his regiment was resting, continue to work, helping the other regimental surgeons whose troops were then in the front lines. . . . Major Webster and I were constantly together for nearly two weeks. He used to take me up to his battalion aid stations in order to look over the situation, note numbers of wounded, find best roads to have the ambulances travel over, etc. On October 12 he took me up into the Bois de Fave to look over these details and to guide some ambulances in order to evacuate the wounded. We reached our destination, got all the wounded into ambulances, and started back to the regimental aid station in the Bois de Septsarges. There was considerable difficulty in getting the ambulances over several mud-and-rain-and-shell-soaked sections, and it was after midnight before we reached the clearing between the two woods.

All the time the enemy was shelling the woods and the clearing constantly and close by, but we continued ahead, guiding the way for the ambulances, I right at Major Webster's side, a pair of mules with a driver for emergencies directly behind, and the motor ambulances following. We reached a point within three or four hundred yards of our regimental aid station about one or two o'clock on the morning of the thirteenth. The shells were whistling closer, and the Major and I threw ourselves close on the ground at a particularly close one. I remember he asked, "Are you all right, LaValley?" I answered, "O. K., thus far, Sir, and you?" "Fine," he said, "and the boys are all coming behind, too." Just then another zipped and I ducked as before. I could just notice that the Major did not dive flat, but turned a bit as though to shield himself, and then went down. He did not question me as before, and I had felt the hot breath of the shell, and its explosion was deafening, so I called, "Are you all right, Major Webster?" There was no reply, so I moved quickly to his side and flashed a light upon him. . . . He did not suffer, was immediately unconscious, and died within two or three minutes.

"Bunty's" whole life was spent in the service of his fellows. He never could have been satisfied with the comfortable ordinary routine of his profession. He wanted to do what others would not or could not do, and so he helped and healed and mended and cheered men and women in lonely places, freely spending his great skill, without thought of any reward but that which is intangible and invisible. In losing him, all of us have lost a big helpful friend, and the world has lost an incalculable amount of noble service which he might have rendered for many years. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Like Greatheart he lived, like Greatheart he passed over, and, "all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side."

GEORGE WILLIAMSON died of wounds in Belgium during the fourth month of the war, November, 1914. He was one of that great company of true-hearted gentlemen who officered the Territorials in French's army at the very beginning, and who, while they were England's glory, were her irreparable loss. By thousands they fell, and he was of them. The first Harvard man, the first graduate of an American college to be killed,—his is a proud place in our remembrance. He was a genial, gallant, brilliant man, and a brave, steadfast, cheerful soldier.

Thus we remember them, with humble gratitude, with prayerful trust, with joyful pride. Not as those who sorrow without hope, but as those whose hope is full of immortality, do we wreathe their names with victor's laurels and emblazon them with gleaming golden stars. In Oxford Colleges, the rolls of honor are headed by the simple words, "Ave Fratres Atque Vale." So on the tablets of our hearts, may you and I engrave the same hopeful, faithful words, "Hail Brothers, and Farewell."

Somehow I think they are beholding us as we go forward in life, and urging us to consecrate our powers in helping establish upon earth the principles of honor, justice, service, and good will. They are bidding us look beyond destruction and death to that new world that is to be builded above the crypt where lie the bodies of countless young men like them, whose deaths had to be in order that the spiritual death of men and nations might be conquered by more abundant life.

It is with that vision before us that we must take our part in life. The old evils must be destroyed, the battle is not done, and you and I are here to-day to consecrate ourselves anew to the great purpose for which they died their consecrated deaths. Not one of us but must gird on the armor and take our places in the army of citizenship. Not one of us but must accept the duties, how simple compared with theirs; make the sacrifices, how petty beside their supreme gift; and take up the service from which they have been mustered out. Each in his own way, we must do our part and fill our places according to our ability.

If we would be in any way worthy of the salvation which these our dead have helped to buy for us, if we would commemorate them in spirit and in truth, if we would be loyal to the cause to which they were loyal even unto death, you and I, as Harvard men, as American citizens, as followers of the truth, must consecrate our whole selves in faithful service. Without such service on our part, these who have died, and the thousands like them, shall have died in vain. On the faith which their sacrifices teach us, we must build a new world—the only monument that can be beautiful enough to be their memorial.

Part of our life's unalterable good Of all our saintlier aspiration, They come, transfigured back, Secure from change in their light-hearted ways, Beautiful evermore, and with the rays Of morn on their white shields of expectation.

To the fulfillment of that expectation of theirs, it is your high duty and mine to consecrate ourselves.

As for them, let us banish every cloud of sadness, as if their going from us were misery and destruction. However we may sigh for them, they themselves have been lifted to heights of being, loftier than any they could have reached by long years of effort. While they might have known many joys in longer life, they could have won no greater prize. They have entered into a glory whence their influence shall always hold its sway over our hearts and lives, to keep us true to the best that we know, helpful to the world, and faithful even unto death.

Perhaps you recall that when we graduated, Bates wrote a hymn which we sang at the Baccalaureate Service. Little did we realize how fitting the words would prove fourteen years later at this service of remembrance and consecration. These are his words:

Not on us all shall glory set her crown, Nor shall we all win praise from lips of men, But such of us as in the fight go down, Make strong our spirits that we rise again.

IN 1916 I made several trips thru the Sea Island district in Georgia and Florida, watching the approaching destruction of the Sea Island cotton crop by the boll weevil. When it was evident that a year or two would see its finish commercially I went west to look over the cotton growing prospects of Arizona where the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture had been developing thru breeding and selection of Egyptian seed. Conditions apparently being favorable we took over about 10,000 acres - some of which was raw land, and started farming about half of it. Part of our land was irrigated by water from The balance was a desert of mesquite and sage the Roosevelt dam. brush. Farming first consisted of clearing and leveling this land, digging wells, installing engines and pumps for our irrigation sys-During 1917 I made four trips across the Continent to what I admiringly called "God's Country." On my last trip I stayed over a year and basked in the sunshine of an Arizona summer, where the thermometer in the shade touched 124 degrees regularly and what is worse stays there till even your "skin is too hot to wear." But it was fine growing weather and we grew cotton and lots of it and sold it to people who sold it to the Government who said they were going to make gas masks and airplane wings out of it to fight the Hun. Well, the West is a fine place, but even Theodore Roosevelt could not stand ranching forever, so when I saw a chance to get I decided to get while the getting was good, as otherwise I might have had to stay until some bright sunny day I changed with a puff of smoke into a cinder. So I came back home and bought a yarn mill and spent all last winter shoveling snow and worrying about coal and thinking that although Arizona was a little warm in summer, it was awfully nice in winter, and we did have lots of fun. Oh my! Oh my!

Married: Marjorie Rand, New York City, April 26, 1911. Child: Barbara, Aug. 24, 1918.

SINCE July, 1915, and prior to our entry into the war, I continued at my business of salesman and sales manager for investment houses — with Kissel Kinnicutt and Co., and afterwards Tefft and Co. of New York. Search as I may I cannot recall having occupied any positions of signal honor or trust, but I have kept out of jail and am able to keep my growing baby in first class shoes without borrowing. By the way, the baby was born while I was in France, and it was two months after her arrival before I knew the date of her natal day or how she and her mother had come through the experience.

Since my discharge from the army I have been back in the investment business, and with the exception of occasional longings for the campaign days I am well satisfied to grow old following my present path. War Record: I entered training Aug. 17, 1917, at Camp Fort Myer, Va., receiving a commission as 1st Lt. F. A. in Nov. I was attached and later assigned to the 313th F. A., 155th Brigade, 80th Div., and after 6 months' hard training at Camp Lee, Va., sailed for France. We debarked at Bordeaux. I was immediately sent on detached service for the Artillery Remount Service and spent my time continually till the middle of Aug. collecting horses from the French for our army in the territory of the British 1st and 2nd Army Corps in a region extending from west of Amiens to Boulogne and east to Bailleul. This experience was very interesting and you can imagine our feelings of envy on seeing squadrons of English cavalry mounted on picked horses from the U. S. while we were gathering and shipping the last surviving members of the equine tribe, from great white stallions through mares in foal to the veriest "crowbait" to our forces in the south.

After about three weeks at an artillery range in Brittany, where a I rejoined my command, the brigade moved up to the front, taking position near "Mort Homme" of famed history. I was wounded in the attack of Sept. 26, being then Regimental Information Officer, Battalion Liaison Officer with the Infantry, and Commander of Trains for the 2d Battalion. I was discharged from the hospitals and service on May 1, 1919.

Member: Harvard and City Clubs of New York; Essex County Country Club of Orange, N. J.; American Legion.

GUILLIAEM AERTSEN, Jr.

It is difficult to write a biography because, first, there isn't any, and, second, I have only one eye that can see, the other eye having something the matter with it. The eye is now functioning: the autobiography is not. All I can say is that after flopping around as a tin soldier in Military Intelligence during the war, I was discharged at the end of it. I spent some time to get rid of some "flu bugs," had an evil eye from not drinking alcohol, and am now looking for a job. "Dixi."

War Record: From April 4, 1918, to Jan. 31, 1919, I served as Captain, Military Intelligence Division, General Staff, U. S. Army.

FREDERICK ARTHUR ALDEN

Occupation: Engineer.

Unmarried.

A FTER completing the work for which I was engaged at the new buildings for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, I became attached to the staff of Mr. Winthrop C. Durfee, consulting and manufacturing chemist of Boston, as works manager in charge of the development and manufacture of new American dyestuffs. This position I resigned in Jan., 1917, to accept a position as engineer in charge of efficiency work with the Massachusetts Rating and Inspection Bureau which appeared to offer good possibilities. However, the war came on and a general retrenchment brought about my retirement from this position in June.

Since Oct. 15, 1919, I have been biding my time to secure a firstclass position such as I want. In the meantime I have had considerable consulting engineering work to handle and this has given me a very busy winter.

War Record: At the outbreak of the war between the United States and Germany I attempted to have both the Navy and War Departments accept my services. At that time they were not accepting heavily experienced engineers and so I did the next best thing tie up to the Stone and Webster Corporation as equipment engineer on Government arsenals and ordnance base depots in France. Also during this service I had the honor of being principal assistant engineer on important and confidential research work for the U. S. Government in connection with the prosecution of the war. In the Spring of 1918, Fay, Spofford and Thorndike, engineers, of Boston, were starting the Boston Army Supply Base at South Boston. I was loaned to them by Stone and Webster and became mechanical engineer in charge of work concerning the machinery and transportation of the entire terminal. Previously, however, the War Department had been after me for service and a commission in the Ordnance Department. I told them of the work I was doing and they decided to have me remain on such work as being more important to the Government at that time. In the Fall of 1918 I was offered a commission as division engineer with the rank of Commander, to establish a system of training for the "black gang" (engine department recruits) of our new American Merchant Marine, by the United States Shipping Board. This offer was accepted and automatically placed me in service. I had entire charge of the training of recruits for the engine department all over the country and was enabled to save the Government large sums of money by the establishment of the Atlantic Squadron Engineering School of which I was the director. Stationed at East Boston, the Atlantic Squadron Base, I made many new and interesting friends among the officers of the station and the squadron based there. The Government wished me to remain after the signing of the armistice and when the big retrenchment came in the Spring of 1919 I was also asked to remain. We spent a very busy summer at the station and in the fall the entire station and squadron base was transferred to Camp Stuart, Newport News, Va. I was again one of the officers selected to go to the new base, and there became, in addition to my other duties, Chief of Construction, Repair and Operation for the Base. The war being over nearly as could be for approximately a year I desired to get back to civilian life. Consequently I resigned, despite the pleadings of the Commandant who desired me to remain as his Engineer Officer, and was honorably discharged on Oct. 15, 1919.

Occupation: Lawver.

Unmarried.

AVE practiced law in Boston in partnership with A. Ingham Bicknell under the firm name of Ammidon and Bicknell. I served in the State Legislature in 1916–1917–1918 as a representative from Cambridge, being elected on the Republican ticket. In 1918 I offered a resolve for a popular referendum on the prohibition amendment to the National Constitution and then voted against prohibition when the referendum resolve was defeated. In the Fall of 1918 I was left free by the voters to devote my entire time to the law business. Whether this illustrates the workings of the law of cause and effect is a question. I am now chairman of the Republican city committee in Cambridge, which may perhaps be an office of honor or trust. It is certainly one of work.

CHARLES WALTER ANNABLE

Address: (home) 122 Phillips Ave., Carrick Boro., Pa. (business) South High School, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Occupation: Teacher.

Married: Helen Josephine Peirce, Boston, Mass., Aug. 24, 1904 (died July 22, 1915); Elizabeth Elvira Andrews, Hudson, N. H., July 11, 1919. Children: Charles Anthony, Dec. 16, 1905; Edward Peirce, May 22, 1907; Walter Davis, May 22, 1907; James Albert, June 30, 1915.

THERE is little, I feel, in the history of my experiences during the past five years that has not been covered sufficiently in the foregoing outline. I have not been a soldier, my nearest approach to direct service for the country having been in the form of a summer's labor in a Pittsburgh mill operating one hundred per cent. on Government contracts. Otherwise I have lived rather restively the usual life of a schoolman.

HENRY FRANCIS ATHERTON

Address: (home) Syosset, L. I., N. Y.

(business) 21 Burling Slip, New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Madeline Wesson, Springfield, Mass., Feb. 8, 1913. Children: Henry F., Jr., Jan. 13, 1914; Walter Humphrey, Oct. 22, 1916.

FROM July 1, 1915, until I entered the army in Jan., 1918, I was engaged in the general practice of the law in New York City. Upon my discharge from the army I resumed the practice of the law, being associated with Blauvelt and Warren at 61 Broadway. I am secretary of National Aniline and Chemical Co., Inc., and in connection therewith conduct a so-called "legal" department. Have been a director of several corporations; have also been secretary and trustee of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club; am at present chairman of the Educational Committee of the 23rd Street Y. M. C. A.

War Record: Enlisted in the Ordnance Dept., U. S. A., on Jan. 28, 1918, and served with them until Feb. 24, 1919, being located at various times in Washington, and in France, and holding rank of Captain.

Due to my early experience in Battery A in Boston I was at first assigned to the Artillery Supply Department in Washington. Subsequently I had charge of supplying artillery, trucks, trench mortars and tanks to organizations being equipped in the U. S. I accompanied the first shipment of artillery sent Pershing (8-in. Howitzers for the 58th C. A. C.) and was assigned in France to the work of devising methods of shipping artillery from the bases to the combat area.

In 1917 organized, and was Captain of a New York Guard Co., and conducted in connection therewith a non-com, school.

Member: Harvard Club and Bar Association of New York; Piping Rock and Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Clubs.

RAY ATHERTON

Address: (home) American Legation, Pekin, China.

Married: Constance Crowninshield Coolidge, Paris, Jan. 25, 1910.

A FTER the 1915 reunion I returned to Chicago and continued A my architectural work in the office of Shepley, Rutan and Coolidge until the Autumn of that year when I was very suddenly called to England on business. My wife and I stayed the Winter of 1915-1916 in London and in March went to Paris. I realized after this year that there were more things in Heaven and earth than had been dreamed of in my philosophy of life, and for me they lay for the most part outside an office. When we came home towards the end of 1916 I learned that men were wanted for the consular and diplomatic service of the Government, so we went to Washington, where I studied for the Civil Service examinations which I passed and was detailed to work temporarily in the State Department. In Aug., 1917, I was assigned as third secretary to the Embassy in Tokyo. Early in 1919 I was made a second secretary and during the Summer of 1919 I was Chargé d'Affaires during the absence of the Ambassador on a mission in Siberia. In Dec., 1919, I was assigned as second secretary to the Legation in Pekin. This is an interesting post but far from the Class reunion and it is with very real regret I realize that I won't be there.

War Record: In 1917 I entered the Government service and after a short detail in the Department of State was assigned as Secretary to the Embassy in Tokyo, subsequently I was transferred as Secretary of the Legation in Pekin, which post I hold now.

JAMES RUMFORD BALDWIN

Address: (home) 184 Railroad Ave., North Andover, Mass. (business) c/o Essex Co., Lawrence, Mass.

Occupation: Civil engineer.

Married: Edith May Kendall, Winchester, Mass., Sept. 1, 1909. Child:

James Kendall, Sept. 24, 1912.

HAVE done nothing of particular interest since the last class report, my working hours being busy and a great deal of my leisure time spent at the North Andover Club, of which I am treasurer.

War Record: Took part in early drive for Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and other war charities funds; also in each sale of Liberty Bonds. Served as member of Board for Registration of the Draft and associate member of the legal advisory board. Was a member of Home Guard, North Andover, Mass.

Member: Boston Society of Civil Engineers; Association of Harvard Engineers; North Andover Club; North Andover Civic As-

ROGER NASH BALDWIN

Address: (home) 110 Waverly Pl., New York, N. Y.

(business) 138 West 13th St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Madeline Z. Doty, New York, N. Y., Aug. 9, 1919.

ROM 1915 to '17 I continued my work in various public causes in St. Louis as secretary of il. in St. Louis as secretary of the Civic League, a good government organization. I was also active in state and national social service. When it became evident that the country was to enter the world war, I resigned my position in St. Louis and became associated with the American Union against Militarism, which was dedicated to the maintainence of our democratic traditions of voluntary military service, and freedom of speech, press, assembly and conscience. I directed the Civil Liberties Bureau of that organization during the first year of the war (later as an independent association) until Oct., 1918, when the extension of the draft act compelled me to face the personal application of the principles for which I had been fighting. I could not consistently or in conscience accept for myself the principle of conscription. I was furthermore opposed to all wars for any end, however good. Refusing to obey the act, I was sentenced in the U.S. District Court at New York on Oct. 31 to one year in prison. I served the time at the Essex Co. Jail, Newark, N. J., and at the Essex County Penitentiary, being released in July, 1919. I have not the slightest regret at the course I took, and would do the same thing unhesitatingly again under similar conditions. For me it is the only course possible in accord with my conception of freedom, however misguided and unpatriotic it may seem to those of contrary view. I have always cherished the Harvard tradition of tolerance of such heresy as mine. It is one of the real contributions to liberty of opinion in America.

After leaving prison, which was a most revealing human experience, I went into the middle west as a manual worker for two months to study the conditions of labor at first hand. I was in the coal and steel strike regions, working with pick and shovel, and learning vital facts of modern industry unknown to most of us "white-collar" folks. I am at present connected with the American Civil Liberties Union and several other associations concerned with the problems of our political and industrial life.

Have written: Numerous articles and pamphlets in connection with my work.

SINCE July 1, 1915, have practiced law in Seattle, except time in Army.

War Record: Enlisted Dec. 5, 1917; discharged Jan. 16, 1919. Held enlistment rank, private, 1st class, until March 28, 1918, when I was appointed 2d Lieutenant, A. S. M. A.; received promotion to 1st Lieutenant, A. S. S. R. G. on March 12, 1919. From the date of my enlistment until Jan. 28, 1918, I was located at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex. (Ground School), and from that date until March 28, 1918, at Ground School, University of Ohio, Columbus, Ohio, when I was ordered to Call Field, Wichita Falls, Tex. Transferred to Aviation Mechanics Training School on May 7, 1918, where I served until my discharge from the service.

In giving a record of military service I wish to state that I presented myself for enlistment preparatory to joining First Officers' Training Camp at the beginning of hostilities; failed to pass the physical examination on account of recent operation for appendicitis - had been in hospital for three months - and was advised to await the Second Camp. Presented myself at Second Camp for training, but failed to qualify for the same reason. Passed required physical examination on Dec. 4, 1917.

On Oct. 18, 1918, was certified from St. Paul for immediate overseas service, but the end of the war spoiled whatever chances I had for that service.

Under the Selective Service law, I served as chairman, Local Exemption Board, Division No. 5, Seattle, Wash., from the beginning of the Selective Service Draft until my enlistment.

Member: Doric Lodge, F. and A. M., Seattle Chapter, R. A. M., Seattle Commandery, Rose Croix Scottish Rite Masons, and Nile Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., all of Seattle; Centralia Council, Centralia, Mo.; Dallas Consistory, Dallas, Tex.

ROBERT EDWARD BARRETT

Address: Holyoke Water Power Co. of Holyoke, Mass.

Occupation: Treasurer and vice-president.

Married: Grace LeBaron Esty, Framingham, Mass., June 13, 1908. Children: Robert E., Jr., May 12, 1909; Dorothy Le Baron, Oct. 27, 1913; Frederick Park, July 5, 1916.

IN June, 1915, I was appointed acting chief engineer of the Mass. State Commission known as the Directors of the Port of Boston. This position was held until the Commission was abolished by Act of the Legislature, which became effective in July, 1916.

In this position I was in engineering charge of important harbor investigations, design of harbor structures, including several piers and the 1200-ft. graving dry dock at So. Boston.

Actual construction work included the completion of the Commonwealth Pier at So. Boston and the dredging, filling and excavation for the dry dock as well as other minor structures and much harbor dredging.

From Aug., 1916, to April, 1917, I was associate engineer to the firm of Fay, Spofford and Thorndike of Boston, engaged principally upon investigations and reports on large engineering projects.

From April, 1917, to Feb., 1920, was construction engineer for Turner's Fails Power and Electric Co., in charge of the construction of a 40,000 h.p. steam turbine electric power station on the bank of the Connecticut River at Chicopee, Mass. Also constructed high tension tower crossing of Connecticut River at Springfield — also a substation to transform and convert 66,000 volt alternating current to direct current to supply the Springfield Street Railway System with all its power.

During the above period I held the position of general manager and chief engineer of the Conn. River Conservation Co., engaged in the construction of dams and reservoirs at the headwaters of the Conn. River for the purpose of storing freshet water to be released during the summer for the benefit of the large water power developments on the river.

I was at the same time general manager and chief engineer of the Essex Storage Electric Co. of Vermont, and engineer of the Mascoma River Improvement Co. of Lebanon, N. H., both of which companies were engaged in the same kind of development work.

On Jan. 14, 1920, I was elected vice-president and treasurer of the Helvoke Water Power Co., and began my duties there on Feb. 1,

Member: American Society of Civil Engineers; Boston Society of Civil Engineers; Middlesex Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

Married: Helen Bartlett Maxcy, Wellesley, Mass., July 9, 1919.

Died: July 21, 1920, at Gardiner, Maine.

WAS a landscape painter, and spent, as his report indicated, the years from 1915 to 1920 in a quest for two things: health and paintable landscape. He reported that of the first he found but little; of the second he found more than he could use. His report also indicated that he spent his summers in remote parts of the Catskills or Berkshires, and his winters in the mountains of North Carolina or the Arizona Desert.

Address: 206 Pine St., Lowell, Mass. Occupation: Congregational minister.

Married: Ethel Gertrude Merrill, East Orange, N. J., April 25, 1912. Children: Merrill, March 16, 1913; Mary, June 16, 1916.

THE experiences of a minister of the Gospel are as diverse as the colors of Joseph's coat, for some of which his brethren may well envy him, while for others they need feel no jealousy. No career is more filled with most intimate revelations of human nature, the most interesting and valuable thing on earth, so I envy no man his job. The unexpected is forever adding spice to our lives and the unexpected came to us quite suddenly in our former parish when it became my duty, as minister of the prophetic message, to take an unpopular stand in a community crisis. This was like stepping on a high-explosive shell, and after the upheaval we found ourselves in Highland Congregational Church, Lowell, where we are plodding along the regular furrows, planting the seed of our high calling and reaping as the seasons come. But ever as we stumble along come whispers of great joy which we would it were possible for all to share.

War Record: Was a speaker for the Y. M. C. A., and also for the "Four Minute Men."

Have written: "Why we have faith in Massachusetts"; our governor, Calvin Coolidge, gave me the privilege of a recent interview which appeared in "The Congregationalist" under the above title.

WING to continued ill health I was not able to attend to my business and in the Spring of 1918 I underwent a major operation. During the following Summer and Winter I was unable to do anything except try to regain my health, and was just about succeeding in getting in fine trim this past Summer and early Winter, when I got influenza and a mild attack of sleeping sickness. I hope to be over both by the time this is published.

I gave up my life insurance business, and in the Summer of 1919

I became sales manager for a small steel company.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Gladys May Blunt, Livermore Falls, Me., April 21, 1908.

TN 1916 and 1917 I was chairman of the Finance Committee of Lexington, Mass., retiring from the committee upon my removal to Cambridge. During the past few years I have been giving particular attention to the corporation and banking branches of the law. In 1916 I was instrumental in organizing the Lexington Cooperative Bank, and in 1919 helped to form the Back Bay Cooperative Bank, and the Hampden Cooperative Bank of Springfield. Am a director in these three banks, and am also a director in the Back Bay National Bank of Boston and the West Springfield Trust Company of West Springfield, Mass. Last year our increasing law practice in western Massachusetts required the opening of a branch office in Springfield. Am treasurer and one of the trustees of the Commonwealth Securities Trust and director of the Finance Corporation of New England, both financial organizations in Boston. In 1918 served as president of the Massachusetts Universalist Convention, and since that time have been its treasurer.

War Record: Worked with the Legal Advisory Board, District 4,

Occupation: Cotton merchant.

Married: Frances Constance Folsom, Lenox, Mass., Dec. 27, 1913. Children: Cleveland, Jr., Oct. 20, 1914; George Folsom, June 25, 1916.

CONTINUED the practice of law until April, 1918, when I received an offer to engage in work for the U. S. Shipping Board Recruiting Service. This offer I accepted and became supervisor of agents in the Sea Service Bureau, which position I held until Sept., 1919. During this time I was in constant touch with the labor situation as it affected the operation of our new merchant marine, and had my first experience of the difficulties and trials attendant upon attempted co-operation with organized labor. The Sea Service Bureau (of which for a long time E. C. Hovey, Jr., '05, was chief) had charge of supplying officers and men for the Shipping Board vessels, and at one time we were placing upwards of 12,000 men per month on vessels. Our work was nearly always under high pressure and most exacting, but I think I can say that no vessel was delayed in sailing for any appreciable time on account of lack of men, if our Sea Service Bureau was informed of the situation. Upon leaving the Shipping Board service I decided not to return to the practice of law, and after a good long vacation, I became connected with the firm of Stephen M. Weld and Co. of Boston, cotton merchants and buyers, where I now am.

War Record: Served as chairman, and later as member of committee, Bureau of Entertainments, Boston Metropolitan Chapter, American Red Cross; was supervisor of agents for the United States Shipping Board, Recruiting Service, from April, 1918, until Sept., 1919; assisted Legal Advisory Board, district number 9, Cohasset, Mass., as associate member; enlisted as private, First Motor Corps, Mass., State Guard, Boston, Mass.

Member: Harvard and Somerset Clubs, Bar Association, and Marine Museum, of the City of Boston; Cohasset Yacht Club.

Occupation: Officer, U. S. Army.

Married: Lucille Durant, Boston, Mass., Oct. 24, 1906. Child: Haskell Clark, Jr., Sept. 27, 1907.

FROM July 1, 1915, to Jan. 5, 1916, was in the service of the municipality of New York City connected with the Health Department. On Jan. 5, 1916, left New York and going to Canada was commissioned as 1st Lieutenant in the Canadian Expeditionary Forces on Jan. 7. For my record since that date see war service record.

War Record: Served with Canadian Expeditionary Forces from Jan. 7, 1916, to Sept. 15, 1917, when I joined the United States Army; am still in the service. While with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces I served with the 97th Overseas Battalion, 212th Overseas Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Reserve Depot, and 7th Reserve Battalion; held the rank of 1st Lieutenant, Canadian Expeditionary Forces, from Jan. 7, 1916, to June 5, 1916, and Captain, Canadian Expeditionary Forces, June 5, 1916, to Sept. 15, 1917. Assigned as Captain, United States Army, on Sept. 15, 1917, to Ft. Oglethorpe Training Camp; as Bayonet Instructor, 2d and 3d Service Camps; as Commanding Officer, Headquarters Co., Central Officers' Training Camp, Gordon, Ga.; and as Field Representative, Office of the Asst. Secretary of War.

At present I am Officer in Charge, Western District Office, Service and Information Branch, War Plans Division, General Staff.

During the Winter of 1917 I saw service at Messines Ridge operations; was wounded on March 17, 1917. My acitivities were at different times in Canada, England, France, Georgia, Connecticut, and California.

Was a member of New York National Guard from 1905 to 1916. Have written: "Hand to Hand Fighting," published by Geo. Banta and Sons, Menasha, Wis.

Married: Margaret G. Grafine, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 2, 1908. Children: Barbara, Aug. 16, 1909; Garrett, Jan. 10, 1911; Rodney, June 2, 1918.

RECENTLY I have been working on dynamical questions and have just received the Querini-Stampalia prize of three thousand liras from the Royal Institute of Venice for my work in this field. Also I have been elected vice-president of the American Mathematical Society and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science during the last year.

War Record: As mathematician I was called upon to consider some problems connected with the submarine situation. On account of this work and the necessity for teachers of mathematics at Harvard, I felt that I ought not to accept the position of scientific expert at the Proving Grounds, Aberdeen, Md., which was offered me by the War Department, and thus remained at Cambridge during the war.

Have written: Various technical articles in mathematical journals here and abroad.

Member: American Academy of Arts and Sciences, National Academy of Sciences, American Mathematical Society, and other similar societies; Harvard Club of Boston.

4 Marren Barton Blake

Born: Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26, 1883.

Parents: Barton F. Blake, Mary Manning.

School: De Lancy School, Philadelphia, Pa.

Unmarried.

Died: Nantucket, Mass., Aug. 19, 1918.

(The following appeared as an editorial in "Collier's Weekly," Sept. 21, 1919, written by Lucian Cary.)

WARREN BARTON BLAKE, who contributed to these pages almost every week during the last four years, was drowned off Sankaty Head, Nantucket, in August. The loss to American journalism is a very special one. There are so few men whose minds are as thoroughly cultivated as his was; and of these only the rarest have the vivid interest in what is going on in the world that journalism needs. Blake went from Harvard to the Sorbonne; he fell in love with French culture and with the Irish countryside. He walked in Brittany and talked in Dublin and dined in Paris and listened beside peat fires. He wrote gracefully about the things he had read and the things he had seen. He wrote honestly. He managed somehow to know those things that require a delicate and sophisticated taste, and at the same time to follow the course of American politics. He bridged the gap that has obtained in America between educated men and practical men. Blake was deeply concerned for France when the war began; he saw the duty of America earlier than many Americans, and he wrote what he felt. When finally the United States declared war, Blake went to a recruiting office and offered himself as a private in the ranks. It is characteristic of him that none of us at "Collier's" knew he had tried to enlist until after his death. The loss to the members of "Collier's" staff is a poignant one. He had the Old World conception of living as a fine art. He brought us what all Americans need so much - a reminder that life is something more than a career. We who knew him do not quite know how to do without the shy eagerness and the friendliness and the generosity that was Blake.

ROBERT ERASTUS BLAKESLEE

Address: (home) 8 Bemis Rd., Wellesley Hills, Mass. (business) 30 State St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Caroline Russell Brackett, Newton, Mass., Jan. 7, 1909. Children: Robert Willard, Jan. 14, 1910; Frances Elizabeth, April 23, 1918.

To those of us who were obliged to watch the war from "over here," there really can be little of general interest to include among the records of those who really participated in the struggle. I joined the First Motor Corps of the Mass. State Guard, but our duties during the war were confined to street parades and summer camps. It was not until the Boston Police Strike in Sept., 1919, that I had a taste of military life in the form of 3 months' "tour of duty." This began with the great "Battle of Scollay Square." Afterwards came patrol and guard duty. Then the Corps was assigned the duty of regulating the street traffic throughout the city and I became a traffic cop. Standing on street crossings, in the majesty of the law, I stopped and started more automobiles than I had imagined ever existed. It was a most interesting experience, although every one was glad when relief came.

War Record: Worked with local committees for Red Cross and

Y. M. C. A. war work drives, and in sale of Liberty Bonds.

Enlisted in Wellesley Town Guard, April, 1917; enlisted in First Motor Corps, Mass. State Guard, July 25, 1917, as private; received warrant as Corporal, April 12, 1918, and as Sergeant, March 20, 1919. Was on duty during police strike in Boston from Sept. 10 to Dec. 6, 1919, most of the time acting as a traffic officer.

Member: Harvard Club of Boston; Mangus Club, Wellesley Hills, Mass.; Single Tax League; First Motor Corps; Mass. State

JOSEPH VICTOR BLANCHET

(permanent) Worcester Academy, Worcester, Mass.

Occupation: Teacher.

Married: Alice Georgianna Valcourt, Fall River, Mass., June 30, 1907.

A FTER occupying the position of headmaster of the French department and assistant in Latin at Chestnut Hill Academy, Chestnut Hill, Pa., for ten years, I came to the Taft School, Watertown, Conn., as instructor in French, where I have been since Sept., 1916. I shall leave my present position in June of this year and, beginning in September, assume the duties and responsibilities of the entire French department in the Worcester Academy, Worcester, Mass.

HENRY VAUGHAN BLAXTER

Address: (home) 5723 Darlington Rd., Pittsburg, Pa.

(business) 311 Oliver Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Isabell Sloan Kennedy, Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 16, 1908. Children: Robert Henry, May 17, 1910; Dorothy Bonbright, May 24, 1913.

SINCE July 1, 1915, I have been plodding along in the practice of law, in the opinion of my friends, deteriorating as lawyer, in my own opinion, improving somewhat as a business man.

From 1915 to 1917 I was a member of the law firm of Lazear and Blaxter, engaged in the general practice of law. Since April 1, 1917, I have been in business for myself, practicing law and becoming increasingly engaged in general business matters. At the present time my work is nothing if not diversified, and my classmates may be amused to know that in addition to my general practice of law, I am a director in a bank, vice-president of a theatrical company (not musical comedy), secretary of a steel company and vice-president of an oil company, which proves that Pittsburgh is still the workshop of the world.

The only office of trust that I hold is seeing that I account to my clients for any money I collect for them.

My chief office of honor is that I am the father of two children, one of whom is now headed for Harvard, and I am also a trustee of the Children's Hospital, in which I take a great deal of pride.

War Record: Throughout the whole period of its existence I helped with the legal advisory work, 14th Ward Draft Board of Pittsburgh.

RALPH HERBERT BOLLARD

Address: (home) 27 West 44th St., New York, N. Y. (business) 28 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Banker.

Children: Margaret Ellen, July 14, 1908; Katherine Florence, June 6, 1913

NONTINUED in the real estate mortgage loan business in Seattle, A Wash., until Dec., 1917, when I sold my interest in the firm of White and Bollard, Inc., to F. H. White, 1906, with whom I had established the business in 1910. For the year following I was engaged in the importing and jobbing of Japanese merchandise, serving as treasurer and manager of the Pacific Importing Co., whose principal office was also located at Seattle. On April 1, 1919, I became associated with Wm. A. Read and Co., investment bankers, and moved to New York City. My work is the investigation of proposed loans and investments, negotiations connected therewith, and occasionally representation of our firm in the affairs of concerns in which we have financial interests. Am writing this report from Europe, where I expect to be for the next few months, investigating economic and financial conditions and possibilities. It is an intensely interesting piece of work, but greatly regret that I probably shall not be back in time to attend the class reunion in June.

War Record: Served on various Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and Liberty Bond committees, and for a time as a member of the Washington Home Guard.

CHESTER CASTLE BOLTON

Address: (home) Richmond Rd., South Euclid, Ohio. (business) 606 Hickox Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

Married: Frances Payne Bingham, Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 14, 1907. Children: Charles Bingham, June 20, 1909; Kenyon Castle, March 28, 1912; Oliver Payne, Feb. 22, 1917; Elizabeth Castle, June 18, 1919 (died June 19, 1919)

FROM July, 1915, to the middle of March, 1917, my life was much the same as any of us engaged in commercial pursuits. I continued as assistant treasurer of the Bourne Fuller Company, large operators in steel and iron products, here in Cleveland, until going to Washington, at which time I severed all business connections. I attended the August and September Plattsburg camps in 1916, and was fairly active in military matters in Cleveland during the Winter of 1916. Since returning from service I have not taken up any special business seriously, but to date have interested myself largely in the American Legion, Endowment Fund, and local philanthropic work. I find it rather hard to shake down again, but must admit that I have a very strong desire at present to again become active in a business way, and for many reasons intend to very shortly.

War Service: On March 22, 1917, I was called to Washington to act as secretary of the Munitions Standards Board, a board appointed by the Secretary of War, of which Mr. F. A. Scott of Cleveland was chairman. This Board was convened primarily to standardize specifications and the manufacture of munitions of war. Within a very few days from its formation, however, the powers and scope of the Board were enlarged, as well as its personnel, and it became the General Munitions Board, which continued to serve and definitely co-ordinate the work of the Supply Bureaus of the Army and Navy until it grew into the more desirable and effective War Industries Board, which occurred in July, 1917. I continued as secretary of the Board, and at the same time chairman of the Clearance Committee of that Board, a committee which passed upon all purchases of the Army and Navy, with a view of determining whether or not such purchases would conflict and were properly coordinated. From this Committee grew the Priorities Board of the War Industries Board, although the work of the Clearance Committee continued, largely with reference to price matters, under the War Industries Board.

On May 28, 1917, I was commissioned Captain in the Ordnance Department, Officers Reserve Corps. Later I was transferred to the Ordnance Department, U. S. A.

In Nov., 1917, I was detailed to the office of the Assistant Secretary of War and acted as aide to Mr. Crowell until April, 1918. I was promoted to Lieut. Col., Ordnance Department, later, Lieut. Col., National Army, in Jan., 1918.

On April 15, 1918, I was detailed to the then embryonic Purchase, Storage and Traffic Division of the General Staff, under Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, and was given charge of the Requirements Branch of this Division, which had to do with the entire Supply Program of the Army, including munitions, and which grew to be a branch with a commissioned personnel of about one hundred officers.

In October of that year, I was detailed for a course of staff instruction at the War College in Washington, being one of three officers from civilian life, out of a class of about one hundred and eighty that undertook this work. At the completion of this course, which lasted about six weeks, I was ordered to Camp Shelby, Miss., as Assistant Chief of Staff (G 1) of the 101st Division, which had been organized from August and September drafts of Wisconsin and the States of the North West, and which Division had received its orders for sailing but had been held up, due to the influenza epidemic. I served with the 101st Division until the Division had been pretty well disbanded, or until Dec. 20, at which time I was ordered to Washington, and was detailed to the Operations Division of the General Staff. This work was of such nature, however, that I was able to apply for discharge very quickly and received my papers just before Christmas,— Dec. 18, 1918.

The above is the story of a misguided individual who was advised to continue in Washington when the officers' training camps were opened, and who followed this advice against his better judgment that service in the field was more desirable than that of supply, until it was too late for release from that service before the main show over there was practically over. I should like it to be known that I do not hold a commission in the Reserve Corps, and when the next war comes, my actions will be considerably different.

JAMES STUART BOND

(home) 1125 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, Md. (business) 312 Vickers Bldg., Baltimore, Md.

Occupation: Contractor.

Married: Clara H. Covington, Pocomoke, Md., May 18, 1916. Child: Eleanor Maud, Sept. 14, 1917.

I COMPLETED several sections of concrete roads for State of Maryland between July 1, 1915, and Sept., 1916. Then owing to war conditions closed office and was employed in Bartlett Hayward Co.'s shops until after the war. Returned to construction work and have done considerable sewer and sanitary work throughout this state up to date.

War Record: Was chief inspector of U. S. 75 mm. shrapnel for Bartlett Hayward Co. munition plant until April 20, 1918. Then on the road (Ohio) buying machinery for new plant for 155 mm. shells (made by same firm) until July, 1918. Given charge of repair, maintenance, and care of all machines in plant making 155 mm. shells. Continued in this position until end of contract, April, 1919, when returned to construction work.

HAROLD BOWDITCH

(business) 520 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Physician.

Married: Claire Sampson, Taunton, Mass., Aug. 5, 1911 (died March 6, 1916);
Mrs. Nancy Douglas (Brush) Pearmain, Oct. 25, 1916. Children: Martha Seaver, Sept. 13, 1912;
Henry Pickering, June 16, 1914;
George deForest, Feb. 4, 1919.

SINCE the last report was issued my life has run along the same old channels; I live in Brookline and practice wherever I can scare up a patient. Last Spring I bought a house near my former residence and spent the summer moving in, beating the furniture-movers' union by means of a wheelbarrow. Last Fall I carried on an interesting series of experiments in organic chemistry in my cellar; the end-products ought to be ready for inspection by June; all members of the class welcome, line forms on the left. Positions of honor and trust: for several years I was secretary and treasurer of the Brookline Medical Club, but they wouldn't accept my report until it had been audited, so that showed how much they trusted me; then they made me vice-president, which is surely a great honor; and now I am president, and there is certainly nothing but honor in the job. I had been second assistant visiting physician to the Boston City Hospital since 1916, and assistant in medicine in the Harvard Medical School for the same period.

War Record: Not engaged in military or naval service on ac-

Boston City Hospital.

I served on the board of examiners for the town of Brookline; at one time acting chairman of that board. Also one of the medical examiners for the S. A. T. C. in Cambridge.

Member: Harvard Travellers' Club; Æsculapian Club; American Medical Association; Mass. Medical Society; New England Pediatric Society; Brookline Medical Club; American Ornithologists' Union; Nuttall Ornithological Club.

DURING 1915 was manager, New England Fuel Oil Co.; in 1917 with Red Cross and Shipping Board; have been with Cochran

Harper and Co., 60 State St., Boston, since Jan., 1919.

War Record: Enlisted April 15, 1918, in the Royal Canadian Dragoons; served with the 71st Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, from date of enlistment until July 15, and from that date until Dec. 10, 1918, served with Reserve Battery, Canadian Garrison Artillery. Held the position of gunner, and served in Toronto, England, Frensham Pond, Willey and Borden.

Enlisted in U. S. Cavalry, Boston, accepted and sent to Ft. Slocum, where I was rejected as unfit. Enlisted at New York in the Royal Canadian Dragoons. On arrival in Toronto was transferred to Field Artillery. Preliminary training received at Exhibition Camp, Toronto; final training as gunner and battery commander's assistant, received in England at camps above mentioned. Was on draft for the front when armistice was signed. Received discharge in England, Dec. 10, 1918.

Married: Laura Louie Dodge, Boylston, Mass., July 1, 1909. Children: David Dodge, December 10, 1910; Grace Laura, May 4, 1912; Alva Ruth, May 17, 1915.

A T the time of issuing the last report I was principal of the Staples High School of Westport, Conn. I resigned there in June, 1912, to accept a position as teacher of physics and chemistry in the Worcester North High School, which was at the time a new school being built up. I became assistant principal of the school in 1917, as the school had then grown to eight hundred pupils. In April, 1917, I moved to Boylston, Mass., from Worcester (seven miles), and have since lived there, teaching in Worcester and commuting on a line of the famous Worcester Consolidated St. Ry. Co. I hold the position here of chairman of the school committee, chairman of the trustees of the public library and member of the town finance committee. I also serve as superintendent of a local Sunday school, and a trustee of the First Congregational Church and assistant scout master. The six above jobs are all thankless tasks that no one wants so I have them. "Better to reign in hell than serve in Heaven."

War Record: Served as chairman, United War Work Committee for Boylston, and as a member of each Liberty Loan Committee was Corporal, H Co., 20th Regt. Mass. State Guard, and was on duty during police strike in Boston (Sept. 9-Oct. 10, 1919); acted as member of Public Safety Committee of town during the war.

WALTER HINCKLEY BRADLEY

Address: (home) 20 Brimmer St., Boston, Mass. (business) 141 Milk St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Cotton Manufacturer.

Unmarried.

IN Dec., 1916, I went on a trip to the Far East with Fessenden Blanchard, '10. Blanchard and I had both received leaves of absence from our respective mills and made the trip for the American International Corp. and Messrs. Lockwood Greene and Co. We first visited many of the cotton mills in the industrial centres of Japan and then traveled through China, visiting Shanghai, Nanking, Hankow, Pekin, Tientsin, and numerous smaller communities.

In May, I left Blanchard in Shanghai and visited Manila, Hongkong and Canton. In June, 1917, we returned to Boston, sailing from Shanghai via Weihaiwei, Nagasaki, Yokohama and Victoria.

With the exception of this trip I was (since the 1915 report) actively engaged in cotton manufacturing until Feb., 1918, when I resigned and went to Washington to work under Major Ronald T. Lyman, '02, in the production of cotton cloth for aeroplanes and balloons. On Feb. 23, 1918, I was called to active duty in the U. S. Navy.

On June 6, 1919, I was relieved from active duty in the Navy and returned to the occupation of cotton manufacturing.

On Nov. 7, 1919, was elected treasurer of the Pepperell Mfg. Co. On Jan. 14, 1920, I was elected director of the Second National Bank of Boston.

War Record: Enlisted Feb. 23, 1918, as Ensign, U. S. N. R. F. Took passage at New York, March 29, 1918, on S.S. "St. Louis," and arrived at Liverpool on April 7, 1918. On April 13, 1918, reported on U. S. S. "Birmingham," then at Devonport. May 7, 1918, detached and reported U. S. C. G. "Seneca," at Devonport. May 16, 1918, detached and reported U. S. C. G. "Algonquin," at Devonport. June 5, 1918, detached and reported U. S. S. "Nahma," at Gibraltar.

Served on U. S. S. "Nahma" as a senior watch and division officer. The "Nahma" was engaged in convoy escort work. The convoys we escorted ran from Gibraltar to Bizerta (near Tunis) and back — and from Gibraltar to Genoa and back.

On Armistice Day we operated on the barrage across the Straits of Gibraltar, trying to prevent hostile submarines from gaining the open sea.

In Dec., 1918, we went to Marseilles and there took on board a relief crew for U. S. S. "Scorpion." We then proceeded to Constantinople via Malta. After spending about ten days in Constantinople we went to Salonika for about another ten days. Thence we proceeded to Corfu via the Corinth Canal. After about four days in Corfu we proceeded to Taranto, where Adm. Mark L. Bristol made us his flagship. In about four days afterwards we again proceeded to Constantinople via Malta. In Feb., 1919, we made a brief visit to the Roumanian port of Constanza and then returned to Constantinople.

On Feb. 24, 1919, I was temporarily detached and proceeded via U. S. S. "Mercurius" (a former Dutch cargo ship) to Smyrna, Turkey, where for the next three weeks I acted as U. S. Naval Port Officer. My trip back to Constantinople was made overland to Panderma and thence by steamer. I reported to the "Nahma" on March 21.

Early in April we were ordered to Odessa in order to rescue our consuls from the Bolsheviki. We were there about four days, during which time the city fell into the hands of the Reds. From there we proceeded to Sebastopol and remained in that city for about five

About April 12, 1919, we returned to Constantinople and almost immediately proceeded to Taranto. But on the way we had an opportunity to anchor off the tip of the Gallipoli Peninsula and explore the earthworks.

April 18, 1919, I was detached from U. S. S. "Nahma" and proceeded home via Rome, Paris and London, arriving in New York on S.S. "Saxonia" on May 30, 1919.

June 6, 1919, went on the inactive list at Charlestown Navy Yard. Member: Somerset, Tennis and Racquet, Union Boat, Exchange, and Harvard Clubs of Boston; Harvard Club of New York,

FIVE years ago found me serenely practicing law in the City of Brotherly Love, where, just to show how little there is in a name, the legal profession does a lot of hard work for the Brethren: — likewise for the Sistern.

When war was declared in 1917 these bloodless contests suddenly lost their interest, and I selected the navy, for I had found a way to immediate action in that service. For the next twenty-two months I was on sea duty, for about twenty always on small boats, converted yachts, and submarine chasers. Promotion came and greater responsibilities, which were worth while in war time, but which were tiresome after the armistice. The appearance of the German submarine off our coast caused a cancellation in our sailing orders for foreign waters, and we ended up in the Gulf of Mexico, after some strenuous chases. We had a shot at him once while on convoy duty, which is some consolation.

Since the blessings of Peace have returned, I am back at the old stand.

War Record: Enlisted April 21, 1917, in the U. S. Navy, and served until Feb. 21, 1919, on the U. S. S. "Tacony" (S. P. 5), as commanding officer, with rank of Ensign, U. S. N. R. F., on the U. S. S. "Tern" (S. P. 871), as commanding officer, U. S. S. "C-69," holding rank of Ensign and Lieutenant, j. g., and as commanding officer of group II, division O, submarine chasers. Was located at Fourth Naval District on coast defense activities, at New London, when work of fitting out a new boat was in progress, and with the Atlantic Fleet, American Patrol Detachment, on work of submarine chasing and convoying in Straits of Florida and on the U. S. coast.

Except for about two months fitting out a new boat, my naval duties were at sea. The division of submarine chasers to which my boat belonged had received its sailing orders for Bermuda, the first leg of the trip across, when the presence of the German submarine on our coast led to the hurried organization of a squadron to hunt it down, and to convoy troop ships away from our coast. On this duty the submarine attempted an attack. Later this squadron was disbanded and my boat was made part of a force to guard the entrance to the Gulf of Mexico.

CINCE writing my "class life" for the Decennial Report in 1915 very little outside the regular routine of life has happened except what is included in my war service record. In 1915 I was deputy treasurer of Harvard College, and continued in that position until I left Boston for Washington in Aug., 1918. After I had finished Red Cross work in Aug., 1919, I took a short hunting trip in Canada, and on returning to Boston found that the police strike had taken place about three weeks before. I therefore had the new experience of acting as "traffic cop" on a crossing, heavily armed and in State Guard uniform, for about two months until the traffic squad of the new police force had been recruited, and trained. The latter work was done to a large extent by the First Motor Corps, Mass. State Guard, the organization I was serving with. Since serving in the State Guard I have again become deputy treasurer of Harvard College, a trustee of the Boston Floating Hospital, a member of the board of managers of the Farm and Trades School, a manager of the Boston Provident Association, and a vestryman of King's Chapel, Boston.

War Record: Enlisted Aug. 2, 1918, with External Relations Branch, Purchase Administration Division (Q. M. C.), as 1st Lieutenant, O. M. C. (Liaison officer), at Washington, D. C., and served with them until Nov. 25, 1918.

Served as director, Bureau of Circulation, N. E. Division, American Red Cross, from Aug. 1, 1917, to Aug. 1, 1918, and as assistant director, Bureau of Communications, Nat'l Headquarters, American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., from Feb. 18 to May 1, 1919, and as director, Bureau of Canteen and Motor Service, New England Division, American Red Cross, from May 12 to Aug. 1, 1919.

Enlisted as private, First Motor Corps, Mass. State Guard, in June, 1917; resigned in Dec., 1917; reenlisted on Oct. 4, 1919, and served until Dec. 4, 1919.— this latter enlistment as traffic policeman after Boston police strike.

Married: Phyllis Marian Wyatt, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 15, 1913.

A FTER leaving college I studied law, graduating from the Harvard Law School in 1908. I was admitted to the Illinois bar in the Summer of 1908, and entered the office of Peckham, Packard, Apmadoc and Walsh. In 1910 I was admitted to membership in that firm, and during the same year was appointed attorney for the First National Bank of Chicago and the First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago. I have continued to devote practically all my time to the work of the two banks since 1910, although I am a member of the law firm of Miller, Starr, Brown, Packard and Peckham. I am a director and officer of the First National Investment Company.

PARKER RICHARDSON BROWNE

Address: (home) 1865 Beacon St., Brookline, Mass. (business) 60 Federal St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Insurance broker.

Married: Agnes P. Dickinson, Malden, Mass., Feb., 1918.

FROM July 1, 1915, until May 1, 1917, I was manager of the automobile fabrics department of the United States Rubber Company. During this period there is nothing of general interest to report except that I attended the first "Business Men's Camp" at Plattsburg in Aug., 1915.

In May, 1917, I attended the first regular Plattsburg Camp and from then on I was continuously in the Army until May, 1919. While at Plattsburg I suffered the greatest loss I have ever known in the death of my beloved father. My father was within a week of eighty-two years old and was a Major of Infantry in the War of the Rebellion.

While still in the army I was married. For the benefit of the curious I will state that our marriage was delayed rather than hastened by the war. Now for the first time I am able to understand the patronizing attitude of the married men toward the "singletons."

After leaving the Army (my own job having been somewhat "shot to pieces" in my absence) I went to work for Monks, Goodwin and Shaw, insurance brokers. Most of our business is marine insurance and I like it very much for I have always had a strong inclination for all that pertains to the "briny deep."

War Record: Spent the usual three months at the first Plattsburg, after leaving which I was sent to join the 303rd Infantry at Camp Devens. I was in command of "D" Company of the above from Sept., 1917, until the armistice. July 5, 1918, we sailed for France via Montreal on the "Burma," an old Henderson liner. The balance of the time until the armistice was spent either at army schools or in getting ready for the "front," which never arrived for Company Commanders. Many of our Lieutenants got up with other units as well as most of our men. In spite of the fact that we did not get up as a regiment I shall always permit myself to believe that we would have performed creditably if we had had the chance. It may be of interest that when we went overseas ten out of fifteen Company Commanders and two out of three Battalion Commanders were Harvard men. Bob Winsor was one of our Company Commanders ("E" Company) and I don't believe there was a harder working or more efficient Company Commander in the Division. At any rate his company got the highest rating of any other in the divisional tests for "imbibed knowledge." Incidentally it was a great pleasure for me to have Bob around to talk things over with occasionally.

I joined the 101st Infantry Dec. 1, 1918, and came home in command of "E" Company, early in April, 1919. Was discharged May 1.

Member: Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York.

Address: (home) Chapel Hill, N. C.

(business) University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Occupation: Teacher.

Married: Beatrice A. W. Zender, Brooklyn, N. Y., June 30, 1911.

BUT little to say since last report. I left my job of teaching to enter the army for "The Big Adventure," on which I got left, as I was kept in Camp Gordon until a perfectly good war was spoiled by the armistice. Then I was transferred to Washington, where I engaged in skirmishes with boarding house profiteers, and street car packing companies. Incidentally, was abused with other unfortunate left-behinds by congressional patrioteers calling us "swivel-chair warriors fighting the Battle of Dupont Circle." Finally I escaped by discharge and spent the hot months cooling off in Berkeley, Cal., earning certain needed simoleons — in academic parlance an honorarium — conducting a military physical training course in the summer school of the University of California.

In the Fall I became a professor in the University of North Carolina. Haven't got over the habit yet of looking suspiciously at any one who calls me "professor." Houses being scarce, we moved into a deserted house locally known as "The Old Rectory," but renamed by the present shivering occupants as "The Old Wrecktory."

War Record: The day after war was declared, I made application for an appointment in the army. In Feb., 1918, I was appointed Athletic Director on the Staff of the Commanding General, 35th Div., at Camp Doniphan. Gen. Wright asked that I be sent overseas with the Division, but when we reached the port of embarkation in April, the authorities in Washington, disregarding both the General's and my own desires, ordered me to Camp Gordon instead. There I was made physical training officer and athletic director of the camp and commissioned as Captain.

Eventually a complete and well functioning organization from the director of physical training and athletics at headquarters, through regimental and company athletic officers to platoon athletic leaders was built up. A school of physical training was organized and later combined with the bayonet school of which I was eventually made commandant.

We started with an instructing force of eight officers and a class of about one hundred officers. When the armistice was signed we had an instructing and supervising force of sixty officers (including twenty-five sergeants) and about fifteen hundred non-coms and officers receiving instruction.

Washington ordered physical training officers, athletic directors, boxing instructors, and hand to hand fighters from every camp in the country to our school to receive courses of instruction. These men returned to their own camps to put similar courses and organization into effect.

The War Department sent photographers down who took movies of all the activities carried on at the school. Photographs of all the bayonet, setting up, boxing and hand to hand fighting positions were taken and filed at Washington, for use in compiling a manual of these activities.

In other words this school served as an emergency central school for the army in this country in the way of training the specialists needed in athletics and physical training. The signing of the armistice brought about the disbanding of this Bayonet and Physical Training School.

I was then transferred to Washington and put in charge of the physical training in the convalescent camps throughout the country, established for the care of our sick and wounded from over seas.

I was discharged in June, 1919.

Later I received a personal letter of appreciation from the Secretary of War for certain special work I had done in the army.

ROY BULLEN

Address: Logan, Utah.

Married: Annie Nibley, Logan, Utah, Oct. 20, 1911. Children: Josephine, Oct. 20, 1912 (died Feb. 21, 1920); Roy Nibley, March 2, 1915; Charles William, Jan. 15, 1919.

IN July, 1915. I was city engineer of Logan. Utah. and was also employed as manager and secretary of the Blue Creek Land Co., engaged in the business of reclaiming arid lands by irrigation. At present I am still acting in the latter capacity, and as manager of the Vitamin Co. of Logan, engaged in grain and flour business, of which company I am a director and part owner. Am also a director and a member of the executive committee of the Utah Condensed Milk Co.

From Jan., 1914, I continued to act as city engineer of Logan until April, 1917, at which time I was appointed Mayor of Logan by the City Commission, the former Mayor having resigned. Was formally elected to that office in Nov., 1917, and served until Jan., 1920.

War Record: As Mayor of the city I was instrumental in effecting the organization of the Logan City Council of Defence, of which I was a member. This Council consisted of a permanent central committee of twelve, and ten permanent ward committees of seven members each. These committees handled all work in selling Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps in Logan. The council also organized the Logan War Chest and operated it with extreme success in raising funds for the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and all other contributory organizations; it also acted very successfully in an advisory capacity with the Cache County Chapter of the Red Cross in the work of making and furnishing supplies, and in the same capacity with the Reserve Officers' Training Camp, which was conducted at the Agricultural College at Logan.

Josephine Brocker, Oct. 3, 1910.

ID not like the autocratic Prussian scholarship atmosphere of a part of the Wis, Exp. Station, so resigned in 1916 to become entomologist to the Idaho Experiment Station, where I also bettered myself. With the firing of the president and deans (and withdrawal of one-third of the faculty) by the notorious then Governor Moses Alexander, a worse period of Prussian scholarship atmosphere followed, and I resigned there in March, 1918, to render the Government such war service as I best could,—to save Wisconsin state wheat, etc., crops from insect destruction. With signing of armistice, went into research work, following up this war work at the U. S. Entomological Station, cereal and forage insect investigations, at Forest Grove, Ore., where I am eventually also bettering myself. Here all loval Harvard men are welcome.

War Record: Joined War Extension Service to increase crop production under Department of Agriculture at less salary than had been getting before. Family wholly dependent on my salary or I'd have done more. Bought all bonds I could squeeze funds for. Joined Protective League of County and drilled with University Cadets; was in the draft for the cavalry when armistice was signed. Served as one of the five-minute men in movie houses, at conventions, and fraternal meetings.

You can find what is commended of my work in the 1918 (pub. Jan., 1919) Biennial Report, Commissioner of Agriculture, State of Wisconsin; in Chief of Bureau of Entomology Report (my name not mentioned); and in the Monthly News Letters of Washington State Department of Agriculture for July and August, 1919.

FREDERIC CURTIS BUTTERFIELD

Address: (home) Washington State College, Pullman, Wash.
(permanent) 299 Pine St., South Weymouth, Mass.
Occupation: Assistant professor of music.

Unmarried.

FROM July 1, 1915, until June 1, 1918, I continued as asst. prof. of music at West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va. On June 1, 1918, I entered the war work and was discharged July 15, 1919. In Sept., 1919, I was elected an asst. prof. of music at the State College of Washington, Pullman, Wash. I am enjoying a very busy year, having charge of the Glee Club, composed entirely of ex-service men, directing the college chorus of over one hundred, and giving a large number of individual lessons each week.

War Record: I began my work as an overseas secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in New York, June 1, 1918. I sailed for Liverpool on the transport "Delta," June 19, arriving in Liverpool July 15; the time between was filled with a long wait at Halifax and zig-zagging slowly across the Atlantic. On July 18 I arrived in Paris. The following day I was transferred to the work with the French Army known as Les Foyers du Soldat. On Aug. 4 I left for the front and the afternoon of the 5th I was a few kilometers back of the Vesle River with the 5th French Army. Then followed four months of fascinating work in the most advanced stations maintained by the Fovers in that region. The entire month of August I did much liaison work with the 28th Div. of the American Army, which was immediately on the left. The month of November was perhaps the most thrilling, as I was stationed thirty-five kilometers east of Rheims in a very busy sector, where I worked among the soldiers of eight different nationalities and messed with the highest ranking French officer in the village. Col. Vachez, who put his cars at my disposal, came in on foot early on the morning of the 11th to announce the signing of the armistice. From Dec. until June I was the only American in the entertainment work with the French, having charge of a troupe of excellent artists from the Opera Comique and Paris Conservatoire, which toured the camps and a large part of Alsace-Lorraine and the French Army of Occupation in Germany. I carry unforgettable impressions of many delightful and unique hours with officers and men of the very brave French army.

Address: (home) The Hendrik Hudson, Riverside Drive, New York, N. Y. (business) The Cutler School, 755 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y. Occupation: Teacher.

Unmarried.

IN July, 1915, I definitely gave up the ministry. Studied and did special research work at Columbia University for six months, and then accepted the position of head of the English department at Hasbrouck Institute, a private school in Jersey City. In Sept., 1917, I resigned my position at Hasbrouck to accept a position to teach English and History at the Short Hills Private School, Short Hills, N. J. July 1, 1918, I temporarily stopped teaching, to "help win the war." During the first half of the year 1919–1920 I was a master at the Lawrenceville School, in the history department. At Easter, 1920, I accepted the position of head of the senior department at the Cutler School, 755 Madison Ave., New York. Have spent my Christmas vacations in Florida, and my summers in Maine — for the most part at Rangeley.

War Record: On July 1, 1918. I went to Washington to work with my classmate James Ford, who was then Chief of the Homes Registration Division of the U. S. Housing Corporation (the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation of the Dept. of Labor). For a year I was field agent in charge of the Pennsylvania District, which included New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania. I helped to establish local bureaus and housing committees in Newark, Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Camden, Tacony, Chester, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Easton, Wilmington, Baltimore, etc. The purpose of these bureaus was, first, to find suitable homes for the hundreds, and in some cases thousands, of men and women who came to these centres of industry to make munitions or to do other equally necessary work, and secondly, to deal with the whole housing question for the community in which the bureau was established. Rent profiteering committees were organized in many cities, to act as arbitration committees between landlords and tenants. The object of the Homes Registration Division of the Housing Corporation was to save the Government as much time and money as possible. This we did through the local bureaus (in each case supported by money raised for the purpose in the community) by using existing houses and other buildings and thus wherever possible obviating the necessity of building houses and barracks for the purpose of housing war workers.

Auxiliary Service: Government position. Chief Field Agent, Pennsylvania District, U. S. Homes Registration Division of the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation of the Department

(business) Winnsboro Mills, Winnsboro, S. C.

Occupation: Educational director at cotton mill.

Unmarried.

FROM July 1, 1915, to the time when I enlisted I was a member of the faculty of Blake School, Minneapolis, Minn. Since returning from France I have taken a position with Lockwood, Green Co. of Boston, as director of educational work at Winnsboro Mills, Winnsboro, S. C.

War Record: After taking a government course in radio, I enlisted May 1, 1918, with the 316th Field Signal Battalion, then about ready to leave Camp Lewis for overseas service. Shortly after enlistment, recommendation from Washington, on basis of the radio course I had taken, came to me to report for officers' training course in Maryland. I preferred to stay with the Battalion, for a good knowledge of French and German made the possibilities of immediate service seem most worth while. So I remained with the Battalion through its active service in St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, and Ypres-Lys, being appointed corporal in Oct., 1918. In March, following the armistice, I was assigned to the Sorbonne Detachment. In the matter of interpreting at all times, and at the front the opportunity to be a connecting link between the French and our own liaison, gave me real satisfaction. It was always a happy privilege to help other soldiers, through my knowledge of French, to understand and appreciate the true greatness and complete loyalty to the "Great Cause" which everywhere expressed itself in the lives and hearts of all French people, from peasant to statesman. Served with this detachment until June 30, 1919. Received discharge from service on July 21, 1919.

Married: Josephine Talbot, Newton, Jan. 15, 1912. Children: William Talbot, Dec. 3, 1912; Marjorie, Jan. 11, 1915.

SINCE the last class report I have been engaged in the rubber business as formerly. In the Spring of 1918 I resigned as manager of the Republic Rubber Co. to take up war work. On my return to Boston in March, 1919, I organized the Hewitt Rubber Co. of Mass. to handle the product of the Hewitt Rubber Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., in the New England States, and have served as president and treasurer of the company since.

War Record: From May, 1918, to Feb., 1919, served as executive assistant to manager of Supply Div., U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corpn., Philadelphia; worked on several committees to solicit Liberty Bond subscriptions; held rank of Sergeant, Co. A, 11th Reg., Mass. State Guard, from Nov., 1917, to May, 1918.

SINCE July 1, 1915, I have been largely engaged in business activities which have taken practically my whole time, and which are naturally of little interest to any one outside of it. Consequently, this can be passed over lightly.

I may say that the position I hold is that of assistant treasurer of the William Carter Company, manufacturers of underwear for all ages, with factories at Needham Heights and Springfield, employing about fourteen hundred people, and having a yearly production of approximately six million garments designed for comfort, durability and utility, articles of supreme importance in the daily life of millions of our people. What greater incentive in the line of material service to mankind could be desired! My work is best described as chief assistant to the president and treasurer, work that brings me constantly into contact with the activities of the entire business.

But lest any of my friends should get the idea that there has been no excitement connected with business during the past five years let me say that such is not the case. The pressure has been high not only from within but from without. To keep pace with all the growing pains of an ever increasing business is intensely interesting and calls not only for vigilance but for the closest application. The demands of the times as evidenced by government, state and town requirements, welfare work, increasing wages, high prices of materials, high selling prices, etc., etc., present problems appreciated only by those within the circle.

Recreation, of course, has not been entirely neglected. The automobile and I are fast friends and no opportunity is lost to get out over the road for an afternoon or evening drive, or a week end trip to the shore, the mountains or states not too far away. Then again I managed to squeeze in a trip to the South, West, and Honolulu, in 1917, which proved of great pleasure not only to myself but to Mrs. Carter also. Later on we hope to get away again, but whether this time to Tahiti, Europe or South America remains to be seen. Let those who have had experience advise me.

War Record: During the war the William Carter Company had several contracts for the Army and Navy, approximating two million shirts and drawers. The work of the company under its several contracts with the Government was done in a prompt and satisfactory manner so that as each contract approached completion the Government placed a new contract with the company and thus it had substantially continuous operation on government work from May, 1917. The satisfactory performance of this company as well as the personal assistance rendered by its officers put the company upon a basis of confidence with the government. The company extended its plants and manufacturing facilities for this purpose and in every way assisted the Government agents and co-operated with them to insure a steady supply of underwear needed for the prosecution of the war. The maximum production on this work reached approximately fifty-five thousand garments per week.

A M still with Waitt and Bond, who make the Blackstone cigar. The only change I've made was to go to Newark, N. J., last Spring, to get the firm's new plant ready to occupy. Several months later the Boston factory was closed and the Newark plant put in operation, where we make cigars by machinery.

I am living in East Orange and like it very well.

I have no war record other than we sent about 7,000,000 cigars to France.

JULY 1, 1915, found me in Buenos Aires on my first South American journey for the Southern Railway System, as their South American agent. On Aug. 21, 1915, I sailed from Buenos Aires for Punta Arenas on the Straits of Magellan on the steamship "Presidente Mitre," which was afterward fired on by a British man-of-war who suspected her of carrying contraband and fitting out German raiders. My own voyage on her was not without excitement and considerable danger at times. However, we saw all the principal Patagonian ports, including the famous Argentine oil wells at Canodoro, Rivadavia, and the historic place at San Julian where Sir Francis Drake stayed three hundred years ago. On Sept. 4 we reached Punta Arenas, Chile, the southernmost city in the world. So far as I know I hold the "farthest South" record of our class. After travelling through Chile, Peru and Ecuador, and passing through the Panama Canal, I reached the United States in Nov., 1915. Having twice seen the Panama Canal in construction it was interesting to observe and study the finished product. I was a delegation aide at the Second Pan-American Scientific Congress held in Washington, Dec. 29-Jan. 5, 1915-1916, having charge of the Uruguayan delegation. On July 29, 1916, I again sailed for South America, this time, in addition to my Southern Railway duties, as secretary to the Return Visit Committee to Brazil. appointed by Secretary McAdoo to return the visit of the Brazilian Financial Delegation to the United States on the occasion of the First Pan-American Financial Congress in 1915. We had a very interesting time in Brazil, visiting several places in the State of Minas Geraes as the guests of the Brazilian Government. After travelling through Urugu'ay, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Panama and Cuba, I reached the United States to find Wilson re-elected. On this journey I made the Transandine trip from Buenos Aires to Santiago de Chile by rail and found it beautiful and interesting. The Winters of 1915-16, 1916-17 and 1917-18 were spent on the usual railway routine in the United States, covering the country from Wisconsin in the north to all the Gulf States, frequently enjoying the hospitality of classmates in the various cities. I visited Clem Meier in St. Louis and Arthur Derby in New Orleans, to mention a few of many, always giving me a good time. The visits which I was instructed by the president of the Southern Railway System, Mr. Fairfax Harrison, to practically all the leading Southern universities and colleges to encourage the study of foreign trade and modern languages therein, were most enjoyable, and it was noteworthy how many Harvard graduates were to be found on their respective faculties. My connection with the Southern Railway System, which had begun April 1, 1914, ceased on March 15, 1918, just before I sailed to Europe to take up my war work. I shall never regret those four years, during which I learned so much about our own country, visiting thirty-seven of our forty-eight states. After my return from Europe I did some special work for the Department of Commerce in Dec., 1918, which I resigned when I was appointed manager of the Foreign Trade Department of the Corn Exchange National Bank of Philadelphia on Jan. 1, 1919, which position I have held ever since and where I find the work and associations most congenial — especially since I have so many classmates in Philadelphia, and our northern suburb of New York is only two hours away, where 1905 is also well represented. I continue as curator of South American history and literature in the Harvard College Library and have fortunately been able to give to and procure for the Library some books which may have helped their South American connections. I have also lectured at Princeton University in Nov., 1919, on South America.

War Record: Served as United States vice-consul at Berne, Switzerland, March 1-Nov. 15, 1918. Assisted in establishing the American Red Cross work at Basel, Switzerland, on June 24, 1918, when the American Red Cross took over the work of caring for the thirteen hundred repatriated French refugees who passed through that city daily. I also helped a little on June 4, 1918, at Buchs, Switzerland, when the American Red Cross took over the work of caring for the returned prisoners, mostly Italians, who were sent out of Austria. One Italian gave me a little coin in the train about fifteen minutes before he died, saying it was all he had and he gave it to me because he was so glad the United States had entered the war.

I arrived at Berne April 26, and left that city for Paris, Sept. 4. I sailed from Brest, France, for the U.S. on the U.S.S. "Henry R. Mallory" on Sept. 23, arriving Oct. 3 at New York, and found Alfred Chase on board as paymaster, which was a very pleasant surprise. While in Switzerland I visited every canton of that country except three and greatly enjoyed the beautiful scenery; I was also able to secure several books for the Harvard College Library, including one in the Romansch language, which is spoken in the Canton of the Grisons. It is said to be one of the first books printed in that language. On July 4, 1918, Frank Bohr (Michigan, '07), then vice consul at Zurich, and I celebrated that glorious day by lunching at Eglisan, a picturesque little Swiss town across the Rhine, on Swiss territory. We had Germany on every side of us, and Germans lunching in the same room! I was in Paris during several air raids, and met fully as many Harvard men in Europe as anywhere I had ever been. I had an opportunity to see and speak personally with at least forty English, French, Italian and United States former prisoners of war in Germany and to gather from them at first hand their various experiences — which made me more than ever a believer in preparedness for the United States of America.

Was officially commended for services rendered as vice consul at Berne.

Unmarried.

O'N my return to business life after war service I did not resume my pre-war connections with Wm. A. Read and Co. I am now with the Merchants' National Bank, Boston.

During the Endowment Fund campaign I represented the Committee in Lynn and vicinity. Have recently been elected secretary of the New England Federation of Harvard Clubs.

War Record: Enlisted June 15, 1917, as seaman, 1 cl., U. S. N. R. F., and assigned to U. S. S. "Scoter," a patrol boat of the First Naval District; on Aug. 23, was transferred to training camp at Bumkin Island, Boston, Mass., and on Oct. 17, assigned as Chief Yeoman, to Squantum destroyer plant, on cost accounting. On Feb. 10, 1918, received commission of Ensign, Pay Corps, U. S. N. R. F., under instruction, and served in this capacity until March 15 at U. S. Naval Pay Officers' School, Washington, D. C., and from that date until April 10 at U. S. Naval Auxiliary Reserve, New York. On this latter date I was assigned to U. S. S. "Calamaru" for naval transport duty, and on May 23, 1918, was transferred to U. S. S. "Mallory" for this same duty. Remained on the "Mallory" until Feb. 8, 1919, when I was detached from active duty and ordered home.

While serving on the naval transports I made eight round trips, to Brest, Bordeaux, and St. Nazaire. We dropped a few depth bombs now and then, but whether or not we got any "subs" is uncertain; it is certain, however, that they did not get us. Except for occasional excitement over a submarine scare, transport duty is rather monotonous while at sea, but exceedingly busy during the brief stays in port, especially for the Supply Department which the Pay Officers have charge of. Naval life, however, is interesting at all times, the traditions and customs of the Navy always being a source of interest, and frequently of trouble, too, for Reservists.

SINCE the last report in 1915 things have gone along very much the same, perhaps the most important event, to me at any rate, being the arrival of Bill, Jr.

During the war period I became especially interested in Y. M. C. A. work for the soldiers and sailors and later the S. A. T. C., becoming a director of the Boston Association.

Since the close of the war this interest has been transferred to the educational work of the Association as expressed in Northeastern College, of which I am now a trustee and director, and where we now have over five thousand men and boys, striving day and night for the degrees that will mean so much to them in later life.

The outcome of the many phases of war relief was the appointment six months ago of the Educational Service Committee with Gen. Ruckman of the Northeastern Division as chairman, for the granting of scholarships to ex-service men. I have had the privilege of serving on this committee since its formation and the eagerness and many times the great sacrifices of those men to obtain or continue their education is not only astonishing, but forces the conviction that the future is bright for this country, for Bolshevism cannot stand before education.

As far as my business life is concerned, I am still with the banking house of Estabrook and Co., where I have been associated since

In the realm of sports, golf still holds first place, and, outside of a few short hunting and fishing trips, has been my only relaxation. Golfing week ends, however, are proverbially short, and while they whet the appetite they afford little nourishment from the standpoint of results against the younger generation.

War Record: Tried to do my bit at home along the lines at hand, namely, Liberty Loan campaigns, War Relief, and Y. M. C. A.

T the date of the last report, I had been in charge of cataloguing and classifying in the Dartmouth College Library, for about five years. I continued in that position until Nov. 1, 1918; so that during the war I was situated where the evidences and opportunities connected with it were much less important than in and near the cities. Nevertheless we had our small part up there in the relief work, and our great part in the interest and discussion. Dartmouth herself contributed very greatly in her men and resources; very few did better among the colleges and universities.

While at Dartmouth I was for a time member of the executive committee of the Dartmouth Religious Society and a teacher in the Sunday school of the Church of Christ, the union church at the college. I also had use of the resources of a library of nearly one hundred and fifty thousand volumes, mostly well-chosen, but including rather an over-proportion of old theological works. This led to an increase in my interest in early American history, which was largely theological; my interest in later American history was being developed through my study of the life and speeches of Daniel Webster. I kept up my study of the classification of the social sciences, and laid the foundations for a considerable amount of future writing.

Just before the signing of the armistice I came to New York, to join the staff of the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery at Fifth Avenue and 57th Street. This library is one of the most notable collections of books in the world, every book chosen with reference to its rarity or its especial significance in the field of the collection, the scope of which is limited to English literature and American literature and history. The library and gallery are to go to California, and are given to the public by Mr. Huntington as a research institution. We expect to go to southern California in Nov., 1920.

CINCE last class report have been and am treasurer and manager of the Blake and Johnson Co., manufacturers and machine builders, Waterbury. Jan. 1, 1918, appointed commissioner, Board of Public Safety, City of Waterbury, completing two-year term. Reappointed Jan. 1, 1920, for two years. In June, 1919, appointed by Mayor to act as mediator in strike involving six thousand unskilled laborers in Waterbury. Oct., 1919, elected president of Chamber of Commerce, Waterbury, and in Nov., 1919, a director of Connecticut State Chamber of Commerce with an appointment as chairman of Dept. of Organizations. Summer home, Osterville (Barnstable County), Mass.

As I did not complete a full year in Harvard I question the value of these statistics to members of the class.

POR two years following July 1, 1915, I was practicing neurology in Boston, with positions as assistant neurologist at the Mass. General Hospital, consulting neurologist at the Robert B. Brigham Hospital, and assistant in neurology in the Harvard Medical School. I gave up practice at the end of May, 1917, expecting to be called into service on the first of June. This call, however, was delayed for a month and finally came on July second.

After twenty months overseas and three months more in this country after my return, I finally got my discharge on June 19, 1919, and went up to New Hampshire for the summer. Returned to practice and former positions in the Mass. General Hospital and Harvard Medical School on Sept. 1. The early part of October I also took position of consulting neurologist at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital at East Norfolk, Mass., originally a State hospital for alcoholic and drink addicts, but taken over during the war by the army for use as a Psychiatric Hospital and now being run as a hospital for discharged service men who have had a diagnosis made of epilepsy.

War Record: In the Spring of 1916, signed up as neurologist, ranking as 1st Lieutenant, M. R. C., with Base Hospital No. 6, the Mass. General Hospital Unit, organized originally for duty on the Mexican border. In the Spring of 1917, transferred from the old Medical Reserve Corps to the new Officers' Reserve Corps, with rank of 1st Lieutenant. On July 3, 1917, reported for active duty at Fort Strong, Mass., where our unit was mobilized. July 11, 1917, sailed for overseas. Arrived Bordeaux, via Liverpool, Southampton and Hayre, July 29, and took over a French Military Hospital.

When we first arrived there were no American troops and I spent the first three or four months as "Mess Officer." After the patients began to arrive I was relieved of this position and about Thanksgiving time had a two weeks' trip to a casualty clearing station near Bapaume which was at that time receiving large numbers of patients from a vicious German counter offensive in Bourlon Wood. The rest of the winter was spent on the general medical service of the hospital, taking care chiefly of pneumonia cases. In the spring, with a change of the commanding officer, I was made company commander in addition to having the responsibility of all neuro-psychiatric patients in the hospital, but later, owing to the demands made by the company responsibility, I was able to shift all Ward responsibility.

In July orders came, sending me for a period of two weeks to a French neurological ambulance or mobile hospital just back of Verdun. This hospital had only recently been evacuated as the French were rather expecting the Germans to break through in that area at almost any time and although we had very little medical work, we had a very interesting time, spending two days in the ruined citadel. From there I was sent to Base Hospital No. 117, at La Fouche, near Neuchateau, the American Neurological Hospital for functional disorders, and remained there from Aug., 1918, until Jan., 1919. This was the most interesting period that I had in France. When that hospital was broken up, I was re-transferred to my own unit in Bordeaux to return to the U.S., but just before they were to return, I was again transferred, in Feb., 1919, to Base Hospital No. 214, at Savenay, where I stayed for three or four weeks, working up nervous and mental cases to be returned to the U. S., and finally returned with a convoy of three hundred and fifty patients, landing at Newport News, March 13, Failing to obtain my discharge after a personal visit to Washington, I reported for duty at the U. S. A. Hospital No. 10, Parker Hill, Boston, on March 19 and was attached to the surgical service, under the direction of Major Cotton, who was working chiefly on peripheral nerve injuries.

This hospital was closed and I received my discharge on June 19, 1919. I had been promoted to the rank of Captain, M. C., on Sept. 14, 1918.

A FTER commencement in 1905 I made a trip around the world, doing a certain amount of shooting in England, India, and Ceylon, and traveling for a short time in Japan. In 1906 went into the office of Kidder, Peabody and Co., Boston, to study banking. Made an eight months' trip to Alaska in 1907. During this trip I looked into the coal fields on the Behring Sea coast at Herendeen Bay as well as other mining properties on the Alaska and Kainai Peninsulas. Was fortunate enough to kill an Alaskan grizzly bear, at that time the largest recorded by Roland Ward. I also got moose, caribou and black bear. Made a trip to East Equatorial Africa in 1910 and visited Meruland and the country north of Mt. Kenia. From the point of view of sport this trip was most successful and can heartily recommend a similar one to my classmates. Killed several lions, buffalo, elephant, and rhinoceros, as well as many kinds of antelope.

In 1911 was admitted to the bar and thereafter entered upon the practice of the law in New York City, where I was associated with Samuel Thorne, Jr.

During 1911-12 served in Squadron A, Cavalry, and took part in the interesting manœuvers in Conn. During 1913-14 served in the 2nd New York Artillery, as executive officer of E Battery and passed both U. S. Schools of Fire for Field Artillery.

War Record: In the Spring of 1914 I was to have gone to France. with letters from the War Department, for the purpose of studying French Artillery. I broke my leg at polo, however, and did not actually sail until Aug. 1, the day on which war was declared. I first went to Maastricht in Holland to see what I could of the German advance, then to Antwerp and thence to Paris. Worked in Paris for some time with the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly and then with the aid of friends in America, France and England, organized an Ambulance Column of my own which was attached to the Belgian Army. My Ambulance Column reached the front in Dec., 1914, and I served in command of it in various sectors until Dec., 1915. It became the field ambulance of the First Division of Cavalry. In Sept., 1915, was commissioned First Lieutenant in the Belgian Army, and in Nov. was sent to the 6th Battery of Horse Artillery then in action in the sector north of Dixmude. Later in the winter I again commanded the field ambulance of the I. D. C. and in the Spring served for a short time with the Cavalry (1st Regt. of Guides). In June, 1916, on the ground that I spoke English fluently, I got myself transferred to the 13th Artillery, which was loaned to the British 2nd Army at Ypres and was put on duty in the 3rd battery then in action at Dickebush Lake, in the 2nd Canadian Division.

This tour of duty in the salient was particularly interesting. I was sent to hospital in Sept. and did not get back to the front until Dec. In the Spring of 1917 I passed the Machine Gun, Grenade, and Sniping Schools of the Belgian Army and the Gas School of the French Army. In July, 1917, was promoted to the rank of Captain of Artillery and ordered to the 1st Regt. Almost immediately afterward, however, I was asked for by the A. E. F. and went on duty in the operation section at G. H. Q. I left G. H. Q. in Oct. and later took both the higher French courses in Artillery, that for Group Commanders and the Senior course for Divisional Artillery Commanders and Chiefs of Staff at Vitry le François. I was afterwards on duty with the French 157th Division in the sector north of Rheims for the purpose of studying the French system of Staff work. During the Summer of 1918 I was with the Italian Army and for a short time with the 1st Regt. of Italian Artillery on the Grappa. In the Fall of 1918 I returned to America, was commissioned Major, and sent as U. S. Military Attaché to Belgrade.

In May and June, 1919, I visited the Klagenfurt Valley in Southern Austria incident to the action of the Serb troops against the Austrians.

During the fighting between the Rumanian troops and Hungarian Bolsheviki in July and Aug., 1919, which resulted in the taking of Buda Pest, I was with the Rumanians. This was a particularly interesting and enjoyable occasion. From Buda Pest I motored to Montenegro to report on the general situation there, and particularly upon the fighting which was reported between the Serbs and the following of King Nicholas.

The remainder of the Summer of 1919 was a very busy one indeed because of the Adriatic situation and the activities of d'Annunzio. I spent several months in visiting and reporting upon the sections involved and again visited Montenegro and Scutari.

In the meantime I had been ordered to Rumania for a conference and arrived at Bucharest for Christmas. In Jan., 1920, was relieved as Military Attaché in Belgrade and ordered to Rome for a conference, and from there was ordered to Washington, but had a very interesting few days in Danzig on the way. I am at present on duty in the War Department, and hope to get leave for the quindecennial.

In your circular you ask what decorations we have received. I want to make it perfectly clear that mine represent no special merit on my part. In fact I know of several of my classmates who have done much more than I and who have received nothing. The decorations which I have received are simply the result of some six years in knocking about among seven different armies. They are: Chevalier of the Order of Leopold I with swords and palm — Belgian; Croix de Guerre, Belgian; Service Medal 1914-18, Belgian; Croix de Guerre, French; Commander Order of Saint Stanislas, Russian; Officer of the Order of the White Eagle, Serbian; Red Cross of Serbia; Commander of the Order of Danilo, Montenegrin; Order of Saint John, British; Consoladado, Panama; Victory Medal, Interallied.

Member: Harvard Travelers', Tennis and Racquet, and Union Clubs of Boston; Harvard, Squadron A, and Explorers' Clubs of New York: fellow, Royal Geographical Society, London.

TARRIAGE and the commencements of a happy family; the practice of the law; then the war, and the resulting loss of dear relatives and friends, including classmates,—these are events which must stand out in any humble narrative of my life which I can give.

Am still a member of the firm of Semmes, Bowen and Semmes, Baltimore. Until I entered the service, I had been for several years instructor in negotiable instruments in the law School of the University of Maryland. 1916-17 I was president of the Harvard Club of Maryland. At the present time I am a member of its executive committee. I am chairman of the executive committee of the Baltimore Alliance — an incorporated federation of the various charitable organizations of the city of Baltimore. In 1916 was appointed secretary of the Maryland Educational Survey Commission, which was charged by the Maryland Legislature with the duty of helping to bring about a better school system for the State, which I believe is being accomplished. Am also chairman of the State Americanization Committee, appointed by the State Board of Education.

When time permits am still an ardent follower of the hounds. I cannot conclude without expressing my thoughts about those whose faces we should so much love to see at reunion, but upon whose lips God has placed His finger.

It seems so strange that gallant lives like these All you intended noblest youth to be— Should be snuffed out, like candles in the breeze, Ere they could know the world, through them, was free.

Lo! God answers: "Taking My hand, each whispered this: 'Tell those I love these were my happiest hours; Death came as gently as my mother's kiss — My country called — God strewed the way with flowers.'"

War Record: Prior to entering the army, acted as assistant general counsel to the Alien Property Custodian, Washington, D. C., Nov., 1917, to April, 1918.

Enlisted in the United States Army on Aug. 29, 1918; admitted as candidate in Field Artillery, Central Officers' Training School, Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky.; while in training contracted influenza-pneumonia and was ill for two months, Oct. and Nov., 1918, at Base Hospital, Camp Taylor; discharged from the service on Dec. 15, 1918.

Of the nine thousand men who were taken ill at or about the same time as I, eight hundred we shall never see again. Among them was Oric Bates, of our class.

CINCE the last report I have continued to practice law in Boston, except during the war, when my practice was confined to occasional court-martial cases. I have continued to be greatly interested in social legislation and have built up the Massachusetts Child Labor Committee. I am also secretary of the Massachusetts Conference of Social Work, and president of the Monday Evening Club.

After I was married I lived in Groton until our regiment sailed in July. Since my return we have lived in Lincoln and have raised a large part of our own food, digging with true trench technique.

War Record: At the first Plattsburg camp in May, 1917, I was in the 4th Company, New England. Living and training for three months with such men was more of a brain push than the law school and more of a spiritual lift than the rest of the war. In Aug. I was assigned to the 76th Division at Camp Devens as 2d Lieutenant. We found the spirit of the selected men wonderful as we put them through the same grind of training that we had been through and removed the handicaps of factory and office life. I was in Major Benjamin Joy's battalion and his inspiration and enthusiasm led us through eleven months of training and organizing platoons which were sent across as rapidly as possible, while we kept on training new platoons.

In July, 1918, we sailed from Boston and in the centre of France our division was broken up and four-fifths of it sent forward as replacements. The rest of us were left to establish a new training centre. In a beautiful and peaceful river valley we built training fields, my job being to find, direct the construction of, rustle equipment for, and operate a rifle range adequate to train three thousand troops every two weeks. We had trained a few thousand by Nov. and convinced the Germans that we could train a few thousand more, when we were ordered to demolish the training fields. As we pulled down the masonry and trucked off our loads of targets and machinery and filled in the pits, leaving only the bridge we had built across the river, I heard a Corporal say, "Every shovelful you take out is coming right out of his heart." We got all cleaned up by Nov. 6, and were rushed forward as reserves for the final action, but in view of our previous record it was hardly to be expected that we would get into action. We were attached to the 41st Division and began training in close order drill to maintain discipline after the victory. I was detailed for a month in Brest as a personnel adjutant and made my escape in Jan., 1919, with rank of 1st Lieutenant, which I had received in Jan., 1918.

Unmarried.

N July 1, 1915, I was on duty in Washington, where I remained until detached May 9, 1917, to go overseas with the U.S. Naval Aviation Forces, Foreign Service. While in Washington I held various billets, disbursing officer, member of examining board for entrance and promotion, accounting officer, officer in charge, naval supply officers' school, inspector for the naval militia, etc. Returned to Washington Dec. 1, 1919. On Dec. 9, 1920, went to Norfolk as supply officer, Naval Overseas Transportation Service. Since Oct., 1919, I have been senior member, Board of Survey Appraisal and Sale, Fifth Naval District, for the disposal of excess and overseas material.

War Record: Served with the U. S. Naval Aviation Forces, in France, Italy, England, Ireland, and Scotland. Was engaged in the Battle of Paris (so-called), aerial and long range bombardment, and was an observer at fighting on Hindenburg Line between Cambrai and San Quentin. Recommended by French Ministry of Marine for Legion of Honor, and by Admiral Sims for Distinguished Service Medal: did not receive either one.

CONTINUED teaching at Longwood Day School, Brookline, until Sept., 1919, when I took charge of Lower School of the Choate School, Wallingford, Conn., in the absence for war service of the regular head. His return gave me the chance, which turned out peculiarly opportune, to take a trip to Palm Beach. While there I saw the development just starting in the Everglades, particularly in the raising of sugar cane. With a friend I optioned some land, returned north and the outcome was the organization of the Palm Beach County Associates to raise sugar cane and manufacture sugar. Last Fall we started active work cultivating. I am secretary and trustee of the Associates, and as we are still expanding I am still raising money though others are already raising cane,—sugar variety.

Occupation: Civil service, 1st grade clerk, Medical Dept., Q. M. C.

Married: Ella J. White, Ames, N. Y., June 23, 1909.

FOR a year and a half, we were forced to live with my wife's sick parents, and while there I helped run their farm. For a side line we invested in blooded Holstein-Friesian cows, testing them and thus giving them A. R. O. records. One cow, which made thirty-one pounds of butter in the seven day test, we sold for $1,200.

War Record: When the war began I came to Washington on Civil Service, and served in the office of the Quartermaster General, Medical Branch, Supplies Division, where I am likely to remain for some time. The war did not stop at six o'clock at the front, nor did it stop at that time in our office. We gave our overtime freely and unstintedly to our country's cause.

FROM July, 1915, to June, 1916. I was one of the assistant secretaries of the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York. I then went to the Mexican border with Troop D. 1st New Jersey Cavalry. Upon return I went back to the Trust Company and stayed till we declared war. After the war was over I became a partner of Parkinson and Burr and am located at 7 Wall St., New York City.

War Record: On May 2, 1917, I was commissioned Captain of Cavalry Officers' Reserve Corps and ordered to report for duty at the Officers' Training Camp, Fort Myer, Va. At the close of the Camp I was sent to Camp Lee and assigned to Company "H," 1st Provisional (Colored Infantry) Regiment. A few days later I was transferred and assigned to Company "A," 313th Machine Gun Battalion, 80th Division. I sailed for France with this organization on the 26th of May, 1918, landing at Bordeaux on June 7. The next three months were spent in various phases of training behind the British. During this time, I spent a month at the British Machine Gun School at Camiers and was attached to the Irish Brigade in the line near Metren for a week. On Aug. 28, upon rejoining the 80th Division, I was transferred and placed in command of the 314th Machine Gun Battalion. The Division was then moved to the American front; acted as Corps reserve during St. Mihiel offensive Sept. 12-16. It was then moved to near Verdun and on Sept. 26 was the center Division of the 2nd Corps in line on first day's attack of the Meuse-Argonne offensive. On Oct. 8, 1918, I was promoted to Major and assigned to the same Battalion. We were relieved on Oct. 12 and went to the rear to re-equip and get replacements. On the attack of Nov. I we were the right Division of the 1st Corps in line. On Nov. 8 we were relieved and went to the rear. After the armistice we were sent to the so-called 15th training area and I spent the next six months in the little village of Sennevov le Haut. I sailed from Brest on the battleship "New Jersey" May 24, 1919, landing in the United States June 7, and was discharged on the 12th.

THE period elapsing since the 1915 report has passed so quickly and quietly with me that I find nothing of importance to report. In 1915 I had the great privilege of taking part in the organization of the first Business Men's Training Camp at Plattsburg. Aside from that and two years in the army my life has been the uneventful career of the ordinary business man.

War Record: On May 14, 1917, I entered the First Officers' Training Camp at Ft. Myer, Va., and after being commissioned there as 2nd Lieutenant of Artillery, I was sent to Camp Lee, Va., and assigned to the 30th Division. Was promoted to 1st Lieutenant later. I assisted in the organization and training of the 313th Field Artillery (light) and as an officer of Battery F of that regiment served until we were mustered out in June, 1919. While at Camp Lee my B. C. called me in to his room to meet a new battery officer who proved none other than "Stew" Adams. From that time forward until on the first day of the big drive he let a Boche 77 m. explode between his feet "Stew" and I were boon companions. It was a joy to return and find him again sound of limb.

My organization sailed from Newport News on May 25, 1918, and after a quiet voyage debarked at Bordeaux on June 7. We spent the summer in training in Brittany. Early in Sept. we were ordered to St. Mihiel but arrived too late to take an active part in that engagement. Sept. 26 found us in position on the south slope of Le Morte Homme and from that time forward we pushed steadily northward until Nov. 11, at which time we were in position two kilometers south of Stenay.

War Record: Enlisted in the United States Army, June 13, 1917, to serve with Army Base Hospital 5, which had sent a request to the States for forty recruits, as they had taken over a British Hospital, No. 11, General, which had a much larger capacity than looked for, and which consequently required a larger working force. Sailed from New York, July 11, 1917, on H. M. S. "Aurania," reaching Liverpool, July 23.

Got to work July 30 in Dannes-Camiers, some fifteen miles south of Boulogne on the French coast. Here was located British General Hospital No. 11, which we ran till the first of November of that same year. With the exception of four or five huts, the whole establishment was under canvas. While at this location we underwent one serious air-raid, when we lost our adjutant, the first American officer killed in the battle area in France, and three of the enlisted men in our outfit. One patient was killed, and there were thirty other casualties. At this hospital we could care for about two thousand one hundred patients at a time.

In Boulogne, we took over British General Hospital No. 13, located in the city casino, directly on the shore. Here we were located over sixteen months. There was always plenty of work to be done, and the pressure was particularly great during the various drives. Though constantly under air-raids at this location, we fortunately escaped serious injury at the hospital. Sailed from Brest on the "Graf Waldersee," April 7, 1919, and received my discharge at Camp Devens, May 2, 1919.

BRONSON CROTHERS

Occupation: Physician.

Married: Alice Ames, St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 24, 1917.

ROM July 1, 1915, to Nov. 1, 1915, I led a placid life as a children's doctor and occasional teacher at the University of Minnesota. Then I entered the Harvard Surgical Unit and, except for two months in 1917 when I married, I have been as much of a soldier as a doctor behind the lines can be, up to July, 1919.

Since then I have been trying to learn a bit of medicine again.

War Record: Went abroad in November, 1915, with Second Harvard Surgical Unit and acted as medical officer in 22 General, at Boulogne and Camiers, France, and various British base hospitals. During the latter part of my service I alternated with George C. Shattuck as chief of the medical service. While in this service I held ranks of Lieutenant, Captain, and Major, R. A. M. C. (honorary).

In November, 1917, I relinquished my honorary commission in the British Army and returned home.

I was called into active service as Captain M. C. in Feb., 1918, and served at Camp Jackson, S. C., till appointed Major and ordered to join Evacuation Hospital 12, sailing on Aug. 13. We led a relatively quiet life, receiving wounded off and on from the St. Mihiel and Argonne battles; then went into Germany, and served at Treves and at Wittlich.

In Feb. I was transferred to the 7th Corps, Army of Occupation, as consultant in medicine until the headquarters were sent home. I was mustered out July 2, 1919.

Member: Various medical societies.

IN 1916 I became an executive officer of an advertising concern which promised to be the most successful in New England. I quickly discovered to my sorrow that this concern expected me to trade upon the many acquaintances which one would naturally make among Harvard men during nine years with the Harvard Alumni Association.

In July, 1917, through Gilbert Fuller. I met his brother, F. W. Fuller, general agent of the Equitable Life, whose wonderfully successful and respected career appealed to me so much that I cast my lot with him. That I am not sorry is evidenced by the fact that I lead his organization, himself excepted, in the production of business.

My work for Harvard continues. I still serve on one or two committees connected with athletics, and in respect to other work in the University. My interest in boys going through Harvard College, acquired during the days that I operated a boys' camp, is still a part of the pleasant association that I have with Cambridge.

War Record: Assisted in raising funds for Red Cross and Y. M. C. A., and always served on teams in the sale of Liberty Bonds. Acted with Town Board in the examination of candidates under the Selective Service Law.

THE embarrassing questions of the Class Secretary as to positions of honor and trust, etc., will be ignored—for cause. Since graduation, I have been with the same firm in the dry goods commission business, and cannot claim even versatility in employment. In 1916, I was admitted to junior partnership and am still cruising in the same ship. My spare time, like that of many others, has been devoted to the cause of universal military training as a permanent policy of our Government. As I write, it would seem as if there was a life time of work to be given to this before it becomes a fact — so, "Carry On!"

War Record: Enlisted May 7, 1917, in the United States Army, with rank of Captain, Inf.; received commission of Major, Inf., Aug. 15, 1917; assigned to 305th Inf., 77th Div., Aug. 28, 1917, and was with them until Oct. 28, 1918; assigned to 208th Inf., 77th Div., in Jan., 1919, remaining with them until May 10, 1919. Served at Plattsburg, Camp Upton, U. S. A.; engaged at St. Omer area in training, the Baccarat Sector, Oise-Aisne Offensive, and Argonne-Meuse Offensive, 1st phase, France; wounded slightly at St. Juvin, Oct. 16, 1918; discharged from service on May 10, 1919.

Ordered to active duty with the 2nd Co. N. Y. at Plattsburg, the war began for me by measuring Roger Lapham for shoes. After the hurly-burly of the training camps, a fall and winter at the stump and storm-strewn section of Long Island, known to the War Dept. as Camp Upton, where the 305th Inf. was organized, split up and reorganized, until one's good nature went where the dead crabs go; ten pleasant days at sea, bound for points north and east, and Holyhead rose out of the mists over the Irish Sea, like the business we were on, stern, uncompromising. A flight across England to Dover, where the "Vindictive" was just back from the raid at Zeebrugge, the usual channel crossing and we were in France, training with the British, learning British weapons and tactics, only to be sent at the end of a month to Lorraine with the French, with new weapons and the monumental plan of defense for the sector to perfect, over which we sweated blood and which was never used. "Enteuthen exelaunai" to the Vesle River by way of Château-Thierry where our work was cut out for us, and the rain began as we trailed brother Boche to the Aisne. Like the darkey mule driver, we found "La Belle France ain't nuthin' but mud and kilometers!" Excitement! I suppose there was some - somewhere. An advance presaged kaleidoscopic confusion worse confounded! "Heavens, look at that gang bunch up. Why don't that right platoon report progress — have we got any air service how long does it take the artillery to open fire - Lord, will that second line take cover — that left support company advances too fast - God, will that stream of wounded ever stop? " might flit through one's mind when "the general requests a sketch of your front line positions" and "Report to the Divisional Supply Officer the number of cans of marmalade received by each company on the 16th inst." and the telephone to the rear goes out. I suppose it comes under the head of excitement.

Relief on the Aisne by an Italian division with the air filled with rain and "spaghetti," after which we located a health resort known as the Argonne forest, on the northern edge of which, there descended in the downpour a crash on my helmet, the kick of a mule on the back of my neck, while I noticed my neatly crayoned map was smeared with mud and I was evacuated. Hospital at Beaune, the armistice, sick leave at Cannes, where the beauty of sea and sky is overpowering, a winter of terrain exercises and dull routine, the longed-for entrainment for Brest, grape fruit for breakfast on the transport and the war was over.

Married: Cornelia Strong Huntington, Milton, Mass., July 20, 1911. Children: George Huntington, July 25, 1912; Caroline, Dec. 9, 1916.

TAUGHT history at Constantinople College, Constantinople, 1915–1916; assisted in the American Embassy, Constantinople, 1916–1917, acting as courier between Constantinople and Berlin until the rupture of relations between the United States and Germany, and continuing between Constantinople and Vienna until Austria and Turkey broke relations with the United States. I taught at Loomis Institute, Windsor, Conn., 1917–1918.

War Record: From July 31, 1918, to Nov. 20, 1918, I was in the Military Intelligence Division, Washington, at work on the Near Eastern fronts, with rank of Captain, U. S. A. On Nov. 22, 1918, with eleven colleagues, I received orders to report to the Supreme War Council at Versailles. I reached Paris Dec. 6, 1918, and for the next six weeks was stationed there at 4 Place de la Concorde. Late in Jan., 1919, I was sent to Constantinople to be in charge of the Courier Service in the Near East, established in connection with the American Commission to Negotiate Peace, and was later appointed, in addition, Military Observer in Turkey. I returned to Paris in June, 1919, and on June 28 was present in the Galerie des Glaces at the signing of peace. On July 13, 1919, I sailed from Brest for New York and reached Washington for duty on July 22. I was demobilized at Camp Dix, N. J., on Oct. 22, 1919.

Married: Frances McWhinney, Chicago, Ill., June 13, 1914. Children: Helen Frances, Dec. 13, 1915; Raymond Elkins, Jr., Jan. 8, 1920.

IN 1915 went to the San Francisco Exposition with my wife, going by way of the Grand Canyon and returning through the Canadian Rockies. In August of each year I have taken a camping and canoeing trip with our esteeemed class-mate, Walter Egan, and wish to state that he is even better at fishing than he is at golf.

Since 1911 have been president and treasurer of Edwin T. Daniels and Co., an Illinois corporation doing a wholesale and retail coal and coke business in Chicago. In the spring of 1918 became interested in two coal mining companies and since then have enjoyed all the troubles which the Government Fuel Administration, Railroad Administration, miners and brotherhoods have been able to think of to heap upon those having the misfortune to be connected with the coal business.

War Record: Worked on committee of Chicago Coal Merchants Association collection of funds for Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., United War Work Fund, Salvation Army, etc., and Liberty Loans, 1917–19. Served as 1st Lieutenant, 16th Co., Depot Organization, Illinois Reserve Militia, 1917–19.

WILLIAM OSBORNE DAPPING

Address: (home) 81 Fulton St., Auburn, N. Y.

(business) Managing editor, The Auburn Citizen, Auburn, N. Y.

Married: Ina May Fairchild, Auburn, N. Y., June 3, 1911.

DON'T know that there is much to be said. I have climbed from reporter to managing editor, and have acquired an interest in The Auburn Publishing Co., which now controls the two Auburn papers, "The Auburn Citizen," and "The Auburn Advertiser-Journal." At forty it begins to look as if I may yet save enough in my remaining years of usefulness to have some leisure for fishing and writing after I have reached sixty.

War Record: At the outbreak of the war the owner of "The Auburn Citizen," Charles D. Osborne, '10, marched off to Camp Dix and left me responsible for the emergence of the paper through the wartime period. I have been a life insurance risk for twelve years and the draft would not have got me, anyway, even had the armistice not arrived November 11. I was a member of the Cayuga County Home Defense Committee, officer of the military census, member of the Red Cross Committee, an incorporator of the Auburn War Chest, Inc., which raised more than $400,000 for war charities from 16,000 persons in Auburn. Was official representative of the Treasury Department in Liberty Loan drives, and member of campaign committee which raised $52,000 in first Red Cross drive. Aided Vigilantes and all other forms of publicity work in government propaganda. Editorial in "The Auburn Citizen" on Fourth Liberty Loan won me certificate of distinguished merit from Editor and Publisher.

DONALD WALTON DAVIS

(business) College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va.

Married: Katherine Myrl Bressler, So. Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 7, 1907. Children: Mary Eleanor, March 14, 1910; Donald Walton, Jr., July 16, 1915.

THE academic year 1915–16 and the summer of 1916 I continued to serve as professor of zoölogy at DePauw University. At the close of the summer school I became professor of zoölogy and head of the department of biology in the College of William and Mary, a position which I have continued to hold, interrupted only by two years of military service.

War Record: Entered the Second Officers' Training Camp at Fort Myer and, at the end of Nov., 1917, received a commission as a First Lieutenant of Infantry. After a brief service attached to the 313th Infantry at Camp Meade, I was assigned to the First Pioneer Infantry at Camp Wadsworth, S. C., about Feb. 1, 1918. To while away the time before the regiment was filled up I built a little shack near the camp, for my family to occupy during the period of training. On July 1 we left Spartanburg for Camp Mills, L. I., and on the 9th sailed from Hoboken, arriving at Brest on the 18th. July 25 we arrived in the Marne Valley in time for the Marne Offensive. During that engagement and the Oise-Aisne Offensive to Sept. 10 the First Pioneers were serving as corps troops of the First and, later, the Third Corps. For five weeks my platoon constituted an isolated detachment in charge of an engineer dump at Jaulgonne, on the Marne, sixteen kilometers above Château-Thierry. The regiment moved Sept. 11, to the region of Verdun where, on Sept. 26, the Meuse-Argonne offensive opened. Here our regiment served as corps troops in the First Army until the armistice, working by way of Esnes, Montfalcon, and Bantheville, to Dunsur-Meuse with longer periods at Cuisy and Septsarges. At the time of the armistice we were located at Murveaux, on the east side of the Meuse. We became a unit of the Army of Occupation and marched through Luxembourg, entering Germany on Dec. 2 and arriving at Coblenz on the 14th. Until Feb. 5 we were located in the Fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, across the Rhine from Coblenz. During most of Feb. my company was located at Andernach. The latter part of that month, I was detached from the regiment and ordered to the A. E. F. University, Beaune, France, as an instructor in zoology. Thence I escaped during March, being sent to England to study. I spent April, May and June in research work in genetics at the John Innes Horticultural Institution under Professor William Bateson. July, up to the eighteenth when I arrived in Hoboken, was a nightmare of which I prefer not to speak. I was discharged, Aug. 4, at Camp Devens, Mass., and recommissioned as a Captain in the Infantry Section of the Reserve Corps, Nov. 11, 1919.

Have written: "A Sexual Multiplication and Regeneration in Sagartia luciae, Verill," "Journal of Experimental Zoology," May, 1919.

Member: American Association for Advancement of Science; American Legion; Harvard Club of Virginia.

DUDLEY DAVIS

Address: (home) 993 Park Ave., New York, N. Y. (permanent) 52 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Alice Mason Grosvenor, Newport, R. I., Aug. 31, 1908. Children: Dudley, Jr., June 13, 1909; Rose Grosvenor, April 14, 1911; William Grosvenor, Oct. 30, 1913; Fellowes, Jan. 11, 1920.

It itary preparedness of the United States in the winter of 1915, I took an active part in the propaganda work of the American Defense Society. Unable to go to Plattsburg during the summer of 1915 as I had planned, I joined the 7th N. Y. Infantry Sept. 29, 1915, as a member of Company K. In June, 1916, our regiment was called into the Federal Service and became part of the National Guard. U.S. I was made a Corporal as I left the armory for the train, after a week of mobilized uncertainty in the sweltering metropolis. We arrived in McAllen, Texas, after six days on the train and at once began to learn something. I returned to New York City with the regiment in time to eat Thanksgiving Dinner with my family, a very much wiser man.

In Jan., 1917, I became a member of the New York Stock Exchange and a partner in my father's firm of Fellowes, Davis and Co. War with Germany was however in the air. Business on the Floor was dull, and most of the brokers spent their time cursing out the "peace at any price" policies of the Democratic Administration and boasting of what they wanted to do to Germany. Company drills were kept up at the Armory during the winter and I spent the greater part of my evenings studying military matters at special classes, with the intention of applying for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps. Following the declaration of War by the United States against Germany I entered the First Plattsburg Training Camp on furlough from the 7th N. Y. Infantry. I was honorably discharged as Corporal from the 7th on June 12, 1917.

I continued as a member of the firm of Fellowes, Davis and Co., until Jan. 1, 1920. During my absence in the Military Service my brother, Pierpont Davis (Harvard '99), had the privilege of representing our firm on the Board. When I got out of the service I transferred my seat to him, and following a three months' vacation in Newport, R. I., and a trip to Cambridge for Class Day, I took up the office end of the stock brokerage business. It was, however, my desire to return to the practice of the law and I was about to do so when I was given the opportunity to assist in booming Leonard Wood for the Republican presidential nomination in June, 1920. Being a great believer in the necessity of the Republican party winning in 1920, and especially of Wood being our next President, I became the assistant secretary of the Leonard Wood League. I expect to hold down this job until June; and then be free to return to our Class Celebration and look for a job in some law firm.

I am a Trustee of several Estates and a director of the Chicago Union Lime Works Co.

War Record: At the declaration of war by the United States against Germany, I was a member of Co. K, 7th N. Y. Inf. N. G. U. S. and studying for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps. I entered the First Training Camp at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y. In August I received a commission as Captain of Infantry, with orders to report at Camp Upton, N. Y. On Sept. 2 I was assigned to command Company F, 307th Infantry; part of the 77th Division. After months of paper work and red tape we finally received a full personnel and complete equipment. In April we sailed for Europe. After two weeks at sea in a convoy of thirteen ships, we landed at Liverpool, crossed England by train to Dover, and the Channel to Calais. After training with what was left of the British 39th Div. (Gough's 5th Army), at Tournehem, we were brigaded with the Manchester Brigade in Divisional Reserve on the Arras Front at Henu. I spent a few days with the 1st Battalion Grenadier Guards in the front line southeast of Monchy Bois. On June 5 we began a five day hike to Pont Remy on the Somme, whence trains took us to the Vosges. Here we entered the front line on the Baccarat sector. I was in support at Vacqueville and in the front line at St. Maurice and Neuviller. We were first "chaperoned" by the French 265th Infantry; and then in turn initiated the U. S. 146th Inf. (37th Div.) into the intricacies of the position which had been held before us by the 42d (Rainbow) Division. Our battalion had no "incidents." On Aug. 4 we left and hiked to Charmes whence trains took us to St. Remy. Thence we went by bus to Fere en Tardenois. Here our Division relieved the 4th U.S. Div. on the Vesle River. Our battalion took its turn in the front line on Aug. 25, and on Aug. 27 attacked the Germans on the north side of the Vesle between Fismes and Bazoches to recover the Château du Diable, Major Jay was wounded and the command of the Battalian devolved upon me. The attack was partially successful. Our battalion also took part in the advance from the Vesle to the Aisne on Sept. 5. Captain Crawford Blagden (Harvard, 1903), was then in command. We captured the village of Merval and of Serval, but were held up before Revillon and Glennes. On Sept. 8 I was evacuated to the Hospital and did not get out until Oct. 2. Tracing my Division to the Argonne front I was held in the First Army Corps Advance Replacement Depot to assist in getting replacements forward to the combat division. Despite my protests I was retained on duty there until Nov. 17, when I was ordered back to the 77th Div. with a thousand replacements, no transportation, and very indefinite information as to where they were located. I found my way, however, and spent three months near Chaumont, and two near LeMans with my old Company. Came home with it in April, and was discharged in May. Awarded citation, G. H., 2, A. E. F., March 27, 1919, as follows: "General Orders No. 2, Headquarters 77th Division, A. E. F., Jan. 10, 1919: Captain Dudley Davis, 307th Infantry at Château Diable near Fismes, France, on the morning of Aug. 27, 1918, suddenly found himself in command of the 2nd Battalion of the 307th Infantry during the attack on Château Diable. Showing an utter disregard for his personal safety, he proceeded to the forward companies to get first hand information as to the circumstances in order to intelligently handle the situation. In order to accomplish this, it was necessary for him to go through an intense artillery and machine gun barrage. He then established for himself a forward P. C. and proceeded to carry on the attack with coolness and care, skillfully and efficiently organizing the battalion after the attack,"

Occupation: Dairy Products.

Married: Marie Louise Eaton, Boston, Mass., May 1, 1909. Child: Gloria, April 7, 1916.

THERE isn't much to say about what I have been doing since 1915. I entered the Harvard Medical School in the Fall of that year, and graduated in the usual course of events M.D. in 1919.

During the last month of my senior year in the Medical School an opportunity presented itself for me to enter the employ of H. P. Hood & Sons. This I did on June 5, 1909, and have been with them ever since. This company, as you know, is one of the largest dealers of dairy products in the country. They are the fourth largest concern of their kind in the world, and the largest in New England. I have done what I could to help build up this organization during the past ten years, and a few years ago I was elected a director in the company.

Have written: Numerous articles on the dairy industry.

ROBERT McNAIR DAVIS

(home) 802 East 5th St., Tucson, Ariz.

(business) University of Arizona, Tucson, Ariz.

Married: Elizabeth B. Birchard, Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 27, 1905. Child: William Birchard, Oct. 8, 1907.

CONTINUED the practice of law at Portland, Ore., until Sept. 1, 1916, when Laccepted a professional in the control of the cont of Arizona and have continued during the past four years in that work.

War Record: Worked on committees in several campaigns for Y. M. C. A. and other funds. My work as a speaker in various parts of the State in behalf of America's cause helped in some measure to give a better understanding of our war aims and the issues involved.

At the University of Arizona I aided in giving the course in war

Member: Portland, Ore., Chamber of Commerce.

WILLIAM HAWLEY DAVIS

Address: (home) 4 Page St., Brunswick, Me.

Married: Caroline Marcia Edgerly, Cambridge, Mass., June 23, 1909. Child: Harriet, Jan. 12, 1916.

EXCEPT as narrated in my service report, I have continued in my position at Bowdoin College. At the inauguration of our new college president in 1918 I was a member of the Faculty Committee in charge of the arrangements. During the summers of 1915 and 1916, I was again in a summer camp at Denmark, Maine. During the summer of 1917 I war-gardened in Brunswick; and the summer of 1919 found me head councillor at Senior Winona, Denmark, Me.

As I write this report I am within a month of my departure for a sabbatical half-year in England.

War Record: After long weighing the conflicting demands of family and country, I seized the opportunity to go in July. 1918, to the S. A. T. C. Training Camp at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., as a representative of the Bowdoin College Faculty. During the final weeks of that Camp I was selected first for a commission and training in Field Artillery, then for a commission and schooling in personnel work. At the end of the Personnel School, I was given my commission as Second Lieutenant, Infantry, U. S. A., dated Sept. 16, 1918, and assigned to duty with the S. A. T. C. Unit at Bowdoin College.

I served here as Personnel Officer and Adjutant, enlisting the entire unit and later discharging it. My discharge was effective Dec.

Served as local chairman, 1919, of Committee on Relief in Near East, and Salvation Army drives. Was a member of Brunswick, Me., Committee, Third Liberty and Victory Loans; acted as local chairman, Four Minute Men. during 1917 and until Sept., 1918, and as State chairman of Four Minute Men during Oct., 1917.

Have written: "English Essayists, a Reader's Handbook," Badger, 1916; miscellaneous professional articles in the "English Journal" and the "Quarterly Journal of Public Speaking."

Member: Modern Language Association; National Council of Teachers of English; New England Public Speaking Conference.

REDINGTON MUDGE DeCORMIS

Address: (home) 145 Freeman St., Brookline, Mass. (business) 35 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Note broker.

Married: Louise Davies, Ashmont, Mass., Dec. 14, 1912. Children: Anna, Feb. 17, 1914; Constance, June 20, 1918.

WENT to work for Geo. H. Burr and Co., commercial paper brokers, on Sept. 1, 1905, and am still associated with the same house. On July 1, 1918, I was admitted to the firm as general partner, and since that date have been in charge of the Boston office.

War Record: Acted as team captain in raising Red Cross Funds and in the sale of Liberty Bonds, covering part of the financial dis-

HAROLD SIMPSON DEMING

(home) 128a East 19th St., New York, N. Y. (business) 27 William St., New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Katherine Burritt, New York, N. Y., April 23, 1913. Children: Warren, Dec. 20, 1913 (died Dec. 20, 1913); MacDonald, July 24, 1915; Barbara, July 23, 1917; Quentin Burritt, July 24, 1919.

CINCE July, 1915, really nothing of particular interest to my classmates has happened to me. Summer and winter I have practiced law with great enjoyment and a growing enthusiasm, and with sufficient profit to permit me to regard my growing family as an unalloyed blessing. That is about all there is to relate, except to note that Jan. 1, 1918, I left the general practice of law to become a member of the firm of Haight, Sandford, Smith and Griffin, specializing in Admiralty. This shift to the field of marine problems has redoubled my zest for the profession of law and opened up new fields greater than I can touch if I live to be a hundred.

Member: Harvard Club; New York County Bar Association; City Midday Club.

RALPH WAITE DENNEN

Address: 258 Moody St., Waltham, Mass.

Occupation: Physician.

Married: Margaret M. Alexander, East Boston, Mass., May 16, 191.

IN June, 1916, I enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps expecting to go to the Mexican Border, but nothing came of my enlistment till later.

On the 16th of May, 1917, I took to myself a wife and prepared to settle down and become an old married man. But three weeks later came a telegram from the Adjutant General telling me to report at Fort Benjamin Harrison (in the excitement of getting married I had entirely forgotten my enlistment in the Reserve Corps the year before). So I sold the old Ford car and kissed my wife goodbye; it might be for years and it might be forever. I reported at the camp designated. Horrible omission: I neglected to wear side arms in reporting. Side arms were quite in vogue amongst medics reporting for the first time. Of my twenty-five months in service in the army I have written elsewhere in this report.

I was discharged July 11, 1919, and returned to my home town. I was relieved to find no brass band waiting to welcome me at the station. I freshened up the paint on the M.D. sign and dusted off the office desk and started in the general practice of medicine. One forgets a lot in twenty-five months as commander of an Animal Drawn Ambulance Company and I soon found out that Iodine and C. C. Pills, although sovereign remedies in the army, won't cure all the ills that civilians are heir to.

A new Ford car transports me (for the general practitioner the Ford has taken the place of the old white horse as a means of transport), I have again settled down to old married life, and hope to continue for a while. They needn't start any more wars just to please me.

War Record: I reported for duty at Fort Benjamin Harrison June 15, 1917. I had supposed that the medical man in the Army was to care for the sick and wounded, but at Fort Benjamin Harrison I learned that his main duties were to drill, and give Setting Up exercises and to know Army Regulations and Manual of Courts Martial and how to fold a letter in exactly three parts. Part of my three months in this camp Bunty Webster was my C. O.

Aug. 27, 1917, I was transferred to Camp Taylor where I was soon placed in command of a Mule Drawn Ambulance Company. Here I superintended "Fours east and west" and Stable Call and Ambulance Drill till June 9, 1918, when the division moved to Camp Sherman. Here I did more of the same till Aug. 25, 1918, when ordered with my company and division to the Port of Embarkation.

We landed in England Sept. 21, 1918, and arrived at our billeting area at Menesplet, France, Sept. 27. Here followed six weeks more of drill and lectures. The armistice found us still drilling. I was sorry not to have seen service at the front after so long a preparation but those who had been at the front said that I did not miss anything but what I could do without very easily.

Nov. 24, 1918, found me separated from my Ambulance Company forever, and a Regimental Surgeon for the 165th Infantry at Contres, France, with rank of Captain, M. O. R. C. I continued at this station till Jan. 13, 1919, when I was transferred to Camp Hospital,

No. 26, at Novers, France; there till April 30.

May 1 to June 15 I was in charge of a small infirmary in the railroad station at St. Aignan. The duties here were light and I spent most of the time watching troop trains laden with happy American doughboys pass through on their way to the port of embarkation. At last my turn came. I left St. Aignan on June 18, 1919, and Brest on June 29. Reached New York July 5, and was discharged at Camp Dix July 11, 1919.

Unmarried.

Died: Boston, Mass., Sept. 17, 1918.

DR. DENNING had been examined for military service but had been turned down on account of some physical defect. At the time of his death he was making arrangements for another examination. His death was caused by Spanish influenza.

ARTHUR LAWRENCE DERBY

Address: (home) 13 Hereford St., Boston, Mass.

L., Jr., Feb. 8, 1916.

FTER being married toward the close of the last class narrative, A I have lived happily ever after, pursing my manufacturing business for a time in New Orleans — a great part of which was devoted to the manufacture of glycerine — until it was possible for me to get into the service in the late summer of 1918. As with many others this changed life for me very materially, as my refinery was leased for a period of years, and on my return it seemed best to dispose of my interests in the South. A summer in Maine then appeared to be the logical thing and the vacation was gratefully accepted. This brought me again in touch with the North, and the lure of old friendships and the proximity to the flowerbed of 1905 decided me to stay in Boston, where I have become associated with Kalmus, Comstock and Wescott, Inc., consulting and research engineers. The business, which is rather unique in its way, is intensely interesting, having to do with various men, problems in the utilization of waste products, development of new processes, and problems generally in the field of technical research. When in our neighborhood stop in and see what modern science is doing to advance American methods.

War Record: Enlisted in Oct., 1918, as candidate officer, F. A.,

C. O. T. S., Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.

Served as a correspondent with the Red Cross in New Orleans; was a member of the Examining Board of New Orleans, La.; was associated with the U. S. Secret Service in New Orleans.

Member: Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York; Union Club

100 HARVARD COLLEGE — CLASS OF 1905

HAVE been continuously on my farm since the last class report. During the war I rendered no particular service unless raising corn and cotton can be deemed one. This was not purely voluntary on my part, but I have discovered in the last eight years that tackling a farm is somewhat like tackling a bulldog — it becomes a grave question whether, even if you want to let go, it will let you go.

I have gone in quite extensively for fruit raising in the past few years and have an orchard of fifteen thousand peach trees coming into bearing this year and next. John Tuckerman, '05, has gone into partnership with me on a part of my land and we have an orchard of ten thousand trees coming along.

Richard Lovering, '08, has bought three hundred acres from me, and he is building a house this winter and setting out an orchard also.

SPENCER EDWARD DICKINSON

Address: (home) Quarters 167, Navy Yard, Mare Island, Cal.

Married: Laetitia Shelby Thompson, Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 2, 1915. Child: Dwight, 3d, Dec. 13, 1916.

ON July 1, 1915, I was cruising on the west coast of Mexico on board the U. S. S. "Cleveland," of which I was the Supply Officer. This vessel returned to the United States in Aug., 1915, stopping first at San Diego, where I met my wife at a ball at the Hotel Coronado, and then proceeding to San Francisco and the Mare Island Navy Yard. I was detached from the "Cleveland" in Oct., 1915, and ordered to report for duty at the U. S. Naval Academy on Nov. 15 of the same year. I thus had time for a wedding and honeymoon on my way to the East coast.

My duties at the Naval Academy were cut short at the time diplomatic relations with Germany were broken, by hurry-up orders to join the U. S. S. "Alabama," then at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. At the present time, with my small family and in a small but comfortable cottage in the Navy Yard, Mare Island, I am enjoying life in general and, in my blind back of the Island, excellent canvasback shooting in particular.

War Record: Joined the U. S. S. "Alabama" at Philadelphia in March, 1917, on which vessel I cruised around Chesapeake Bay and the York River until July, 1917. In this latter month I was granted four months' sick leave, which I spent in the open, bass fishing at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., and surf fishing at Ocean City, Md.

In Nov., 1917, I was issued hurried orders to join the battleship "Wyoming" as Supply Officer, and reported aboard a few days before she sailed for the Orkney Islands to join the British Grand Fleet. The "Wyoming" was one of the five vessels which composed the Sixth Battle Squadron of the Grand Fleet, and while I served on her we convoyed several fleets of merchant vessels from Scotland to Norway and back. We also participated in manoeuvres with the entire British fleet in the North Sea, and were officially reported to have been subjected to several unsuccessful attacks by enemy submarines.

Returned to the United States in May, 1918, and, after waiting orders a few weeks in my wife's home in Wvoming, was returned to my old duty at the Naval Academy, which was that of Supply Officer of all ships regularly stationed there. Here I remained until at my own request I was transferred to my present duty, that of assistant to the Supply Officer of the Navy Yard, Mare Island. I was promoted to the temporary rank of Lieutenant Commander on Aug. 31, 1917, and permanently to that rank on July 1, 1918.

Member: Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C.; Athenian-

Occupation: Lawyer.

Unmarried. Child: Adopted niece, Nellie Priest Dietzman, born Feb. 9, 1913.

CINCE the last report, I have continued the practice of the law with ex-Governor Willson. During the past year, I have also held the chair of Pleading and Practice at the Jefferson School of Law.

War Record: Was accepted for service in Aug., 1918, but owing to the influenza epidemic, I was not ordered to report at Camp until Oct. 31, 1918. I spent two weeks with the 9th Observation Battery, Field Artillery Central Officers' Training School, Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., and was then assigned to the 50th Training Battery of that school. The armistice had in the meantime been signed, and as the object for which I had enlisted had thus been accomplished, I elected to take my discharge which I received on Dec. 3, 1918. The nature of the service of the Officers' Training School has been well written time and again, and my stay there gave me the usual experiences that the average candidate had.

Worked under the Selective Service Law as a member of the Bar Association Committee which filled out questionnaires for drafted men on all calls under the draft.

Married: Sarah Weed, Noroton, Conn., Aug. 4, 1915. Child: Samuel

Richmond, 2d, Sept. 3, 1918.

IN Aug., 1916, I attended the Civilian Training Camp at Plattsburg, graduating with the proud title of Acting Corporal. In Oct. I went to the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church at St. Louis as a Deputy from the Diocese of Rhode Island. In Dec., 1917, I resigned the rectorship of St. George's Church, Central Falls, R. I., and in Jan., 1918, began work as a "voluntary chaplain" or camp pastor at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. In June, 1918, I was commissioned Chaplain in the U. S. A., with the rank of 1st Lieutenant, and served as Post Chaplain at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., till I was discharged April 30, 1919. Sept. 1, 1919, I became Vicar of the Church of the Holy Trinity in the Parish of St. James, New York City.

I am a member of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association of the Episcopal Theological School, in Cambridge, Mass., and a Trustee of St. Mark's School, Southboro, Mass.

War Record: For the first five months of 1918 I was a "voluntary chaplain" at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. The Church Club of St. Louis paid my salary. Being a civilian, I was unable to live on the post, but went in every day. Besides holding a weekly celebration of the Holy Communion at the Y. I found plenty to do in the hospital. There was no Army Chaplain on the post.

Late in June, through the recommendation of the Commanding Officer, I was commissioned an Army Chaplain, and thereafter lived on the post. My busiest and most trying service was during the influenza epidemic, in Oct., 1918. In two weeks the patients in hospital increased from one hundred and ninety-two to over twelve hundred. We had one hundred and twenty-five deaths. For more than six months I was standing Counsel for the Defense in all cases tried before Special or General Court Martial. The Court met on an average once or twice a week. For a few weeks I was Acting Morale Officer. I was the only man in the Army discharged on the exact date that suited me best. The Commanding Officer recommended that I be promoted to Captain, tho he said the recommendation would probably not be acted upon as I was not applying for permanent service. It was not.

Occupation: Civil engineer.

Married: Estelle E. Taylor, Indianapolis, Ind., June 11, 1908. Children:
Meg Estelle, July 17, 1910; Charles S., Jr., March 8, 1913; James C.
(died March 9, 1913); Jesse C., Dec. 15, 1915.

ON July 1, 1915, I was working as a draftsman in the Water Pipe Extension Division of the Engineering Bureau of the City of Chicago. From this I went to the Designing Section of the City Bridge Division on Aug. 25, 1915, where I remained until June 18, 1916, when I was called for service with my regiment, the 8th Regiment, Ill. National Guard, on the Mexican border. I served as 1st Lieutenant of Co. G until we were mustered out in Oct., 1916. I reported back to the Designing Section of the Bridge Division. I have been there ever since. My position is now Bridge Designing Engineer.

War Record: After having served on the Mexican border as 1st Lieutenant of the 8th I. N. G., I felt, when we entered the world war, that I could be of more service in the Engineer Corps. Accordingly, after having apparently passed the necessary examinations for the commission of Captain of Engineers, U. S. A.. I resigned my commission in the 8th I. N. G. Subsequently, I was denied the commission upon the grounds that I was under weight. Although I went to Washington and used all the arguments (including much influence) I could not obtain the commission and was prevented from seeing service in the great war.

Was a member of the "Four Minute Men" organization; sold Liberty Bonds; helped on Red Cross drives.

STILL at Urbana. I have been at the University of Illinois now for six years, engaged in the busy work of teaching Landscape Architecture and, when time has allowed, in planning and carrying out work of my own. Well, I am head of the school, and need a bigger income, as do most professors these days. Summer stays in California have been the rule during most of the intervening five years. My wife is a Californian by birth, and I by marriage or adoption. I like the Golden State so well that it would not be surprising if the next report should find me there. Oh yes, I teach all kinds of things that smack of landscape, from manuring the rose beds to City Planning. Got out a book "Town Improvement" a year ago, and occasionally dart around to give talks on the subject.

I manage frequently to appoint myself delegate to Landscape and Civic Conventions, and have done about everything there but pray in public. Hope some day to get back for a class reunion. Geographical and school term interferences have so far prevented.

THE period between July 1, 1915, and the entrance of the United States into the war, I spent at the Mass. Inst. of Technology as assistant Professor of Architecture while at the same time occupied with the practice of my profession as architect, associated with Mr. Stephen Codman, 27 Kilby St., Boston.

War Record: Commissioned 1st Lieutenant, Military Intelligence Division, General Staff, on March 15, 1918; discharged from the service on July 15, 1919.

Intelligence work in Washington consisted, until the armistice, in reading the mail of German and Austrian prisoners of war in this country, with the view of transmitting to the authorities, such information therein contained, as might be of value. My work entailed, moreover, coöperation with other departments, regarding information received from our overseas troops, regarding morale within the army, disloyalty, fraud, etc.

In New York City after Nov. 11, 1918, close scrutiny was kept of mails coming in from enemy territory as testifying to the condition, economic and moral of the people. Incipient Bolshevism and activities of the I. W. W. were noted in the correspondence of prisoners not yet released, and their names placed on record.

Married: Miriam White, Boston. Mass., June 5, 1910. Children: Philip Warren, Feb. 13, 1913; Barbara, March 28, 1915; Paul Dudley, April 5, 1918.

To me the first important event of 1915 was a daughter in March; was living then in Norwalk, Conn., with business headquarters in New York City, still in the wholesale lumber business as manager for an Eastern commission house.

By 1916, my increasing family and realization that I was fast approaching that age at which we either make our way in this world or go "bust," drove me into looking for a chance to go into business for myself, as no one else seemed to be philanthropic enough to reward my ability to the extent I required.

Unfortunately for this year's celebration, my friend, Carl E. Milliken, had aspirations that year to be Governor of Maine. We formed a selling company for his mills in Maine and I am still wondering whether it was disappointment at my aforementioned "ability" or not which drove him into putting prohibition on the map and forcing us now to go to Maine as the nearest handy spot to get our refreshments over the line.

Removed to Boston at this time in 1918 and decided I needed more incentive to make me work, so added another boy to the family.

The added incentives and the prohibition have not succeeded in "busting" me yet, and I look forward with great interest to see whether the Class has done or is doing its duty so the housing proposition will get a real good impetus and keep me busy for a few years yet.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Mildred Russell, Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 7, 1911. Children:
Mary Jarvis, Sept. 1, 1912; Frederick Perry, 2d, Jan. 19, 1914.

ON July 1, 1915. I was practising law with Herbert S. Allen, '03, under the firm name of Allen and Fish. It was a rather spasmodic practice, however, since both Allen and myself spent five months in 1916 at the Mexican border. And after we got into the European war, the firm went up in smoke. I am again practicing law in the office of Fish, Richardson and Neave, 34 State St., Boston, and am also a representative to the General Court from Brookline for the year 1920.

War Record: In May, 1917, I organized and was commissioned Captain of a volunteer battery which later became known as Battery B, 101 F. A. I remained with the battery during its training at Boxford, Mass., its further training at Camp Coetquidan in Brittany, and at the front from Feb. 4, 1917, to Aug. 2, 1917. I was then given command of the 1st Bn., 101 F. A., receiving my Major's commission on Sept. 4. I remained with the regiment during the entire war and until discharged except for a short period from Sept. 8 to Sept. 23, 1917, when I was detached and placed in command of troops on SS. "Orduna."

HARVARD COLLEGE — CLASS OF 1905 116

While at the front I was engaged in operations in Chemin des Dames sector from Feb. 4 to March 20, 1918; Toul sector, March 30 to June 28, 1918; Pas Fini sector, July 8 to 18, 1918; Aisne-Marne offensive, July 18 to Aug. 4, 1918; St. Mihiel offensive, Sept. 12 to 16, 1918; Troyon sector, Sept. 16 to Oct. 8, 1918; Meuse-Argonne offensive, Oct. 12 to Nov. 11, 1918. Discharged from the service on April 29, 1919, at Camp Devens, Mass.

THEO MERRILL FISHER

Address: 639 N. Rover St., Colorado Springs, Colo. Occupation: Journalist, salesman, photographer.

Unmarried.

THERE is really very little that may be added to former statement of activities except that certain interests hitherto largely amateur have become professional.

My writing has taken the turn of house building descriptions for architectural and house furnishing journals. My knowledge of photography has served in this connection to enable me to take many of the accompanying illustrations. I have tried latterly to express my artistic feeling through this medium in the form of landscape studies. It is my intention to go ahead along this line.

I have been employed almost continuously for the past three years as a salesman of art objects in both fine and applied art.

Concurrently I have managed personal property interests in the way of farm lands and mines on a small scale. The only thing I am particularly proud of doing in the field of business is the development of an eighty acre irrigated farm which previous to three years ago was only a weed patch. I intend to stay in this game of making some alfalfa grow where none grew before.

War Record: Served as registrar at the time of the last registration.

Have written: Architectural articles for June and Dec., 1919, numbers of "House Beautiful"; garden photographs, March, 1920, "House Beautiful"; "Summer Home Sites in the National Forests," "Ladies Home Journal" (to appear); contributor to "Architectural Record," "Architecture," etc.

Member: Denver Art Association.

HARRY LITTLEFIELD FOSTER

Address: (home) Hotel Kimball, Springfield, Mass.

Married: Ethel Truette, Brookline, Mass., April 12, 1915.

REMAINED with Cooley and Marvin Co., public accountants of Boston, until I entered the service of the American Red Cross. I am now with the Moore Drop Forging Co. of Springfield, Mass., in charge of their costs.

War Record: For obvious reasons National Headquarters of the American Red Cross required an accounting of the funds in the hands of the subsidiary local organizations. My task was to obtain and compile each month uniform reports that met the needs of headquarters and generally instruct in their financial duties over twelve hundred organizations which comprised the New England Division. Served from June 6, 1918, to Oct. 31, 1919, and held the title of Supervisor of Accounts, New England Division, American Red Cross.

Address: (home) Fifth St., Bayside, L. I., N. Y.

Married: Claire Marie Jaquith, Woburn, Mass., June 16, 1910. Child: Richard Jaquith, Constantinople, July 30, 1912.

A FTER four and one-half years with Bethlehem Steel (see previous Class Report and attached War Service Report), I resigned in Dec., 1918, to accept appointment as treasurer at Constantinople of the work being planned by the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief. I was to have sailed early in Feb., 1919, but plans were changed because of illness in my family, and after spending two months in Washington for the above committee I was transferred to the New York office, where I am now foreign secretary of this work, recently incorporated by Act of Congress under the name "Near East Relief." (Incidentally I had some interesting taste of lobbying, while trying to get our Incorporation Bill through Congress!)

The best way to tell of my work is perhaps to reiterate that "The War is NOT over in Armenia," and we are doing our best, with funds generously donated for the purpose by the American public, to save hundreds of thousands in the Near East from starvation and disease, and to bring new life and hope to the tens of thousands of orphans throughout that territory. I'm sure 1905 is doing its part in this work, by means of gifts through our channels in your home communities.

I hope and expect to be on hand for the reunion in June, and here's hoping to see many old friends then.

War Record: Served as a "Four Minute Man" in Bethlehem, 1917 and 1918; participated actively in raising funds in all the drives for war charities, Liberty Loans, etc., in Bethlehem, Pa., where I resided throughout the war. Was an associate member of Board of Legal Advisors, to help with questionnaires in Bethlehem, Northampton County, Pa.

Joined the Home Guard, Bethlehem, Pa., in 1917 and 1918, and was a member of Battery A, 1st Pa. Field Artillery, from Dec.

1914, to June, 1916.

Because of my position in the Ordnance Dept., Bethlehem Steel Co., So. Bethlehem, Pa., I was actively connected with supplying munitions to the United States and the Allies throughout the war, from June, 1914, to Dec., 1918.

Married: Sidney Michaelis, Garden City, N. Y., April 5, 1911. Children:

Harriet Sidney, Jan. 10, 1912; Gilbert Edmund, Jr., April 1, 1913.

IN 1916 I was elected president of the American Association of Tourist and Ticket Agents, and have since been re-elected annually. In 1919, I became managing director as well as first vicepresident of Raymond and Whitcomb Co., and in 1920 I became chairman of the finance committee. Spent the winter and spring of 1919 in Europe, negotiating for the opening of France to tourists. This year I went over again to complete arrangements for building a hotel in Verdun.

War Record: Organized (and secured the capital for) the Bahamas Agricultural and Trading Co. which had a contract with the War Department to raise castor beans for airplanes, and also had an agreement from the Bahamas Government to turn over the full crop of the Bahamas to the company.

LOUIS RINDGE FULLER

Address: (home) 30 Cheswick Rd., Auburndale, Mass.

Occupation: Manufacturer.

Married: Ethel J. Rowbotham, Ashmont, Mass., April 18, 1906.

N Feb. 19, 1915, I lost my father, Dr. Frank Fuller, ex-Gov. of Utah, under Lincoln 1861-62, and Sept. of 1916 I moved my business, the manufacture of Eutona Gluten Suppositories, to Boston, as my wife was anxious to be near her parents. As I am the only one who can carry on my business and was within two years of the last draft limit I saw no military service. I ought not take the time to write this, so with best wishes to all old classmates for the next five years, I remain, a bit older, a bit balder, but with the same "Cheer Siren," as ever.

Married: Edith Baker, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 1, 1917. Child: Charles Bernard, May 21, 1919.

THIS narrative will be far shorter than the last one I wrote, for teachers do not do much worth relating — after they marry especially — still less with a child to look after. Those who doubt my word ask the nearest teacher.

In 1916 and 1917 I spent my summers at the Harvard Summer School, where by the way, I met Edith Baker, Pi Beta Phi of Washington University, 1911, St. Louis, and a graduate student at Radcliffe, who is now Edith Baker Giduz.

During the summer of 1918 I taught at the Butte High School Summer School. After the close of school my wife and I were of a party who motored through Yellowstone Park. We camped during most of the three weeks we were gone. If any of my "gentle readers" is fond of good fishing let him go to the Upper Madison River. I'll warrant he'll not be disappointed. Last summer (1919) found me again among old familiar haunts and friends at the Harvard Summer School.

For the past year I have been teaching in our Americanization School, my special work dealing with naturalization. It is my province to prepare the aliens under my charge for the examinations for citizenship before the U. S. examiner. When I'm not busy trying to teach the young how to "parlez-vous," I hie me to my cabin in the mountains to hunt the elusive rabbit.

War Record: Worked with the local Liberty Loan committees,—played a violin on the rear end of trucks during the drive weeks. Assisted in registration of men and in cataloging of questionnaire data.

Member: Harvard Club of Montana; Summit Valley Lodge # 123, A. F. & A. M.; Stamford, Conn., Lodge, B. P. O. E., No. 899.

Married: Florence Pitman, Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 28, 1916. Child: Walter

S., Jr., Dec. 15, 1917.

TN Aug., 1915, I attended the first business man's camp at Plattsburg. In 1916 directed the national industrial preparedness campaign carried on under the auspices of the Naval Consulting Board with the cooperation and assistance of the five large engineering societies.—civil, mining, mechanical, electrical and chemical. In Dec., 1916, I went to Washington to act as director of the United States Council of National Defense, returning to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company about Nov. 1, 1918. I became vice president of this company in June, 1919, in charge of accounts and finance.

War Record: Served as director of United States Council of National Defense and Advisory Commission from Dec., 1916, to Nov., 1918. Assisted in formation of Interallied Munitions Council in Paris from July to Oct., 1918.

hallow, April 16, 1915; Walter Temple, Sept. 27, 1919.

TN 1916 I became a special assistant to the United States Attorney for the District of Massachusetts, in matters arising under the Federal Anti-Trust laws. Soon afterwards I received a concurrent appointment as special assistant U. S. Attorney and gave up general law practice to devote my entire time to the work of the U. S. District Attorney's office at Boston. Up to the time of our entrance into the war, that office was charged with a number of important duties which went somewhat beyond ordinary legal work, such as general supervision over the investigation of alleged "plots" of Germans and others. This work was later transferred in large measure to other departments of the Government which were organized to handle it, and thereafter the work of the U. S. Attorney's office consisted chiefly of prosecutions for frauds on the Government and violations of war-time Statutes. In 1919 I resigned and became a member of the firm of Hill, Barlow and Homans, of Boston, and have since then been engaged in general law practice as a member of that firm, and also as special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, appointed in Oct., 1919, to deal with certain special matters.

JOHN KEMP GOODLOE

Address: (home) 1 Walden Pl., 2d and Bloom Sts., Louisville, Ky.

(business) 1817 South Third St., Louisville, Ky.

Occupation: Sales and general manager, Triangle Motors Co.

Married: Mabel Matheus, Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 25, 1902. Child: Eleanor,

May 18, 1905.

WAS connected with the Southern Motor Co. from 1915, as Hudson salesman, until April, 1919; then became manager of Southern Motor Co. branch at Evansville, Ind., Packard distributors. On Nov. 11, 1919, I became sales manager and general manager of the Triangle Motor Co., Hudson and Essex distributors, which position I now hold.

War Record: Applied for service as aviator in 1917; rejected on account of age; applied for observer's position; rejected on account of age. Took examinations for above. Applied for Motor Transport Corps; received commission as 1st Lieutenant on Oct. 30, 1918, and ordered to report at Quartermaster's office, Jeffersonville, Ind., on Nov. 1, 1918. The armistice prevented me from entering service.

WALTER STRICKLAND GOODNOW

Address: (home) 615 Michigan Ave., Evanston, Ill.

(business) 1111 Steger Bldg., Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Married: Margaret Schevers, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 4, 1906.

I HAVE been in the advertising agency business in the capacity of advertising expert since 1915. I am at present with the Green Fulton Cunningham Company, Chicago office, in the same capacity.

War Record: When the war started I tried to enlist but was thrown out of Air Service, Tanks, Officers' Training Camp, Quartermasters and Ordnance Depts. in succession because of an eye trouble the examining physicians seemed to think existed.

After a number of trips to Washington and various verbal and written scraps with any of the Personnel Dept. that would fight which lasted for more than a year, I decided the army didn't want me.

About that time the Ordnance Dept. suddenly discovered a piece of information that I had tried in vain to impress on them, that I knew motors, and not wishing to lose a second they made me a 1st Lieutenant by wire. Personally I think I made so much of a nuisance of myself around Washington in trying to get into the army that they took me in to keep me quiet.

Served at Washington, D. C., and at Peoria, Ill., on work of building artillery tractors, ten, fifteen, and twenty tons, which were used in hauling larger types of field rifles.

PRACTICE of the law has tied me pretty closely to my desk since the last report, but it did send me to British Guiana for four months during the first winter of the war. That experience has not only enabled me to pose modestly as an authority on matters tropical, but has also let me earn a small niche in the hall of fame at Lama Stop Off by introducing to my hosts among other appropriate songs our classic chant anent high-balls.

After coming back from British Guiana I bought some rocky land in Framingham with an old house (1828) and barn on it. The combination is called a farm. I am living there now and each fall help to pick apples from three hundred old trees.

FROM the time of the last report until June, 1916, there is little of interest to report. At the end of June I went to the border with Squadron A and served there until Dec. when I was commissioned in the 69th N. Y. Inf. and remained after the departure of the Squadron. Mustered out of the service in March, I was soon called back for the Great War and from then until May, 1919, my record is entirely military.

Since my return to this country I have been trying to make up for lost time in a financial way. I am now engaged in the publishing game with some friends of mine: two Harvard men, an Eli, a Princeton man and an N. Y. U. man. We publish "Export Trade," a weekly and "The Exporter's Encyclopaedia" an annual. This work is thoroughly enjoyable and bids fair to be satisfactorily profitable.

In spite of my gray hair (still plentiful) I am a bachelor and live all alone. With luck that condition will be remedied before the year is out. That's all.

War Record: Enlisted in the United States Army at the outset of the war, and served until May 1, 1919; was attached to M. G. Company, 69th N. Y. Inf., N. G., and M. G. Company, 165th Inf., U. S. A., Hg. 42d Division, U. S. A. Held rank of 2d Lieutenant, commanding company, at declaration of war, 1st Lieutenant from July 15, 1917, and Captain from Oct. 10, 1918. Sailed for France on Oct. 18, 1917, and served on the Western Front at many points from Flanders to Lorraine; then crossed Belgium and Luxembourg and was stationed in Germany with the Third Army. Among the engagements served in were Lunéville Sector, Feb. 21 to March 20, 1918; Baccarat Sector, March 25 to June 15; Champagne Defensive, July 1 to 18; Château-Thierry Offensive, July 25 to Aug. 6; St. Mihiel Offensive, Sept. 12 to Oct. 1; Meuse-Argonne Offensive, Oct. to Nov. 11, 1918. While commanding the M. G. Co. of the 165th Inf. at Camp Mills with the rank of 1st Lieutenant I was transferred to Division Headquarters and sailed the next day for The Division was sent to the Vaucouleurs Area in Lorraine for training and I was sent on detached duty with the English in Flanders where I served with the 49th British Division at Ypres. Upon my return to my own Division I was made assistant to the Division Intelligence Officer and served in that position throughout the war. My work consisted in writing the daily Summary of Intelligence, handling the interrogation of prisoners of war, inspecting the front lines, locating enemy targets through our observation posts and communicating them to the artillery and other work of the Intelligence Service. During its service in Europe the Division had its Headquarters at forty-two different points and did a very large amount of moving along the front, taking part in every important action in which American troops were engaged. Although constantly under fire for nearly a year I was never wounded and only twice a little gassed.

After the armistice the Division was on the Rhine for over three months and it was then my duty to observe the political, military, financial and general condition of the German population and report daily upon it.

Occupation: Secretary, Y. M. C. A.

Married: Dorothy Dodd Lyon, Coudersport, Pa., March 28, 1918. Child: Mary Lvon, Feb. 18, 1920.

FFT Manila, where I had been doing Y. M. C. A. work since 1908, in Oct., 1915. For the last few months of my stay in the Philippines I was secretary-treasurer of the Harvard Club of the Philippines, which during Governor-General Forbes' régime had a membership of forty or fifty and used to turn out half as many at dinners. As a penalty for "frenzied philanthropy" or trying to "hustle the East," I had to lay off for a couple of years. I spent one winter at Switzer's Camp, in the Sierra Madre Mts., near Pasadena, Cal., and the next in the Adirondacks.

In 1917-18 I got back to work, becoming student secretary for a year of the Oberlin College Y. M. C. A. The next year I was able to tackle a somewhat bigger job as general secretary at Tarrytown, N. Y., and in Jan., 1920, began a very interesting service as Americanization secretary at Waterbury, Conn., working chiefly in the manufacturing plants of this center of the brass industry.

Have written: Article on "The Philippines: A National Problem," "Forum," 1916; Chapter on the Philippine Islands in "The Red Triangle" in "The Changing Nations," 1918; a few special articles which have appeared in New York and Boston Sunday papers.

A FTER attending the Decennial reunion I returned to my job as director in Panama for the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation. In 1916 I was sent by the Foundation to British Honduras to make a health survey of that country. In June of the same year I was transferred to Guatemala on a short mission and returned to New York in Aug. In Sept. I was appointed director in Brazil and left for Rio immediately to organize the work in that country. In 1917 services for the relief and control of hookworm infection had been organized in the Federal District of Brazil and in the State of Rio de Janeiro. In 1918 five States in Brazil had invited the Foundation to cooperate with the governments in this work, and in 1919 the work had grown to include eleven states in Brazil. I am now associate regional director of the International Health Board in charge of the services in these states.

GEORGE OSCAR HADFIELD

Address: (home) Curtis Lane, East Providence, R. I. (business) P. O. Box 547, Providence, R. I.

Occupation: Manufacturer.

Married: Susan May Wood, Barrington, R. I., Feb. 17, 1910.

IN the fall of 1915 I began the manufacture of fire cements, and was making very good progress when I was called into service on April 6, 1917. During the war my business remained at a stand still, and since my return to civilian life I have been bending all my efforts to regain lost ground and build up my business.

War Record: Entered the service of the U. S. Navy on April 6, 1917; was assigned to U. S. S. "Marietta" as Lieutenant, j.g.; promoted to Lieutenant, on Jan. 1, 1918; served in turn as Ordnance Officer, 1st Lieutenant, Navigator, and Executive Officer; was located in the Azores, Gibraltar, convoying in the Mediterranean, and convoying in the Bay of Biscay.

Proceeded to Gibraltar. First month hunted submarines, then ran convoys from Gibraltar to Oran and Bizerte. Ordered to Azores as station ship for four months. Ordered to France where we convoyed in the Bay of Biscay, placed cables, was station ship at mouth of the Gironde River and Quiberon where we directed all shipping, and various other work. In April, 1919, we were ordered to conduct mine sweepers and various other unseaworthy craft back to the United States and lost three of them in a gale off the coast of France (the "Courtney," "Douglas," and "James" foundered). Rescued the entire crew of the "James" by means of a life raft. The crews of the other two ships were taken off during the early part of the storm. Put back to Brest and made another attempt in May to reach the United States and succeeded in making New Orleans. Put the "Marietta" out of commission July 14, 1919; proceeded home and was discharged July 17, 1919.

While in Gibraltar designed and built night training device for guns and depth-charge ejecting device used on most of the ships convoying and operating in the Mediterranean Sea.

War Record: Was assistant to director of Bureau of Exports, War Trade Bureau, Washington, D. C., in charge of Export Cable Division, which dealt with shipments destined for the Northern neutral countries, and were under the control of the Allied Blockade Committee in London.

Member: Harvard Club of New York City.

Address: (home) 3 Wildcliff Rd., New Rochelle, N. Y. (business) 299 Mercer St., New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Merchant.

Married: Julia Bauer, Providence, R. I., Jan. 2, 1911. Children: George, Feb. 5, 1912; Evelyn, May 13, 1916.

CINCE 1915 I have been quite actively engaged in business and have been fairly successful. Due to the fact that I live in the suburbs and commute I am not a member of any clubs in N. Y. I am a homeloving man and enjoy spending all of my spare time with my wife and children.

War Record: On our entering the war I was afforded a chance to be commissioned in the Q. M. C. of the U. S. Army, but unfortunately I was in no position financially to avail myself of the opportunity. Besides which I was over the draft age limit, with a wife and two children dependent on me.

However, I enlisted in the 71st Regt. Inf., N. Y. G., and was made sergeant in a short time, finally being commissioned 2nd Lieutenant and then 1st Lieutenant. I there assisted in drilling a great many of the men about to be drafted, and also a great many of the army nurses before they went overseas.

The 71st Regt. is now Federalized and one of the first in the new National Guard. I still hold my commission as 1st Lieutenant.

During the various Liberty Bond issues I assisted with the work of selling them.

Married: Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, New York, N. Y., June 30, 1910. Children: Sanchia, May 28, 1911; Rosemary and Clemency, Dec. 20,

DURING 1915-17 was a member of firm of Ehlermann, Hale and Wright. At present member of firm of Hale, Nelles and Shorr, and engaged, professionally and politically, in trying to bring about in America some of the democracy that was supposed to be in issue in the war.

War Record: Enlisted in the United States Army, April 29, 1918, and served as Captain, Military Intelligence Division, General

Staff, Washington, D. C., until Jan. 2, 1919.

Was commissioned in the Intelligence Service, on offering myself, partly because of my legal training and partly with a view to my speaking knowledge of French, which it was thought would be useful for overseas duty in liaison with the French Intelligence. I then got stuck in Washington and held there, in spite of all efforts to get abroad, until it was too late. At the time of the armistice I had the assurance of my Colonel that I would be one of the next officers to go over. In spite of the disappointment my work in Washington — which I cannot speak of — was highly interesting and brought me in touch with almost every side of the Army.

War Record: On Nov. 24, 1915, I sailed for France on the steamer "Lafayette" and enlisted with Harjes Ambulance, Section No. 5, attached to the French Army. In this connection I served at Verdun from Feb. 25 to April 5, 1916, and at Oise-Aisne from May to July, 1916. Returned to this country in Jan., 1917, and reentered the lumber business, spending most of my time in Oregon and California.

I enlisted in the United States Army on April 6, 1917; was ordered to the Presidio Training Camp at San Francisco on May 14, 1917. Was commissioned 1st Lieutenant in the Infantry on April 28; transferred to the Aviation section with same rank and sailed for France on Nov. 17, 1917. Completed my training in France and was attached to the 52d S. A. L. Escadrille (French) on March 15, 1918, stationed at Conde-sur-Marne and Pierrfonds. Joined the 91st Aero Squadron in June, 1918, and served with that squadron and the First Army Observation group until the armistice was signed. I was promoted from 1st Lieutenant to Captain on Oct. 6, 1918, and was officially credited with the destruction of six German airplanes. Returned to America on Jan. 3, 1919, as instructed, reported at Washington, D. C., and resigned from the service on Feb. 7, 1919. Received the D. S. C. and the Croix de Guerre.

Entered the lumber business again, where I am now definitely located with the Hammond Lumber Company.

Feb. 2, 1915 (died Feb. 3, 1915); Anne, March 22, 1917.

ROM July, 1915, to Jan., 1918, I lived in Cohasset, Mass., and "commuted" daily to Boston where I was listed as a salesman in Waldo Bros., Inc. The major event of that period occurred in March, 1917, when a daughter arrived. Since March, 1919, I have been attempting to sell a portion of the products of the Ludlow Mfg. Associates, of which concern H. V. Greenough is selling agent and secretary.

War Record: On Feb. 14, 1918, I was commissioned Captain, Q. M. C., and assigned to the Construction Division of the army, located in Washington, D. C. The duty of this Division was to build the camps, cantonments, army supply bases, warehouses, hospitals, and gas and picric acid plants, as well as a good deal of miscellaneous construction for the Ordnance and Aviation Depts. My own work was confined to purchasing certain building materials with which my previous experience had made me familiar. I was discharged March 3, 1919.

SINCE the last class report my life has been rather uneventful, but with much more sunshine than shadow. I still have the good digestion and appetite that used to take care of the meals at old Randall and am still happy with what Ray Oveson once called my "plebeian good health." As at the time of the last report, I am in the Engineering Department of the City of Worcester. For the last two years I have been in the "sanitary section," which has charge of designing and laying out of the city sewers. This has kept me out of doors nearly all the time, so I am as tanned now as I was when I was an assistant to Profs. French and Hollis in those hot summer days when the Stadium was being built.

As a "side line" I have done quite a little entertaining at lodges and other affairs, telling fairy tales and folk lore to the children and nonsense to the elders, and my one best hit has always been the "Wooden Arm Orator" that the class may remember laughing at heartily at some of our beer nights. My vacations have been spent with sketch book and color box on the Maine coast.

Am not bothered much by income tax reports, but have been and am rich in good health, good friends, the ability to laugh a lot and to see things to laugh at, to work steadily and enjoy my work, and a happy home life.

War Record: Served as speaker in Red Cross drives, etc.

Have written: A few verses and nonsense rhymes.

Occupation: Architect.

Unmarried.

IN the Spring of 1916, in association with F. A. Godley (Yale, 1908), I started the practice of architecture. In the following two years we designed a number of residences and business alterations in the vicinity of New York. We made the winning competitive design for the Pueblo City Hall and Auditorium (Colorado) which was built in association with W. W. Stickney, '06, superintending construction.

Illness in 1918 prevented active work, which after resuming practice in 1919, I was forced to give up as far as New York was concerned. I am now again at work in Pasadena, Cal.

LEONARD HATCH

Married: Dorothy Holt Warrin, Flushing, N. Y., April 29, 1916.

FROM June, 1916, to Feb., 1917, I lived in Honolulu, Hawaii. On my way back from there, I was laid up in a hospital in Victoria, British Columbia, where I was operated on for appendicitis.

I left Victoria in June, 1917, and in July became connected with the United States Food Administration at Washington, D. C., under Herbert Hoover. Remaining there until its dissolution at the end of 1918, I joined the War Trade Board for three months. In March, 1919, I became copy writer in the advertising department of the Willys-Overland Company at Toledo, Ohio. After nine months in that position, I left to return to the free-lance game. Jan., 1920, finds me in the vicinity of Boston.

During 1915-17 I was writing editorials regularly for "Collier's Weekly." With that exception, my work has been largely food conservation publicity, unsigned newspaper stories on export and import problems, automobile catalog layouts, and advertising copy.

War Record: After returning from Canada in 1917, I became connected with the United States Food Administration at Washington, D. C., under Herbert Hoover. My work was in the Educational Section, so-called, publicity work with the purpose of awakening the public conscience to the need of food conservation as a means of helping win the war. My work consisted in writing special articles requested by papers and magazines throughout the country, among them forty articles for the "Literary Digest" under the heading "War-Time Food Service."

I was with the Food Administration until its break-up in December, 1918, after which I was with the War Trade Board at Washington, as Assistant Publicity Adviser, until March, 1919.

Worked on the advertising in connection with the Fifth Liberty Loan, Toledo, O.

Have written: Editorials for "Collier's Weekly"; series of forty articles under title "War-Time Food Service," in "Literary Digest." Member: New York Harvard Club.

T EAVING social work in New York seven years ago, I returned to Boston, took the State bar examination and started practicing law. For five and a half years I was busy as associate counsel of the Automobile Legal Association, trying automobile cases in the courts in and around Boston. A year and a half ago, an opening came at the Hood Rubber Company, Watertown, Mass., to become associate service manager and attorney for the nine thousand five hundred employees. With a family of this size there is always interesting work to do. It is a work that brings into play the social training and experience that I secured in New York, as well as the legal training in Boston.

Was an alderman, City of Newton, in 1919.

War Record: Served as chairman of local district in Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and Liberty Loan drives; was a member of Newton constabulary.

PAUL GEORGE HENDERSON

Address: (home) 18 Hilliard St., Cambridge, Mass.

Occupation: Liability insurance.

Mary Paul, July 5, 1914; David George, Nov. 2, 1918.

OCT. 1, 1916, took the position of superintendent of the Indiana and Kentucky Claim Department of the Employers' Liability Assurance Corpn. at Indianapolis. In June, 1919, I was transferred to the Chief Office Claim Department in Boston, and late in the following Sept. transferred my family to Cambridge, where I had some luck in finding a house. Sickness in the family has prevented me from getting in touch with 1905 men in and around Boston, but I hope soon to renew old friendships. It is delightful, as a certain great man would say, to be living near Harvard Square again — but I have wondered a thousand times how we ever endured the thirty-five minute ride to Park Street. My regret in not moving back to Cambridge to see Mahan in his prime has been largely mitigated by seeing Casey in action.

War Record: Served as investigator in American Protective League.

HERMAN HENNEBERGER, Jr.

Occupation: Treasurer, H. Jevne Co., Los Angeles; vice-president, Henneberger-Hartley Realty Corp., New York City.

Married: Vera Jevne, Los Angeles, Cal., June 14, 1906. Children: Vera, April 11, 1907; Genevieve, Oct. 2, 1909; Barbara, March 21, 1917.

FROM July 1, 1915, I continued as treasurer of the H. Jevne Company and vice-president of the Henneberger-Hartley Realty Corp. Was elected secretary of the Harvard Club of So. Cal. In Fall of 1915 was commissioned an Ensign in the Naval Militia of California (anticipating war) and life went on as usual until hostilities began on April 6, 1917. Went on active duty; returned to civil life Dec. 17, 1918, and took up my usual routine business career. Was elected president of the Harvard Club of So. Cal. Dec. 30, 1919.

War Record: Anticipating eventual war I joined the Naval Militia of Cal. and was commissioned an Ensign in Dec., 1915 — worked and studied hard and was promoted to Lieutenant (j.g.) in one year. Passed Federal examination and was given a Presidential commission in the N. N. V. branch of the U. S. Navy as Lieutenant (j.g.). The day war was declared was ordered to the old destroyer "Farragut" as gunnery officer. This ship installed the patrol service off San Francisco and in July, 1917, was ordered to Panama. At Panama was made Executive Officer with rank of Lieutenant and cruised in tropical waters until Jan., 1918. Was detached and placed in charge of all naval intelligence work for Central America, Colombia and Venezuela. Served also as aid to Commandant, 15th Naval District, and Naval Liaison Officer.

Member: California, Los Angeles Country, and University Clubs of Los Angeles; Annandale Golf Club, Pasadena; Harvard Club of New York.

WALTER SYLVESTER HERTZOG

(business) Hollywood High School, Los Angeles, Cal. (permanent) Eighth and Chestnut Sts., Shamokin, Pa.

Married: Sadie Roselle Dinger, New York, N. Y., April 21, 1906. Children: Walter Sylvester, Jr., May 29, 1907; Dorothy Beatrice, March 31, 1909; Catharine Fayette, May 27, 1915.

CINCE 1912 I have been in the History Dept. of Hollywood High School, Los Angeles, Cal. There are many diversions in our school of almost two thousand boys and girls. We are surrounded by many "movie" companies who are continually staging "battle scenes in France" or depicting the antics of the chocolate-colored Cleopatra along the Nile. In addition to my school duties I am librarian of the California Society, Sons of the Revolution. Our library is the "Repository of the Southwest" for historical and genealogical records.

My chief indoor sport is collecting rare books, especially the prerevolutionary imprints of Pennsylvania, including the early productions of the printing press at Germantown, Ephrata and Philadelphia. I have probably the finest collection in the West and I hope some day to see it cared for in the library at Harvard.

Historical research in the colonial and revolutionary records of Pennsylvania and New York States has occupied a considerable part of my spare time during the past five years.

It seems only a short time since graduation but I have noticed two striking changes, viz., the shrinking of the dollar and the enlargement of the full moon on the back of my head. Nevertheless I am glad that I am alive and that most of my classmates are still able to enjoy life on this dry, desert earth.

I have just ordered a microscope to see if I can find my next year's salary as a teacher. I hope soon to be promoted to a hodcarriership.

War Record: Served as an investigator, Intelligence Corps, Western Dept. U. S. Army, from the entry of the United States into the war until the armistice, Nov. 11, 1918. Was in charge of German publications, periodicals, and newspapers, in the State of California; exposé of German-American alliance on Pacific Coast; enemy wireless stations; Mexican border plots, alien enemies, etc., etc. Was in all the States west of the Mississippi to the Pacific, and also in Mexico during the war. My knowledge of the German language, etc., was of considerable help to me. "Picked up" the private chauffeur of General von Der Goltz, Chief of the German General Staff; got the evidence on a former German Governor of Mexico who was "recuperating" in the United States during the war; ran across some interesting (?) German chemists; met a party of Germans with a wireless outfit in the desert of Nevada, seventy-five miles from nowhere; and many other interesting things which ought to be kept secret.

Have written: "History of Shamokin, Pa. (1728-1919), including a Sketch of Fort Augusta"; "History of the Hertzog Family in America."

FRANK YAEGER HESS

Address: (home) 168 Massachusetts Ave., Springfield, Mass. (business) Central High School, Springfield, Mass.

Occupation: Science instructor.

Married: Annie Mae Brackett, Everett, Mass., Sept. 21, 1905. Children: Frank Wesley, Jan. 11, 1907; Wendell Brackett, April 14, 1908; Ruth Van Ditmars, July 13, 1909; Alice Burnham, Oct. 21, 1913; Burten Yaeger, Sept. 25, 1915.

N July 1, 1915, I resigned my position as principal of the Lebanon, N. H., high school and accepted an election as an instructor of science in the Central High School, Springfield, Mass. The intervening years have been spent in the above city. Affiliation with local and state teachers' organizations together with local church and community interests have kept me busy.

The family spend the summers in camp at Mascoma Lake, Enfield,

N. H.

War Record: Was chairman of the Central High School War Activities Board; thousands of dollars worth of Liberty Bonds were sold to students, and also school bonds were purchased by the school as a whole; had old clothes drives; did Red Cross sewing and equipment work and were one hundred per cent. membership in that organization; collected fifty thousand books. Served as clerk to local Draft Board.

Member: State and local teachers' associations; church organizations.

Occupation: Chemist.

Married: Bertha B. Strong, Braintree, Mass., June 1, 1910.

T the date of the last report I was employed as assistant chemist A in the Food and Drug laboratory of the Mass. State Dept. of Health. I left that position in April, 1918, and worked as chemist in the dyestuffs laboratory for the Morrill Ink Works, Norwood, Mass. After a brief time there, on the advice of a physician, I went on a farm for a summer and gained there both health and practical knowledge of the best methods of raising garden produce. From there I joined the shipbuilders at the Great Fore River plant at Ouincy and did "my bit" in helping equip the destroyers electrically. In Dec., 1918, I received an appointment with the U.S. Department of Agriculture as chemist in the Boston Food and Drug inspection laboratory, where I work at present.

Member: American Chemical Society.

Married: Lena May Bowker, Worcester, Mass., July 15, 1915. Child: Charles Augustus, June 12, 1917.

JULY 1, 1915, found me the treasurer and general manager of the Phenix Plate Company of Worcester, Mass., which position I have since filled. Upon the entry of the United States into the war, my company was called upon to manufacture photographic and electrical apparatus used by the naval and air forces of the country. This regulated my war activities largely to my own plant, which I am glad to say was able to do its bit. With the ending of the war,

EDGAR RAY HOLMES

Address: (home) 41 Bennett Ave., New York, N. Y. (business) 51 Chambers St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Hazel K. Watson, Yorktown, N. J., June 12, 1907.

IN July, 1915, I was connected with the Inter-State Co., of New York. In August I went to Cal. on auditing work for the company, returning in Nov. In Dec. the company was consolidated with a western concern and I made a connection with the Remington Arms—U. M. C. Co., having charge of pay-roll and accounting at their Hoboken plant. Resigned in Aug., 1916, to take a position with the Air Reduction Co., of New York City, leaving in April, 1918, to enter Government War Service, which eventually took me to Europe.

After my return to the U. S., I took a position with the International Steel Corporation, New York City, one of the subsidiaries of the American International Corporation, where I am now located.

War Record: In April, 1918, resigned my position in New York and went to Washington as special traveling representative of the Bureau of Branches and Customs of the War Trade Board. of my time was devoted to traveling among the eighteen branches of the Board, located in the principal ports on the coasts and the Mexican border, also visiting customs offices in these and in other ports. Represented also the Export, Import and Transportation Bureaus, inspected procedure under the rules and regulations for the control of foreign commerce, and made special investigations of violations, complaints and other matters. In Dec., 1918, and Jan., 1919, I spent about six weeks in Seattle, Wash., under joint authority of the War Trade Board and the Railroad Administration, assisting in relieving the congestion of export freight in the Puget Sound district. On my return from this trip, I was transferred to the New York branch office of the Board. In March, 1919, was appointed special assistant to the chairman of the Board at Paris. I served in the Paris branch until June, when I was assigned to the Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission, at Coblenz, Germany, where I had charge of the finances and accounts of the American department of the Commission. Was also representative on the Restitution Commission, working in liaison with the French and Belgian Service de la Restitution Industrielle at Wiesbaden. Resigned in Sept. to return home to re-enter business.

Married: Clara Gorfinkle, Boston, April 1, 1911. Children: Harrison David, May 1, 1912; Ruth Bayla, July 19, 1914; Lorraine Hester, Jan. 8, 1919.

THE five years that have elapsed since the last class report have been very full and busy years for me. I have been actively engaged in practicing law in Boston, and have thus far avoided being lured away from the profession into politics or other fields. I have declined to be a candidate for public office, with the exception that I was elected and served as a member of the Republican Ward Committee for two years and that I have also served as a delegate to the Republican State Convention.

War Record: After the machinery for raising a draft army during the war had been devised, I was appointed a member of the Legal Advisory Board of the City of Boston and served in this capacity until the end of the war, my district covering Dorchester and Mattapan, Mass. I was also a member of the local committees which had in charge all the Liberty Bond, Red Cross and V. M. C. A. drives. In addition, I also joined a volunteer company of lawyers and business men shortly after the United States first entered the war. We drilled for a while as a nameless organization without official status. When the Massachusetts State Guard, the war-time military organization of the State, was established we became the First Motor Corps - known socially as the First Corps of Cadets. A portion of the First Corps of Cadets was recruited to war-time strength and went to France as the 101st Engineers. I served as a member of C Company, First Motor Corps, with the rank of Corporal. The First Motor Corps, as well as some other units of the State Guard, was called into active service on Sept. 9, 1919, to suppress riots and to maintain order during the strike of the Boston police. My regiment was not released from active service until Dec. 8, 1919, and I was on duty during the entire period. After rioting had been suppressed, the State Guard took over the policing of the city while a new police organization was recruited and drilled to take the place of the strikers. We did patrol work for a number of weeks, and then my regiment was ordered to take over the duties of the traffic officers. Serving as "traffic cop" for a while was a rather interesting and amusing experience. The men of my regiment were also trained as substitutes for the fire department in case it should become necessary to man the fire apparatus owing to a threatened sympathetic strike of the men in the Boston Fire Department. Although the experiences of facing rioters, serving as patrolman, traffic officer, and as driver of a big fire engine, were interesting. I was not sorry when the order came for our release after nearly three months of active duty.

Occupation: Banker.

Married: Gertrude Amory, Boston, Mass., April 18, 1915. Children: Anne Lowndes, Sept. 8, 1916; Mary Constance, Nov. 30, 1919.

SINCE the Decennial came out, I have continued in the banking business as a partner of Parkinson and Burr of Boston and New York. I have found this business continually interesting and engrossing and presenting new problems of interest all the time. As J. W. Wheeler and R. H. Cox are both members of the firm, we feel that the class of 1905 has shown here its strong spirit of holding together."

I have continued to find much recreation in indoor games—squash racquets, racquets—and as these games provide great and violent exercise in a short space of time, and in the case of squash racquets can be played by artificial light, they work in well with long business hours. I have been fortunate enough to win the National Championship in squash racquets twice during the past eight years.

War Record: Entered Plattsburg Training Camp in Aug., 1917; completed course there in Nov., 1917, and was assigned to Camp Dix, N. J., with 311th Inf., where I served from Dec., 1917, to May, 1918. Held rank of 1st Lieutenant. Went to France with Co. L, 311th Inf., in May, 1918. Graduated from Army General Staff College, Langres, France, in Jan., 1919. Returned to United States in March, 1919.

Member: Tennis and Racquet Club of Boston; Boston Athletic Association; Somerset, Exchange, Hoosic-Whisick, and Racquet and Tennis Clubs of New York.

(business) 514 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Physician.

Married: Alice Marie Doyle, Brookline, Mass., Oct. 31, 1916. Child: Alice Catherine, Aug. 17, 1918.

AVE been in active practice, specializing in surgery. In July, 1915, appointed out-patient visiting surgeon to the Carney Hospital, and later acted in the same capacity at the Boston City Hospital. Resigned both to become visiting surgeon to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Boston, Mass., in May, 1918, which appointment I still hold. I am one of the surgeons doing impartial examining of injured workmen for the State of Massachusetts under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and am surgeon to the Boston and Albany Railroad (which I might add for the confusion of the humorous members of the class is NOT a corporation which comes under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act in Massachusetts). I am also examining surgeon for tort cases to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railways Co. Am examiner for the New England Mutual, Penn Mutual, John Hancock, Union Central, and Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Companies.

As to things in general, I have lived more fully and happily since our last report than I ever expected to find possible.

War Record: Served as volunteer surgeon for the examination of candidates for the Aviation Corps of the Army.

Member: Various medical societies.

Occupation: Asst. treasurer, J. B. Closs and Sons, Chicago.

Married: Elizabeth Dale Obertenffer, Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 15, 1918.

Child: Elizabeth Dale, Nov. 11, 1918.

Left Harvard in May, 1903, to enter the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Graduated from Annapolis in 1906 (class of 1907), and thereafter cruised about the world in various trips and to various ports, with one tour of "shore duty," until 1915, when I entered Naval Aviation. The cruises included the Roosevelt "round the world" tour of 1907–1909, and an interesting amount of South American, European and African visiting in later years. After entering aviation in 1915 I qualified as a naval aviator (1916), and thereafter continued on this duty until resigning from the Navy, Dec.

8, 1919, to enter present civilian employment.

War Record: At the beginning of the war I was on Aviation duty. U. S. S. "North Carolina." Was transferred to duty in Aviation Section of Office of Chief of Naval Operations, in May, 1917. Was assigned to duty as superintendent, Aeronautic School, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., Dec., 1917, and remained on this duty through remainder of war. The Pensacola school gave all advanced training of U. S. Naval Aviation.

During the war I was promoted from Lieutenant, U. S. Navy, to Lieutenant-Commander, U. S. Navy, and at the time of my resignation I was holding the rank of Commander (Temporary).

Member: Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C.; Harvard

(permanent) P. O. Box 578, Government Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

Unmarried.

JULY 1, 1915, found me in the interesting work of developing a manufacturing interest in Rochester, N. Y., which I aimed to be of international significance. My product, Snow White Fluid, which I discovered and developed, is of interest to at least ten different classes of workers, among whom may be mentioned expert penmen, photographers, engravers, illustrators, designers, architects, draftsmen, and the like. As there had been a long-felt need for my article, the business showed excellent promise, irrespective of the great difficulties in making foreign shipments after July 1, 1915.

As I care little for purely social interests I have not taken and will not take any interest in so-called Rochester Society affairs. However, as secretary of the Harvard Club of Rochester since 1915, have met and encouraged many very interesting young men who were ambitious to secure the benefits of University education, and have turned toward Harvard University since 1915 about ten young men of various religions and racial origins who have, with one exception, succeeded in maintaining their membership in the University, and have graduated either in business or gone into professional schools. It has been of interest to me to seek out the most desirable young men in the East and West High Schools of Rochester and to preach to them the advantages of the institution at Cambridge, Mass.

It was an honor for me to be appointed by the president of the Harvard Club of Rochester as the representative of the Harvard men in our section to the Old Grads Summer School held in Cambridge last August. In consequence of my attendance at that school was appointed to take charge of the publicity in the Rochester press on behalf of the Harvard Endowment Fund project, and in endeavoring to practice as I preached, subscribed $5,000 to the Harvard Endowment Fund project,—$1,000 for each of the five years of the glorious class of '05.

War Record: Enlisted with the New York Scottish Regiment, which was recruited in New York City in May, 1917, immediately after the declaration of war on the part of the United States against the Central Powers of Europe; served as a private throughout the enlistment, although interviewed by Major Wilson to ascertain my desire to accept a position on the staff of the regiment, possibly as historian, but declined any promotion whatsoever, except until after the regiment went into active service. The regiment was held in the metropolis throughout the entire war, being moved from one armory to another as depot battalions, the idea being that it was a reserve regiment to be used in case of riots or disturbances.

Have written: Since University days have pursued literary studies as a hobby to my manufacturing interest. Have written twelve illustrated stereopticon lectures on the general topic, "Interesting Episodes of the Great Battle of Gettysburg"; also illustrated lectures on "Andersonville Prison," "Lincoln's Gettysburg Visit," "Washington at Valley Forge," and "The Origin of Our National Emblem." Have written booklets as a result of personally conducted investigations on the life of John Burns and Mary Virginia Wade, hero and heroine of Gettysburg, Pa. Lecture frequently; in 1920 was appointed substitute lecturer for the Rochester Historical Society.

Member: Scots Charitable Society, Boston; New York Scottish Regiment Society, New York City; Harvard, and University Clubs of Rochester; Clan MacNaughton, Order of Scottish Clans, Rochester.

GEORGE ROBERTS JONES

Address: (home) 272 Vine Ave., Highland Park, Ill. (business) 72 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

Married: Jessie M. Orton, Chicago, Ill., June 2, 1909. Children: Elizabeth Orton, June 25, 1910; Thomas Orton, Sept. 5, 1917; Annette Roberts, Feb. 25, 1919.

SINCE 1915, somewhat to my surprise, I have remained in one business and for the most part, in one location. From this fact I gather that some who have the instincts of a rolling stone, never gather the impetus to roll.

In business I was for ten years purchasing agent of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. Recently I have been dignified by the title of secretary and treasurer of the same company. Just now, any one who attempts to secure money for a public utility, deserves all the encouragement that any title would give.

I am vice-president of an interesting enterprise which grew out of the exigencies of the army in the war, the Special Chemicals Co. of Highland Park, Ill. The War Dept. Medical Supply Depot was unable to obtain bacteriological sugars during the latter part of the war, with which to differentiate disease germs. These rare sugars had hitherto been made in Germany. With a friend, Carl Pfanstiehl, I became interested in a company which has undertaken to make these sugars and other rare chemicals not before made in this country, and whose motto is "devoted to the chemical independence of America."

In my family life I have done, I think, as well as the average—three children—and better than most of my classmates whom I happen to know. My hobby is a fiddle—provided it is an Italian masterpiece. My bête noir is trying to write a good song.

War Record: Was one of the founders of the Four Minute Men Movement. This movement was brought into being at a meeting held Monday. April 2, 1917, at the University Club, Chicago, called by Donald M. Ryerson, the originator of the Four Minute Men idea. When the war came it was incorporated into the Committee on Public Information, and continued throughout the war as the vehicle by which Governmental messages could be delivered direct to the people.

WALLACE ST. CLAIR JONES

Address: (home) 24 Orchard St., Belmont, Mass. (business) 79 North St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Manufacturer.

Married: Ethel Alicia Robinson, Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 23, 1905. Children: Dorothy Robinson, Dec. 18, 1910; Alice Basto, Feb. 17, 1913; Russell Gordon, Sept. 16, 1915.

SINCE July 1, 1915, the time of our last re-union I have continued as a manufacturer of sheet metal and electrical specialties under the firm name of Wm. B. Berry and Co., 79 North St., Boston, Mass. I have done nothing unusual but have taken a reasonable amount of interest in the affairs of my home town and in the Republican party in general. As a member of the Republican Town Committee and several local committees, my work has been most interesting to me and I trust of some benefit to the community at large. On Sept. 16, 1915, my family was increased to the extent of one boy who is a member of the class of 1936 at Harvard.

War Record: Had charge of the work of manufacturing a part of an electrically operating deep-sea mine, large numbers of which were manufactured for our Government. These mines were used in what is known as the Northern Barrage which extended from the northern part of the British Isles over to the coast of Norway. This so-called Northern Barrage was one thing which actually broke the back of the German submarine warfare. It effectively shut off the German submarines and prevented them from getting out into the open sea. It was the one thing that caused the German submarine crews to mutiny and refuse to put to sea because they knew that it meant destruction to them and their boats. Before the armistice was signed and fighting ceased between the Allies and Germans, work was well under way to so mine the Mediterranean about Italy as to shut in the submarines which were operating out of Austrian bases. Had the war continued, the German and Austrian submarines would have been completely shut off and prevented operating successfully by the use of this electric mine. While my service therefore was in this country, it was to me most interesting, and I considered it very vital although rather obscure and of necessity done in great secrecy. Had the war continued, I would have gone to Europe to assist in the planting of the further mine fields. My work was carried on in the latter part of 1917 and most of 1918. Worked as a member of the town committee in Belmont, Mass., for the raising of funds for the Red Cross, War Chest, and other war activities, and was sub-chairman for the sale of Liberty Bonds on all issues.

Member: Boston City Club; Masonic Lodge and Dramatic Club of Belmont; Massachusetts Republican League; Republican Town Committee of Belmont.

WALTER McKOWN JONES

Address: Villalba, Porto Rico.

Occupation: Coffee and sugar planter.

Married: Helen Buchanan, Washington, D. C., May 15, 1916.

FOR the last three years, have been Mayor of the large and prosperous town of Villalba, but am glad to say that I went automatically out of office in Oct., 1919, owing to the implantation of a new municipal law. I was also Justice of the Peace, and treasurer of the School Board.

Am at present a candidate on the Unionist ticket for the Insular House of Delegates.

Am president of the Agricultural League of Villalba and president of the Central Juliana, Inc., a sugar factory.

War Record: Served as president of the local branch of the Red Cross of Porto Rico; was chairman of the Villalba Liberty Bond campaign; acted as president of the Exemption Board of Villalba, P. R.

Member: Harvard Clubs of Boston and Porto Rico; Metropolitan Club of Washington, D. C.; Union and Country Clubs of San Juan, P. R.

IRA BEAMAN JORALEMON

Address: (home) P. O. Box 878, Warren, Ariz.

(business) Calumet and Arizona Mining Co., Warren, Ariz.

Married: Dorothy Rieber, New York, N. Y., Feb. 11, 1919. Child: Margaret, Jan. 6, 1920.

FROM July, 1915, until January, 1916, I worked for the Calumet and Arizona Mining Co. as chief geologist. Then I was given a four months' leave of absence by that company to make a mine examining trip in Bolivia and Chile with Mr. B. B. Thayer, Dr. L. D. Ricketts, Mr. Wm. Braden, and Mr. Reno Sales. We visited nearly all the great copper districts along the west coast, and had a most interesting trip. Returning up the east coast, we agreed that Rio Janeiro is the most beautiful city in the world.

From May to Dec., 1916, I resumed my old position with the Calumet and Arizona. In Jan., 1917, I left this company to go on an exploring trip to Russia and Siberia. Going across the Pacific and the trans-Siberian railroad, I reached Petrograd three days after the revolution of March, 1917. For six weeks I stayed there, watching the development of the new government. At the end of that time, all save the officials and hopeless optimists saw that a communistic "government," with resulting years of chaos, was inevitable. Therefore I returned to America, spending two or three months on the way in a hasty, but most interesting reconnaissance of the mining districts of the Ural Mountains, the Kirghese Steppe, and the Altai

A few weeks after reaching America, I entered the service. On my return from France in Feb., 1919, I was very promptly married. A month later I was discharged from the Army and came back to Arizona to make an examination of the Calumet and Arizona Mining Co. property. On Dec. 15, 1919, I was made assistant general manager of this company and of the New Cornelia Copper Co., under Col. John C. Greenway.

Mountains, in southern Siberia.

With a fine new family and a new job, I hope to stop wandering around the world and settle down to be a respectable citizen.

War Record: Commissioned as Capt., A. S. S. C., to do industrial work in Air Service. Sailed for France on Oct. 30, 1917, and spent two months in Paris doing odd jobs. Then for seven months had charge of construction of all Air Service airdromes and depots in the Zone of Advance, selecting sites, making plans, and supervising construction until the engineers took over all construction. When the 1st Army was formed, I went with it as Equipment Officer, Air Service, with rank of Major, having charge of location and building airdromes, moving squadrons up behind the offensives and ensuring supplies of airplanes, gasolene, and all necessities. Continued this work through the Argonne-Meuse and St. Mihiel operations, after the close of Château-Thierry offensive. After the armistice, went on to Coblentz as Equipment Officer, Air Service, 3rd Army. As member of U. S. Receiving Commission, Coblentz Bridgehead. I inspected and received all airplanes delivered to the American Army by the German Army under the conditions of the armistice. Received the decoration of Chevalier of Legion of Honor, and citation for distinguished service as follows:

"For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services as organizer, A. S. Supply Depots, A. E. F., in testimony thereof, and as an expression of appreciation of these services, I award him this citation."

19 April, 1919. (signed) "John J. Pershing, Commander-in-Chief." Discharged from the service on March 9, 1919.

DURING the last five years I have continued a leisurely practice of law in Boston, frequently, however, interrupting the repugnant sordidness and insincerity of the profession with more purely cultural interests of my own. During all this period, in truth, my life has been quiet and uneventful. It is my belief that individuals, like nations, are happiest when they have no history. I have always been good company for myself and often for others as well. So I am well content.

Married: Mary Rivers McHarry, Hampton, Va., May 31, 1919.

Y "life" since 1915, like all Gaul, can be divided into three parts,—before, during, and after the war. In the first period was a practitioner of general medicine in Woburn, Mass., and interesting myself, as much as possible, with a busy practice in the specialty of skin diseases and syphilis. I was a member of the surgical staff of the Choate Hospital of Woburn, and chairman of the training school committee at the same hospital. In addition I was a member of the staff at the Boston Dispensary in the department of dermatology. I also did some medical factory work. In 1916 my father died and, as I had been in practice with him, I had the responsibility of a fair-sized practice. In 1917 I had a rather serious time with my appendix, and was off duty for about two and a half months.

Shortly after leaving the Medical Corps, I married, and after four months' post-graduate work in New York, have settled down to the practice of my specialty in Boston. My association with the Boston Dispensary has continued, and I am also a member of the staff at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Thus here I am, living in Boston,

War Record: My war career was initiated by an imposing official telegram to report to Major — at the — Medical School, New York City, for a course of intensive instruction in special medical work. I endeavored to obey the telegram to the letter, but the best that I could do was to report to the secretary of the secretary of said medical school. The intensive and special parts of the telegram were correct, however. This young civilian (I had been in uniform about sixteen hours) attempted to introduce me to "mileage vouchers," "personal reports" and certain other army red tape etiquette. I sojourned in the big city during the lightless, heatless, coalless, and other "less" season, and was stuffed with a condensed, tabloid, forced feeding course of instruction in my special line for overseas' service (as I thought). My hopes were further raised by telegraphic orders to report in person to the Commanding General at the Port of Embarkation, Newport News, Va. I bade my family a tender goodbye, and hied myself to the tidewater district. The Commanding General was "not in," and a young Lieutenant passed out orders to report to Colonel —, surgeon of the port. Here a captain handed me a handful of S. O. — Par. —, to report to the Commanding Officer, Embarkation Hospital, for temporary duty. I didn't see the C. O. or the temporary duty either, for that matter. A Lieutenant welcomed me graciously, and introduced me to the surgical service. Thus happened my installation into a thirteen months' duty at the "Battle of Newport News," entrenched on the shores of Hampton Roads. It was a most tantalizing spot (to put it in polite English!), in full sight of the convoys sailing out, of the anchorages of the battleships and destroyers, and of the transports returning from "over there." It was a busy place. There was much to be done in inspecting the troops before embarking and weeding out the sick and the unfit, in caring for them at the hospital, and literally in helping to prepare the thousands to go "over the top." And yet, there I was, stalled, as it were, on the brink of the big pond, watching said boats "fold their tents and silently steal away "like the well-known Arabs. Also there I was to watch them come back - first the S. C. D.s and D. S. O.s. the sick, the lame, and the unfit, then the wounded, the amputation cases, and the gassed, and among this last group were the blinded ones, the saddest of all to look upon. Finally there debarked, and were inspected and entrained, the husky victorious heroes of real battles - and some who had only seen Paris.

FTER Decennial Reunion returned to San Francisco where remained as assist, traffic manager for the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co. until Aug., 1916. Spent the Fall of 1916 in and about new York and in Jan., 1917, sailed for South America. Visited Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires — crossed the Andes to Valparaiso and returned to the States by way of the Canal, reaching New Orleans about April 1. Having nothing in particular to do, applied for admission to the first Plattsburg company and was accepted, entering upon the army career fully described below.

In Jan., 1919, sent on detached service to London with Hoover's organization for the distribution of food relief where I remained continuously until Oct., 1919, except for one side trip to Hamburg which took in a look at the old western front from Ostend to Verdun.

Reached New York Oct. 7, and since then have spent half my time in New York and half in California, trying to decide what to do next. Have at last determined to settle permanently in San Francisco, and will move myself and family there some time this summer.

War Record: Enlisted in the United States Army on May 12, 1917; attended the First Plattsburg Training Camp from May 12 to Aug. 15, 1917; and commissioned Captain, Inf., Reserve Corps; assigned to 305th Inf., 77th Div., Sept. 1, 1917, and served with them until Jan. 20, 1919; on detached service with American Relief Administration (Grain Corporation) from Jan. 20, 1919, till discharge, May 14, 1919, and afterwards in civilian capacity until Oct. 1, 1919. During the period of my service was located at Camp Upton, N. Y., from Sept. 1, 1917, until April 15, 1918, and with A. E. F., France from latter date until Jan. 20, 1919, after which was located with A. E. F. in England until May 14, 1919. While in France was in British Training Areas from May 1 to June 5, 1918; engaged in battles in Lorraine Sector, June and July, 1918, on Vesle front up to Aug. 15, and after a sick leave until Nov. 1 rejoined the Div. on Meuse and fought with them until Nov. 10, 1918; assigned to Chaumont Area Dec. 1, 1918, and remained there until Jan. 17, 1919. Was gassed on Aug. 15, 1918.

CINCE July 1, 1915, I have been too busy with my war service to do anything worthy of note other than the routine tasks of my profession. In Feb., 1919, I was Billings lecturer for the Am. Unitarian Assoc. in Cal. In Feb., 1920, I went on a speaking trip for the Unitarian Laymen's League through the West to Seattle and Victoria, B. C. I hold a number of denominational offices such as member of the Unitarian Commission for the Celebration of the Pilgrim Tercentenary, Trustee of the Meadville Theological School, pres. of the Metropolitan Unitarian Ministers' Association, director of the General Conference of Unitarian churches, etc. I have also served two terms as president of the Long Island Harvard Club and was a member of the New York Comm. of the Harvard Endowment Fund.

War Record: My assistant having volunteered to go to Europe with the Y. M. C. A., I undertook to do his work as well as my own, and at the same time looked about for local service. The Brooklyn Chapter, A. R. C., asked me to investigate conditions at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. I discovered various ways in which the Red Cross could be of service, and after developing the work, which was among the first - if not the first - offered in the Navy, I was requested by Washington to act as Field Director for the entire Third Naval District, which covers New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. It was not an easy task as I could get little help from the Navy itself, lest it divulge naval secrets, and I was obliged to ferret out needed information for myself. I visited about twenty-five Naval Stations, selected local representatives, kept in touch with the vessels coming and going within the territory, and at the same time met the needs of any vessels of allied navies putting into port here. My job was to meet any and every need that might arise. Hundreds of thousands of knitted garments and comfort bags were distributed, home service cases attended to, small loans made to men in desperate circumstances whose pay-accounts were in arrears through accident or loss, and, in addition, the entire recreational work in the Naval Hospitals, needs for which there were no naval appropriations, but which would increase efficiency and were therefore supplied, ranging from an automobile to an electric fan, technical medical books for a Naval Air Station, etc. Great variety added great interest. It also fell to me to stimulate the interest of the Chapters, and also the Divisional-Conferences, by addressing them on the work. At the time I gave up the work it had developed so that my staff numbered about sixty. My church work I was obliged to relegate to evenings and Sundays.

FROM July, 1915, to Sept., 1917, I was with the Boston Edison Co., purchasing everything from nails to power plant equipment and placing contracts for construction work. After we entered the war I got tired of cancelling orders and trying to look busy, so joined forces with Plant Bros. and Co. as Supt. of Supplies, purchasing and distributing supplies for their Government work. Since the termination of our contracts I have filed claims and followed up the settlements. Not being able to get all the claims cleared up in my life time I will leave the balance in my will for my grandchildren to straighten out. On March 1 I start as New England representative of the Majestic Electrical Development Co. of Philadelphia.

FREDERICK WILLIAM LEHMANN, Jr.

Address: (home) 449 West 62d St., Kansas City, Mo. (business) 800 Republic Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Margaret Adelia Mills, Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 26, 1912.

ON July 1, 1915, I was peacefully practicing law in Des Moines, Ia. This I had been doing for several years and I continued to do so until May, 1917, when I enlisted. After I received my discharge on Jan. 29, 1919, I resumed my practice, or rather what was left of it, in Des Moines.

In May, 1919, I was offered the position of general counsel of the Western Petroleum Refiners Association at Kansas City. While I was reluctant to give up the general practice and to move my home, the financial arguments were all in favor of the change and I made it. Since May I have been entirely occupied in the new work. The Association is composed of independent (which means anything not controlled by the Standard Oil interests) refiners located in Kansas, Oklahoma and Northern Texas. Their troubles are many and varied. If my clients like my work as well as I do they are well pleased.

War Record: In May, 1917, some liar hung up a large banner reading "Young man, your country needs you." I read it and foolishly believed it. May 15, 1917, I enlisted as a private in the First Iowa Field Artillery, which later became the 126th Field Artillery, part of the 34th Division. We camped around Des Moines a couple of months and then moved to Camp Cody, N. M., where we sat in the hot sands forever, doing nothing of any real value and consuming large quantities of the taxpayers' money. In June, 1918, we were moved to the Brigade Training center at Fort Sill and given about two months' real training and shipped to France. By this time repeated errors on the part of my superiors had promoted me to captain. On arriving in France the regiment was sent to Camp de Souge for further preparation, and we were undergoing this training when the armistice was signed. Thereafter we loafed around Bordeaux until we were shipped home. I closed my army career by being discharged Jan. 29, 1919. Got a bronze button for acting as judge at a high school oratorical contest in connection with sale of Victory Bonds after my discharge.

Married: Leella Frances Barnes, Plymouth, Mass., Sept. 4, 1913. Child:

Robert Warren, Feb. 13, 1915.

SINCE 1915 very little of an unusual nature has happened to me. I have been in Keene as before, holding the position of head of education department in the Keene Normal School. In Sept., 1919, I was elected superintendent of schools in Keene, which position I am holding at the present time. Outside of the usual routine of professional and social duties I am unable to offer anything exciting for my classmates to read.

Although I seem to be leading a comparatively secluded existence. my interest in Harvard and 1905 remains constant and supreme.

War Record: Acted as solicitor for Keene War Chest, and as one of the Four Minute speakers; was an assistant on filing of questionnaires for Exemption Board of Cheshire County, N. H. In connection with work in Normal School I was a lecturer on Americanization.

Member: Harvard Club of Keene; Lodge of the Temple F. and A. M. (Keene); Cheshire Chapter R. A. Masons (Keene); Schoolmasters Club of New Hampshire; Unitarian Club of Keene.

N July 1, 1915, I was superintendent for Albert Kahn, architect, Detroit, in charge of construction of the Natural Science Building of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. In Oct., 1915, I was transferred to St. Louis in charge of construction of an addition to the assembling plant of the Ford Motor Co. In Aug., 1916, I was transferred back to Ann Arbor in charge of construction of the University's General Library.

I left Mr. Kahn in Aug., 1918, to go into the army. After being

ern Expanded Metal Co., Chicago, my present occupation.

War Record: Commissioned 1st Sergeant, Engrs., Aug. 27, 1918. Ordered to Camp Humphreys (5th Co., E. O. T. S.), for training. Ordered to 153d Engrs., Camp Shelby, Nov. 9, 1918. On account of armistice and cancellation of draft, 153d Engrs. was paper organization only. Was attached as Battalion Unit Supply Officer to 564th Engr. Service Battalion. On breaking up of this unit was attached to Engineer Headquarters, Camp Shelby, as adjutant. Ordered to 217th Engineers, Camp Beauregard, Jan. 6, 1919. Assigned to Co. C, taking command by seniority. Unmarried.

Y practice since the last report has been largely confined to obstetrics. I am visiting obstetrician to the Memorial Hospital, Worcester, Mass.

War Record: Commissioned 1st Lieutenant, Medical Reserve Corps, May 19, 1917. Called to active duty, June 13, 1917. Arrived in early Aug. at St. Nazaire, France, after waiting for transportation about two months at Hoboken. Was assigned to Base Hospital # 101 which was just being organized, and remained with this unit until March 1, 1919, with never an opportunity to go to the front. March and April, 1919, I spent at the University of Toulouse, where I had been sent on my request to go to England in order to take up some courses of instruction as offered to our officers and men. In May, 1919, I received orders to return to the United States, and was discharged from the service June 13, 1919. On Oct. 11, 1918, I had been raised to Captain, M. R., and on May 2, 1919, had been appointed Major. Held this latter rank at the time of my discharge.

Occupation: Assistant professor of music.

Elizabeth Merrill, Feb. 13, 1913; Anne Griswold, Feb. 27, 1917.

A FTER taking my A.M. at Harvard in June, 1915, I came to Northampton as I had accepted a position as associate professor in music in Smith College. With the exception of the year 1918–1919, when I was at Camp Devens, I have remained in Northampton. We have built a house and expect to make Northampton our permanent home. My work in the college consists in teaching the piano, giving two courses in the History of Music, and giving occasional piano-recitals and lecture-recitals. I have also appeared here as soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. In Oct., 1919, I was elected chairman of the Department of Music.

War Record: Was assistant manager of the Soldiers' Club. War Camp Community Service. Ayer, Mass., from May, 1918. to Aug., 1918. Served with Red Cross hospital service, Base Hospital, Camp

Devens, Mass., from Aug., 1918, to May, 1919, first as Assistant Associate Field Director in Hospital Service and later as Associate Field Director in charge of Recreation Service. Acted as chairman of Red Cross membership campaign for Hampshire County, Christmas, 1917, and supervisor of auxiliaries for the Hampshire County Chapter of the Red Cross, Spring of 1918.

Have written: "Beethoven's Instrumental Music"; translated from E. T. A. Hoffmann's "Kreisleriana," with an introductory note, "The Musical Quarterly," Vol. 3, No. 1, Jan., 1917; "The Background of the Romantic Movement in French Music," the Musical Quarterly," Vol. 6, No. 2, April, 1920; "Music and the Romantic Movement in France," London, 1920; in the Library of Music and Musicians, pub. by Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner & Co., Ltd.

FROM July, 1915, till June, 1918, I continued to teach in the Plainfield High School. I then gave up teaching and went into business, accepting a position with the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. I was there until Feb. 1, 1919, when I came to my present position as chief accountant for the Wood Newspaper Machinery Corporation.

Aside from work nothing very exciting has happened. My war record can be told in a very short and concise sentence — nothing. I had, however, four very good reasons for not enlisting,— my wife and three small children.

War Record: Served as associate member of Legal Advisory Board of Plainfield, N. J.

HARVARD COLLEGE — CLASS OF 1905 194

War Record: Had acted as secretary of the American Relief Clearing House in Rome, and upon the coming of the A. R. C. I was sent to open a canteen at Ancona, and later was given charge of that district from Ravenna to Campobasso. The work consisted of a hospital with one hundred fifty beds for refugeees at Rimini, seven lace ouvroirs for Venetian refugees, an orphan asylum, a summer colony for children, two dispensaries, two military canteens, in one of which, for soldiers passing on transport trains, we fed from ninety to one hundred thousand per month; three ouvroirs for clothing, three economic kitchens, a nurses' home, a colony for refugees, and public bath for refugee families. We also gave out several million lires' worth of food and clothing supplies. During Jan., 1919, I distributed supplies in Dalmatia, at Zara, Sibenico and several of the Islands. Received the following decorations: Order of the Crown of Italy; ribbon for Italian service at the front; gold medal from Venice; gold medal from Rimini; honorary citizenship from Rimini; Italian Red Cross Medal of Merit (silver); silver loving cup from Ancona, Porchurent, and Ravenna.

Married: Rachel Holman Heywood, Holyoke, Mass., July 29, 1908. Children: Marion Elizabeth, July 3, 1910; Harvey Heywood, July 11, 1912; Robert Stuart, 2d, March 25, 1917.

DURING the school year 1915–16 I was school minister at Worcester Academy. Besides having charge of the religious work among the boys, I taught English Bible and Ancient History. I preached nearly every Sunday and for four months was acting pastor of the Congregational Church at Paxton, Mass.

In Sept., 1916, I became pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Suffield, Conn. The following May I became also acting pastor of the First Baptist Church at Zion's Hill in the same town. I did some tutoring and substitute teaching in the Suffield School. I farmed twelve acres, took an active part in the Grange, and served on the committee which cooperated with the Connecticut Agricultural College in conducting an annual conference for country ministers. During this period membership in the Springfield Biblical Club served to keep me in touch with the scholarly side of the ministry.

On June 28, 1919, I was called to the pastorate of the Old Cambridge Baptist Church, Massachusetts Avenue and Harvard Street, and began work in Sept. I am living at 12 Sacramento St. and would be glad to see any 1905 men. I got back to Cambridge just in time to take part in the pre-quindecennial reunion and had a good time renewing old friendships.

War Record: June 19, 1918, I was commissioned 1st Lieutenant, Chaplain, U. S. A., and June 24 reported for duty at Camp Devens with 301 Hdgtrs., Trains and Military Police. We left July 8, arriving in England July 22, and at St. Amand on the 28th. I was postmaster for Trains and Military Police Censor, served as counsel in courts-martial and had other odd jobs besides preaching two or three times a week, teaching Bible class, visiting the sick, conducting many funerals and trying to be a useful friend to as many men as possible. After the Division broke up I had a week at Chaplains' School, then three months' service with negro troops. I sold canteen supplies, furnished moving picture shows and did educational and religious work. On the completion of the Fuel Wood Project, I was transferred to the Second Air Depot at Latrecey where I was Post Chaplain and also served detachments at outlying points. I sailed from Marseilles May 15 and was discharged at Camp Dix, June 3, 1919.

While at Suffield, Conn., I canvassed for all drives for war funds, and preached sermons to promote same. Served also on the Connecticut Home Guard, and aided with food production.

THE Summer of 1917 found me chafing under the yoke of a desire to class myself among those crossing to the war-torn fields of Europe, and not exactly feeling the desire for a military life, knowing full well it would descend upon us sooner or later, I joined up with a Quaker Unit then in training for reconstruction work in devastated France. A period of training at Haverford College brought me to the point of physical acceptance, which was followed after many talks and lectures by an examination through which I passed, emerging on the final threshold and accepted for work overseas. After an uncomfortable crossing and a three weeks' stay in Paris, I was assigned to work in a little village called Gruney in the Somme, where I did my best to reconstruct what the enemy had destroyed. I stayed there for some months, returning again to America at the end of Feb., where I remained six months. The difficulty with food and living under the constant strain of bombardment put me physically low, so I felt it necessary to return and get started again, for I had made up my mind to return and finish the job in one way or another. On the 29th of Aug., 1918, I sailed for Bordeaux, having joined the Y. M. C. A. with the understanding that after my correspondence work ended I was to join up in Italy. After several months in London and Paris, nightmares now when I think of them, I came down to Rome direct and after a week or two in which time I finished my writing, I joined the Y. M. C. A. doing work at the Casa del Soldato for the Italian Army, and from Nov. 13, 1918, to Oct. 4, 1919, I personally looked after one hundred and twenty-eight thousand men, including German and Austrian prisoners. I am still in Rome working on some English at the Berlitz School, and will be here for some months yet. Rome is a most enchanting city to live in, and I have grown to love and admire the Italians.

Married: Penelope Belle Lloyd, Hayneville, Ala., July 6, 1907.

SINCE my last Class Report in July, 1915, all of my time has been taken up in the general practice of law at my present address. Although many and varied have been my experiences in said general practice in both the United States and State Courts, I cannot say that anything unusual or of any very great importance has transpired from that time up until the Summer of 1918, when I was retained by the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. under the United States Railroad Administration as special attorney to investigate and direct prosecutions against persons committing larcenies from the Commissary Department of that road. The investigation resulted in the arrest and conviction of thirty-five employees of the Dining Car Department of the N. H. Road. My services in said capacity continued until about the Summer of 1919.

The only other matter which I should consider worthy of mention since that time was a trial before the Supreme Court, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in which I represented the plaintiff, the case of Lieutenant Morris Hoffman against the Charlestown Five Cents Savings Bank, which case established the law of foreclosure under the so-called Soldiers and Sailors Act. This is the first and leading case under that Act in the United States.

EVER since 1911 I have been connected with the Heine Safety Boiler Co., manufacturers of steel boilers for power plants, railroads, office buildings, steam ships, etc. Have held the following positions: General sales manager, 1911; vice-president, 1913; treasurer, 1914; president, 1918.

War Record: Offered services to Government in any capacity. Was told that the primary need was ships, and that anyone with training to turn out ships or parts of ships could render greater service in shipbuilding than in army. Turned both plants over to Government service exclusively. While we had never built any marine boilers we took our plans and designs to Washington on a marine boiler and after designs were approved we delivered about four hundred marine boilers, equipping some ninety-seven ships for Pershing's "bridge of boats." We carried on work in shipyards all over the United States from Maine to California. In addition to this, one plant was busy on land work for Government, furnishing boilers for railroads in France, munition factories, gun shops, arsenals, shell loading plants, etc. Increased our output at Government solicitation nearly ten to one. In addition to this every employee from Maine to California has a one hundred per cent. record on all Liberty Loans, Red Cross and war work campaigns. Each man was given a badge signifying shipbuilding or type of Government work engaged on, and admission to plant was on badge only.

Received the following letter from Mr. Hurley of the United States Shipping Board:

"July 26, 1920.

"Your patriotic efforts in supplying material and equipment for the use of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation during the recent crisis were most helpful to our Government in aiding in the winning of the war and as I am leaving the Shipping Board on July 31, I wish to take this opportunity to express to you my sincere appreciation for your endeavors and support in carrying out our shipbuilding program for war purposes as well as the work you are now doing in furnishing equipment for our ships to establish an American Merchant Marine.

Occupation: Statistician.

Married: Pink Wilson, Washington, D. C., Aug. 25, 1909. Child: Adele Stuart, Oct. 11, 1914.

RESIGNED as assistant chief, United States Children's Bureau, Oct., 1915, to accept position on the staff of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research. Served as editor for the Commission on Pensions of the City of New York and prepared manuscript of book on "Principles Governing the Retirement of Public Employees," which was published by the Institute for Government Research of Washington. Oct., 1916, returned to Washington as a member of the senior staff of the Institute for Government Research. Made survey of the United States Bureau of Education, including its statistical work. For brief periods was assigned to statistical and organization work for the Council of National Defense and the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

June, 1919, went to the Congressional Joint Commission on Reclassification of Salaries; served as chairman of the staff committees on the classification of statistical positions and group chairman for the clerical committees; organized the statistical division; and was designated statistician to the commission. Will return to the Institute for Government Research on completion of present assignment.

For three years prior to going to New York I was secretary of the Monday Evening Club. I am at present one of the vice-presidents of the American Statistical Association.

This account has a sound of all work and no play. That has been the lot of the government man in the last few years, but fortunately I have enjoyed the work.

War Record: Served as administrative statistician and production manager, Division of Planning and Statistics, United States Shipping Board, April, 1918, to June, 1919.

Have written: "Principles Governing the Retirement of Public Employees," D. Appleton and Co., New York, publishers for the Institute for Government Research, 1918; several official statistical reports.

WALTER WILLIAMSON MERRILL

Occupation: Army officer.

Married: Mary Adalyn Haldeman, Glendale, Ohio, June 2, 1913. Children: Walter Williamson, Jr., July 27, 1914, Mary Adalyn, Aug. 24, 1915.

ON July 1, 1915, I was stationed at a recruit depot, Jefferson Barracks, Mo. In June, 1916. sailed for Panama. Although I had expected to be in Panama for three years, my promotion to the grade of Captain brought with it my return to the United States within a month. My next station was at Fort Sam Houston with the Seventh Field Artillery. In Feb., 1917. transferred to the Coast Artillery Corps and was sent to San Francisco. Was stationed there, at Fort Baker, until Nov., 1917, when I left for France, where I served in the American Expeditionary Forces.

War Record: Arrived in France about Jan., 1918. After reporting at headquarters — being a Coast Artillery Officer — was assigned to the railway artillery. I reported at Mailly-le-Camp. and joined the 52d Artillery (C. A. C.). At this time I was a Captain. In May I became a Major. On July 4 I went to the front in command of the 2d Battalion, 42d Artillery (C. A. C.). My battalion was attached to the 8th French Army, with station on the Lorraine front, at the village of Champenoux, east of Nancy. We remained on this front until Sept. 25, when we returned to the railway artillery base at Haussimont. From Nov. 13 till Nov. 25 I was assigned to a grouping of railway artillery of the Second Army at Dieubouard. Sailed for the United States on Dec. 22, 1918, in command of the 52d Artillery (C. A. C.). All of my service was with railway artillery.

Have written: "Artillery in the Present European War," May, 1916, published in the "Field Artillery Journal."

PERCIVAL RAYMOND MILLER

Address: (home) 622 Loraine Apartments, Grand Rapids, Mich. (business) c/o The Macey Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Occupation: Sales and advertising manager.

Married: 1st marriage at Cincinnati, Ohio, on Feb. 3, 1903; divorced, Oct. 28, 1918; Edythe St. Maur Prendergast, Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 6, 1919. Children: Dorothy Ethel, Sept. 16, 1905; Ruth Elizabeth, April 2, 1907.

MOVED from Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 3, 1905, to Grand Rapids, Mich. After working for one and one-half years for a concern resigned, and associated myself with the Macey Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., where I have been ever since. Have worked my way up here from clerk in office to department head, then road work, then advertising manager, and then sales and advertising manager.

War Record: Did some work in the sale of Liberty Bonds when occupation permitted; was assigned to Class 1-A shortly before the armistice.

Member: Blue Lodge, York 410, F. & A. M., Consistory, Dewitt Clinton, and Shrine — Saladin — all Masonic.

RICHARD HENRY MILLER

Address: (home) 843 Main St., Fitchburg, Mass. (business) 434 Marlboro St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Surgeon.

Unmarried.

A T the time of the last report I was practicing surgery in Boston, having a small amount of work of my own, but chiefly busy as the assistant and associate of Dr. Franklin G. Balch. I continued thus till July, 1917, save that in the Summer of 1916 I was at the Mexican border with the 1st Mass. Field Artillery. It was interesting that there were in this regiment at Fort Bliss five 1905 men — Norton Wigglesworth, John O'Keefe, Erland Fish, Osborne Safford and myself. Between my return from the border and my re-entry into the army I hardly gathered up the scattered remains of my civilian work, as I was mostly occupied with military duties.

On being mustered out of the service I resumed the practice of surgery, but have found that work comes back very slowly to those who have been away as everything had to be readjusted.

I hold the following positions: Surgeon to out-patients, Mass. General Hospital (chief of Out-Patient Service); Asst. surgeon, Robert B. Brigham Hospital; consulting surgeon, Mass. Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, Henry Heywood Hospital (Gardner), House of the Good Samaritan (Brookline). I am also instructor in surgery and assistant instructor in anatomy, Harvard Medical School.

War Record: From July 2, to Nov. 16, 1916, I served as 1st Lieutenant, M. C., 1st Mass. Field Artillery, Mexican border. Entered the service of the United States Army on July 25, 1917; was attached to the 101st Field Artillery, Medical; held ranks of 1st Lieutenant, M. C., Captain, M. C., and Major, M. C., respectively. Served at Camp Curtis Guild, Boxford, Mass., Camp Coetquidan, France, and in various localities of France, proceeding to Embarkation Area for service from Nov. 11, 1918, to March 29, 1919. Was in the minor engagements of Chemin des Dames from Feb. 4 to March 16, 1918, and Toul Sector, battles of Seicheprey and Apremont, from April 3 to June 29, 1918. Served through the following major operations: Aisne-Marne Offensive (Château-Thierry), July 18 to Aug. 4, 1918; St. Mihiel Offensive, Sept. 12 to 16, 1918; Meuse-Argonne Offensive, Oct. 11 to Nov. 11, 1918. Resigned from the service on April 29, 1919.

Received citation from General C. R. Edwards, for "gallant conduct and devotion to duty on the field on July 31, 1918, during the Second Battle of the Marne." Also received citation on April 19, 1919, from General Pershing, "For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services as Regimental Surgeon, 101st Field Artillery, American Expeditionary Forces."

Member: Harvard Club of Boston; Aesculapian Club; Tennis and Racquet Club; Boston Athletic Association; Massachusetts Medical Society.

CHARLES EVERETT MINER

Address: (home) 8 Everett St., Concord, Mass.

(permanent) P. O. Box 203, Yauco, Porto Rico.

Married: Candida Royo, Guayanilla, P. R., June 27, 1913. Children: Charles Newell, 2d, Sept. 15, 1915; Edwin, Oct. 5, 1917; Wilfred Everett, Dec. 26, 1918.

SINCE July 1, 1915, I have continued in the teaching profession as a supervisor of schools in Porto Rico.

Offices of trust or honor: I have been elected by unanimous vote the father of three husky boys each of whose arrival has strongly punctuated the monotony of the struggle with the H. C. L.

War Record: In my capacity as supervisor of schools my efforts were concentrated on Red Cross and Liberty Loan campaigns. Although citizens of the United States only a short time, the Porto Ricans responded gallantly. In the school district every child and teacher was enrolled in the Red Cross and most of the teachers took Liberty Bonds.

Married: Lillian Isabel McKechnie, Taunton, Mass., July 27, 1913. Child:

Frederick Porter Moore, Jr., Feb. 28, 1916.

HAVE been assistant physician at the Norfolk State Hospital, Norfolk, Mass., until I entered the service Oct. 22, 1918.

My work consisted in the treatment of alcoholic and drug addicts. War Record: Enlisted in the Medical Corps of the United States Army on Oct. 22, 1918, and served with them until Oct. 1, 1919, as 1st Lieutenant, M. C., located at various intervals at Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C., Camp Meade, Admiral, Md., and Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

I was sent to Camp Greene to examine the command for nervous and mental diseases. My work was entirely as a neuro-psychiatrist, and with the signing of the armistice, I did nothing but examine the cases passing through for demobilization, until I was discharged.

Member: Mass. Medical Society; American Medical Association.

SINCE July 1, 1915, I practiced architecture at 209 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., until Sept. 1, 1918, when I was called to

Washington, D. C.

War Record: Worked with Construction Division of the army, located at 7th and B Sts., Washington, until Nov. 10, 1918, when I was transferred to Lakehurst, N. J., to assist the constructing quartermaster Major George C. Burnett. Dec. 1, 1918, I was sent to Mays Landing, N. J., to work up the progress charts of that plant (the Bethleman Loading Plant). Returned to Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 1, 1919, and worked there until the camp was sold. May 1, 1919, I was assigned to the Southern Department at San Antonio, Tex., and on May 15, 1919, was sent to this camp at Eagle Pass, Tex. I have been superintendent of construction here ever since, assisting Major G. C. Burnett, and will have to stay here until June 1, 1920.

My mother died Aug. 30, 1913, and at present my family consists of only my father, who to-day is much more of a boy than I am.

Am still a "parson." Of that there is nothing to say, for a parson's life is of the simplest — it has to be.

War Record: During the past three years I have been one of those despised Y. M. C. A. men who are said to have filled their pockets with the poor doughboy's money. I never worked so hard in all my life though. I was in charge of the largest hut on the other side — the Eagle Hut in London. There men of all the armies were cared for, and meals amounted some days to fifty-five hundred, beds to four hundred, and drinks to any number. Oh yes, and I had the pleasure of showing the King and Queen "How the Americans did it." It is a great come-back to be back preaching in a little New York town like Utica, but at least I am not being "slammed."

THE time from 1915 to Aug., 1917, was passed as U. S. Surveyor for the General Land Office, a vocation taken up after I was forced to remove to Arizona for my health in 1914. A healthy vocation, although not especially remunerative. As a result I can truthfully claim to know more about the topography of the State of Arizona than any other Harvard man now living. Silver chevron stuff from Aug., 1917, until March, 1919, and a six months' rest recovering from the strain thereof until Oct., 1919. Since then I have been paying the downtrodden farmers of the Salt River Valley all the way from eighty cents to a dollar a pound for their cotton and wishing that I were a farmer instead of a mere Harvard graduate.

War Record: Enlisted in the United States Army on Aug. 25, 1917, and served until March 4, 1919; was attached to 345th F. A., 165th Depot Brigade, 6th Regt. F. A. R. C., Camp Jackson, S. C., and 1st Prov. Dev. Brigade, Camp Jackson, S. C. Held rank of 2d Lieutenant, R. O. T. C., Leon Springs, Tex., Aug. 25 to Nov. 27, 1917; Captain, F. A. R. C., Nov. 27, 1917, to Oct. 24, 1918; Major, F. A., Oct. 24, 1918, to March 4, 1919; am at present Major, F. A. R. C. Was located at Camp Travis, Tex., from Dec. 10, 1917, to May 28, 1918, and at Camp Jackson, S. C., from May 30, 1918, to March 4, 1919.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Irene McEnteer, DuBois, Pa., Nov. 22, 1911. Child: Francis Emmet, Jr., June 26, 1914.

NTIL June, 1916, I lived in Porto Rico in charge of the office of my firm there. Came back to New York in October, 1916, and continued the practice of law until I went in the Army and I have practiced law in the same place and in the same way since I got out of the Army.

War Record: Was commissioned 1st Lieutenant, Quartermaster's Corps, June 7, 1918, reported at Newport News, Va., where I was assigned to Company C, 319th Labor Battalion. Sailed from Newport News for France July 10, 1918; arrived at Brest July 21; ordered to Gievres; arrived there July 29, 1918.

On July 30 was placed in command of Company D, 319 Labor Battalion. After two days the commanding officer at Gievres discovered that I was a lawyer and assigned me to defend a man charged with murder. As the deceased was a Chinaman the accused got off with six months. From that time on I practiced law.

On Oct. 12 I was ordered to General Headquarters for inspection and after a few days was advised that I would remain there in the Judge Advocate's office, and there I stayed until I left for Brest the latter part of June, 1919, to sail for the United States.

Was appointed Captain, Judge Advocate General's Department on June 7, 1918, and Major, Feb. 19, 1919.

DURING the five years since 1915 I have remained on the scientific staff of the Department of Fishes of the American Museum, being now associate curator, supposed to be a slight promotion.

Have made several short field trips to Florida, but have done no field work out of the country.

Have been at Garden City, Long Island, in the Winter and at Mastic, Long Island, in the Summer.

Had no part whatever in war service, though it was found that a surprising number of war problems had a natural history bearing which led to the American Museum being consulted, and in this connection I was in touch with others interested in camouflage, aviation, recording submarine sounds, and food conservation.

Have written: Since the decennial I have written one hundred and thirty-nine articles on fishes, birds, etc., only one of which, "Fishes of the Vicinity of New York City," 1918, was sufficiently long, popular, or important, to be issued bound.

Married: Hasu no Hana Gardiner, Tokvo, Japan, June 20, 1916. Children: Cecil Florence Ritchie, March 22, 1917; Walter, June 18, 1919.

MY manner of life has changed largely in the past five years, and the change began just as you all were reading the last Class Report. On Aug. 29, 1915, I became engaged to Hasu no Hana Gardiner. As some have been misled by her name, I add that she is pure American, though born in Japan; her father being a graduate of Harvard College, both father and mother missionaries here in Japan of long standing. We were married June 20, 1916, and two days later sailed for home on furlough. It was great to see U. S. A. again, as many of you can testify by experience. We returned to Japan in Feb., 1917. Had my furlough lasted a month or two longer, I might have had a war record to write, or to be written; but as it actually happened, we reached Japan just as unlimited submarine warfare was announced, and many circumstances made it seem as if my place was here. Bandage rolling, knitting socks and filling in for a single missionary near me who went to Siberia for a year, these are the sum of my war services. I have had other troubles, too, since returning. Within a year of our arrival my wife became so ill that I had to give up active missionary work for a time, and it looked as if I should have to guit entirely and take her to America for treatment. But, almost as by a miracle, she rose out of the depths in a single night, and has been quite herself ever since. Besides having charge of a fairly large field, I am just now in the agonies of trying to build a new church in Hirosaki. Before I began negotiations, I thought perhaps there were a few trustworthy carpenters, etc., in town, but now I know there are none, no, not one; and I am bracing myself to contend with such as there are.

It is one of the inconveniences of life out here that furloughs will not coincide with reunions. Here's wishing everything good to the class; may her sons keep her fame high.

BECAUSE of the continued illness of the father and only sister of Mrs. Niles, in the Spring of 1916 we moved to Everett, renting the house adjoining that of her family. Here I hung out my shingle but still continued to play the trumpet in a local theatre until my practice would support me. At last fortune smiled on me. A new mayor was elected for 1917 and my name was suggested as city physician. Although I had not been active politically in his campaign nor had ever met him personally before his election, after investigating my credentials he gave me the appointment. This was the real beginning of my professional life. I permanently severed my connection with the business of music and devoted my entire energy to medical matters. Home and professional duties so bound me that although I offered my name and was enrolled as a member of the Medical Reserve Corps, I was not called into active war service, though the absence of several doctors made my home service more needed. This position I have held now for two consecutive years, but with a change of administration this year I am glad to give way to my successor as I am sufficiently well established to continue without the aid of a salaried position and especially one which was rather trying and poorly paid. With the birth of a first and only son at the time of this writing, I am looking forward with renewed inspiration to a broader sphere of activity in the coming vears.

DURING the early part of 1916, while I was employed as a food and drug analyst in the laboratory of the Mass. Dept. of Public Health, Dr. Allan J. McLaughlin, then Commissioner of Health, anticipated a complete curtailment of shipment into this country from Germany of a drug used in the treatment of syphilis. This drug contains about thirty per cent of arsenic, and is known as "Salvarsan."

An act was passed by the Legislature of that year for an appropriation to study and prepare this substance for free distribution in Massachusetts. I was detailed with others upon this work. After seven months' study of the German literature upon this product and of the chemical methods employed we were successful in the synthesis of the drug.

For the past two years we have been manufacturing this drug, which is called "arsphenamine," upon a factory scale, and at present I am the chemist in charge of the arsphenamine laboratory of the Mass, Dept. of Public Health.

A SIDE from war service and war activities my time has been devoted mainly to law practice, except during period from Aug. 1, 1919, to Feb. 14, 1920, when I resided at Washington, D. C., and devoted all my time to the duties of director of the Friends of Irish Freedom, National Bureau of Information. The bureau represented all the organizations and peoples believing Ireland is entitled to independence and freedom, beliefs which I have ever shared and have consistently sought to have shared, also, by all lovers of liberty.

War Record: From Aug. to Oct. 29, 1918, at request of American Bar Ass'n., gave entire time to duties as National Field Organizer of U. S. Employment Service, working in N. H. and Mich., with some work in Md. and Ohio; resumed this work Dec. 20, 1918, and continued to Feb. 15, 1919, organizing work at Southern cantonments.

Served in the Army Service Corps of the Judge Advocate General's section of the U. S. Army from Oct. 29 to Dec. 14, 1918; enlisted as private and promoted to Captaincy; was also Personnel Adjutant; have been commissioned Captain in the Reserve Corps, Judge Advocate General's Section.

Acted as collector for Red Cross and other funds; also aided in the sale of Liberty Bonds; made frequent addresses in connection with same. Was Provost Marshal Agent for District 18, Boston; senior Government Appeal Agent for same district; member Legal Advisory Board.

Have written: As reporter and associate editor on daily paper wrote many scores of special articles as well as current news articles.

SINCE our last report and to date I have continued to teach in various schools trying to fit my peculiar abilities to singular requirements of boys' private schools, and am now teaching at the Polytechnic Preparatory Country Day School in Brooklyn, N. Y. The ideal adjustment for continued success for myself has not yet been made. In the Summers I have continued greatly to enjoy my Summer camp work. During the Summers of 1915 and 1916 I was senior councillor at Camp Wyanoke, Wolfsboro, N. H. Then became a partner of Mr. J. G. Anderson in Camp Winnepesaukee and was acting director of that camp during Summers of 1917 and 1918. That Winter I bought out Mr. Anderson and am now sole director and owner of the camp and am finding the work very much to my liking.

NOTHING of interest to say. I have been simply plugging along earning a living of a sort for my growing family. Nearly two years in Uncle Sam's uniform broke the even course of my life.

War Record: Commissioned Captain, E. O. R. C., Sept. 23, 1917; called into service, Dec. 28, 1917; sent to Camp Lee, Va., to Engineer Officers' Training Camp, Jan. 1, 1918, and to Washington, D. C., to Engineering Depot, about April 1, 1918; transferred to 26th Engineers, Camp Dix, N. J., on April 15 as Engineer Officer. Left Camp Dix with the Headquarters of 26th Engrs. the last of June, 1918.

Arrived in France July 14, 1918, and sent to Baccarat as officer in charge of water supply for Alsace front. Recalled to Headquarters, 1st Army, just being formed, in Aug. to be Asst. Water Supply Officer on staff of Chief Engr. Served in this capacity through the activities of 1st Army in St. Mihiel and Argonne drives. Was made Water Supply Officer in Dec., 1918, and served as such until return to United States in May, 1919, except for about six weeks spent in Paris as Executive Officer for the Roumanian Mission to estimate war damages for the American Commission to Negotiate Peace. This last was during Jan. and Feb., 1919. Held the rank of Major, C. E., at the time I resigned, May 23, 1919. Was recommended for the D. S. M., but never received it.

JAMES LACY OREAR

Address: (home) 269 Huron Ave., Cambridge, Mass. (business) Box 31, Cambridge, Mass.

Occupation: Manufacturer.

Married: Winifred Thayer, Cambridge, Mass., May 9, 1903. Children: Katherine Bartlett, May 12, 1904; Stanley Thayer, April 25, 1908. AVE the brokerage account of the firm of McKesson and Robbins for Eastern Mass. and Rhode Island, whereas I was formerly and for nine years with Wm. D. Warner and Co. of the same district. That is positively my only deviation from the "say-nothing-and-saw-wood" existence of the past five years. It would be bromide to say that business has been good with me, for it has with everybody who has not been asleep from his neck up. As far as outside affairs are concerned I have held no position of honor, political, social, or otherwise.

Member: Harvard and Boston City Clubs, Boston.

GEORGE WHITNEY OUTERBRIDGE

(permanent) 7048 Germantown Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

Occupation: Physician.

Unmarried.

SINCE my last report I have been plugging along in my profession, limiting my work to pelvic and abdominal surgery. I have found progress slow and for the most part discouraging, particularly so after twenty months' absence during the war. I am not married and have no prospects. Otherwise there is little of general interest to report concerning my life during the past five years.

War Record: Commissioned 1st Lieutenant, M. C., U. S. A., June 30, 1917; ordered into active service Aug. 11, 1917; sailed for overseas duty Aug. 18, 1917. Joined Base Hospital 10, Le Tréport, France, Sept. 2, 1917, with rank of Major. Served with B. H. 10 from Sept. 2, 1917, to March 4, 1919, with following intermissions: British Stationary Hospital 5, Dieppe, France, Feb. 15 to March 30, 1918; Mobile Hospital 8, A. E. F., Argonne-Meuse area, Oct. 15, 1918, to Jan. 7, 1919. Left France April 6, 1919. Demobilized Camp Dix, N. J., April 22, 1919.

Have Written: About a dozen papers for various medical journals.

RAYMOND HANSEN OVESON

Address: (home) Turnpike Rd., Southboro, Mass. (business) 15 State St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Catharine Sabine, Brookline, Mass., June 11, 1908. Children:

Margaret, Sept. 18, 1909; Caroline Sabine, Sept. 9, 1915.

SINCE 1915 I have continued the practice of law. The war disturbed my old partnership, one of my partners being sent to France as a Major of Infantry and the other one to Washington, D. C., in connection with work for the U. S. Shipping Board.

This year I became associated with three lawyers of good standing and repute as head of the law firm of Oveson, Halloran, Burnham and Draper with offices at 15 State St., Boston.

The most complimentary thing which happened to me during these five years was perhaps the offer of the presidency of a New England

University. As for offices of honor or trust, I have been chairman of the Board of Selectmen of Southboro for the past five years and reelected again this year. Am director of the Cosmopolitan Trust Co. of Boston, director and treasurer of the American Match Co., director and treasurer of the Charles River Cooperative Market, president of the Lorensen and Wallin Co., Inc., president of the National Grocers Profit-Sharing Co., and president of the Cooperative Rendering Co., Inc. Am also trustee of Embankment Trust and trustee of Lime Street Trust.

Am still a student of foreign languages, history and economics, as in the good old college days, and in them and in the development of my farm in Southboro I find much pleasure and relaxation.

GEORGE PORTER PAINE

Address: (home) 20 Walker St., Cambridge, Mass.

Occupation: National Research Fellow, stationed at Harvard.

Married: Edna Springer, Ellsworth, Me., June 24, 1908. Children: George Porter, May 3, 1909; Edward Springer, April 2, 1913; William Osgood, Aug. 15, 1914.

IN 1914, was appointed Research Instructor in the University of Wisconsin, where I remained until June, 1919, dividing my time between the teaching of engineering mathematics and researches in aërodynamics. The results of the latter were published by the United States Weather Bureau in 1918.

Came to Cambridge last August to take up work in connection with the National Research Fellowship to which I was elected in April by the National Research Council at Washington. This is one of the fellowships supported by the Rockefeller Foundation with a view to the "increase of knowledge relating to the fundamental principles of physics and chemistry, upon which the progress of all the sciences and the development of industry depend."

During the present academic year, I have been engaged on important researches relative to the laws of evaporation and the measurement of free-air humidities.

Students' Army Training Corps, University of Wisconsin.

Have written: "Report on Modes of Air Motion and the Equations of the General Circulation of the Earth's Atmosphere," in "Monthly Weather Review" for July, 1918.

Member: American Meteorological Society; American Geophysical Union.

ALBERT RANSOM PARKER

Address: (home) 5 Hilliard Pl., Cambridge, Mass. (business) Receiving Ship at Boston, Hingham, Mass.

Occupation: Chaplain, U. S. Naval Reserve Force.

Married: Susan Uruth Sparklin, Boston, Feb. 22, 1909. Children: Margaret, Jan. 14, 1910; Albert Ransom, Jr., Jan. 5, 1914.

I (PERSONAL pronoun), a poor plodding parson (office of trust and honor), was the rector of St. John's, Fall River, between the dates set for this connected narrative. Then came the war.

War Record: I began my service as a private in Co. X, a business and professional man's military organization in Fall River. Promoted to Corporal, Sergeant, Color Sergeant, and qualified as Second Class Gunner, Coast Artillery. Was mustered into the State Guard as private; commissioned Lieutenant for Supply Co.; later made chaplain with the rank of Captain. In July, 1918, enrolled in the Naval Reserve; was given the rank of Lieutenant, and ordered to Harvard University as Chaplain of the Radio School, the school numbering between five and six thousand men. My office was in Divinity Library, my church was Sanders Theatre, Memorial Hall. I often held services out of doors on the Palfrey Estate, or on the campus between Langdell and Pierce Halls. President Lowell and I were frequently called upon to "officiate" at the commissioning of the graduates of the Officer Material School which took place in Sanders Theatre.

Before the Radio School "shoved off" I asked for sea duty. I was ordered to Hingham. I have been here nearly a year. I have seen thousands of officers and men here but I have not seen Charlie Mason yet. I am still hoping. He may come some day.

Throughout the war I helped the sale of Liberty Bonds, drives for Red Cross and other welfare organizations by speeches, etc. Sent eighty-five men from my parish under the Selective Service Law.

Served as Lieutenant and Captain, Headquarters Co., 17th Regiment of Infantry, M. S. G., from 1916 to 1919.

Member: United States Naval Reserve Officers' Association; American Legion; Military Order of Foreign Wars; Ancient Free and Accepted Masons.

EDWARD CHARLES PARKER

Address: (home) 2141 No. Howard St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Philadelphia, Pa.
Occupation: Teacher.

Married: Dora Hunt, Birkenhead, England, Jan. 1, 1908 (died Nov. 13, 1908); Josephine Turner, New York, N. Y., June 25, 1910.

THERE is nothing of interest to tell. In 1915 and 1916 I went to the training camps for business men at Plattsburg and in the latter year also had a month's cruise with the Navy, made as many speeches as I could for preparedness, and when we did get in the war went to the 1st Training Camp at Fort Niagara. I've been out of the service since Sept.. 1919, and am again teaching English at the Northeast High School, Philadelphia.

War Record: Enlisted May 11, 1917; was commissioned 2nd Lieutenant, Q. M. C., on Aug. 15, 1917, at the 1st Officers' Training Camp, Fort Niagara, N. Y., and ordered to Camp Meade, Md. Except for taking troop trains to Camp Gordon and Kelly Field, did very little useful work there. Later was sent to Camp Johnston, Fla., and became chief instructor of the courses in water transportation. Wrote a book on the subject, about which I knew nothing, and recommended for commission two hundred and sixty-nine Second Lieutenants, most of whom became Transport Quartermasters, and many of whom had dangerous adventures with no reward other than the privilege of wearing silver chevrons. I received two promotions there, and was put in command of Railhead Detachment No. 306 as Captain, Q. M. C. The armistice held up its departure and after a long delay was demobilized. I was ordered to New York and placed in charge of the pay of the Army Division of the Port Finance Office, another branch of work of which I was totally ignorant. For some months had charge of the Hoboken Finance Office, which was very interesting, as it gave me an opportunity to meet so many of my former students and friends who had had some real experience. Later I was sent to Camp Merritt, and was discharged there in Sept. 16, 1919.

Member: Harvard Club of New York; Merchantville Golf Club.

DONALD PARSON

Address: 138 Lincoln Ave., Youngstown, Ohio.

Occupation: Investor.

Married: Frances Arrel, Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 5, 1907. Children: George Arrel, Oct. 28, 1911; William Edwin, March 9, 1913; Frances Arrel, Aug. 11, 1914; Donald, Sept. 14, 1916.

HAPPY the nation without a history! Outside of my war service, there is little to chronicle of my life since 1915. My Winters I spend at Pinehurst, N. C. I am a director of the Pinehurst Forum, and president of the Tin Whistle Club, an organization of two hundred and fifty golfers. At Haven, Me., where I go for the Summer, I am a governor of the Brooklin Golf Club, which I personally laid out and constructed. I am an ardent fisherman, a golf bug, a devotee of bridge. In my spare moments I study history and biography, and peck at a typewriter, hoping that some day I may hammer out something that some one may wish to read. All of which is by way of saying that I am a lazy loafer, but as happy as any man alive.

War Record: In June, 1918, I reported for duty to the Military Intelligence Division of the General Staff at Washington, received my commission as Captain in that service, and remained there until Dec., 1918, when I was honorably discharged. The work was of a confidential nature which cannot be revealed, but it was responsible, important, and most interesting.

It brought me in touch with a great many very charming men—the intellectuals of the country—authors, scholars, travellers, college professors, etc. I received several promotions—in function, not in rank—and several times found myself in the peculiar position of criticizing the work of professors at whose feet I had sat in the old Cambridge days. A relapse of a "flu" attack made me miss by a half-hour being detailed to the Paris Peace Conference. By the same token it procured my speedier discharge from the army, and for this I was quite ready. The armistice had been signed, the salt had lost its savor, and I had seen quite enough of administrative waste, ineptitude, and stupidity.

HAROLD WOODBURY PARSONS

Address: (home) 345 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.

Rome, Italy.

Occupation: Art collector; museum agent.

Unmarried.

DETURNED to Italy in Aug., 1915, after a year spent at home. RETURNED to Italy in Aug., 1919, and resumed my studies there, and my profession of collecting art objects for American museums and private collectors. The Summers of 1916-17 I spent sailing in the Bay of Naples and adjacent waters, and in following the new excavations at Pompei. In Aug., 1917, I visited the Italian Red Cross and military hospitals of Southern Italy and Sicily, with our classmate Stanley Lothrop. We compiled a report on the needs of these hospitals for the Commission of Investigation of the American Red Cross which had come to Italy under Colonel George Baker. After the disaster of Caporetto in the Autumn of 1917 I was a volunteer worker in the relief for refugees, and some months later was nominated delegate of the American Red Cross in Italy with rank of Captain. This post I held until the disbanding of the American Red Cross in the Spring of 1919. Together with other Americans resident in Rome I formed a committee to administer funds left by the American Red Cross for the continuance of Child Welfare Work in Italy. The Summer of 1919 I spent in Umbria studying the art of that region, and returned to America on a protracted visit at Christmas.

War Record: After the disaster of Caporetto in the Autumn of 1917. I assisted other members of the American Relief Clearing House in Rome to establish canteens for the refugees in Rome and on the Campagna. Under the temporary commission of the American Red Cross, which arrived in Italy from Paris shortly after the disaster, I was sent to Ravenna and Rimini to distribute Red Cross funds and material to the refugees from Venetia. I was commissioned Lieutenant. Some weeks later the permanent Red Cross Commission arrived from America, and I went with other members of the Department of Civil Affairs to Sicily to report on the needs of the population and the refugees from the North; and later on a similar mission to Venice and other towns near the front. In Jan., 1918, I was able to visit the Italian trenches on the Piave and observe military action at close range. In Feb. I was commissioned Captain, and nominated delegate of the American Red Cross for the provinces of Lazio, Umbria, and Abruzzi. With an office and field staff I organized the Red Cross relief work for refugees, soldiers, and families of combatants in these three provinces. This included establishing approximately sixty permanent institutions, canteens, work-rooms, day-schools, colleges, camps, and soldiers' clubs, as well as the distribution of great quantities of clothing, foodstuffs, and equipment. We cared for upwards of ten thousand children in these three provinces, and dispensed relief in some form to practically every town and hamlet. The work of the American Red Cross in Italy was possible and successful because the women of America prepared things so well at home.

Received the following decorations: Cavaliere Ufficiale della Corono d'Italia; Italian War Service Medal; Gold Medal of the Ministry of Public Instruction; Bronze Medal of "Benemerenza" from the City of Rome; "Overseas Service" button of the A. R. C.

Have written: Articles in "Boston Transcript" and "London

Member: Union Club, Boston, Mass.; Union Club, Rome, Italy; Royal Societies Club, London.

Occupation: Mechanical engineer.

Married: Elizabeth E. Gee, Trenton, N. J., March 24, 1913. Children: Henry Rathbone, Jr., July 11, 1914; Richard Gee, Dec. 21, 1916; Robert Cheney, June 10, 1918. FROM July 1, 1915, to July 1, 1916, I was superintendent of the Trenton Works of the American Steel and Wire Co. at Trenton, N. J. On July 1, 1916, I was transferred to the Scott St. Works of the American Steel and Wire Co. at Joliet, Ill., as superintendent, which position I still hold.

War Record: Took part in all Liberty Loan, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. drives, etc., during the war, either as a committee chairman or member of a committee and assisted in putting all such drives in Joliet well over the top.

PHILIP MERRILL PATTERSON

Address: (home) 155 Manthorne Rd., West Roxbury, Mass. (business) 125 Amory St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Electrical salesman.

Married: Helen D. Daggett, Arlington, Mass., Aug. 1, 1914. Children:

Jean, Nov. 8, 1915; Catherine Merrill, May 28, 1918.

A T the time of the last class report I was living in Baltimore, Md., selling motors there for the Holtzer Cabot Electric Co. of Boston. In Oct., 1916, I was transferred to the factory in Boston and am still selling motors, mostly in New York State. Every little while I have taken trips through New York, out into Ohio, and occasionally into Canada.

During the war the factory was filled to capacity with orders for the Government. As I have a wife and two small children dependent on me I had to stick to my work during the war, selling electrical apparatus to concerns who were manufacturing for the Government. So I have no "War Service Report" to make for my classmates to read.

EDWARD NEWTON PERKINS

Address: (home) 114 East 84th St., New York, N. Y. (business) 52 William St., New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Kate (Cheesman) Riggs, New York, N. Y., April 29, 1915. Children: Maria Louisa, April 4, 1916; Mary Eleanor, Dec. 19, 1917; Edward Clifford, July 30, 1919.

CINCE 1915, barring the births of my several children, my life has been interrupted by no exciting event other than my participation in the Summer of 1916 in that invasion of Mexico which never "came off." I spent some ten or twelve weeks of that Summer, as an enlisted man in "K" Company of the New York Seventh Regiment, at MacAllen, Tex., a place productive in Summer of cactus and a temperature ranging daily from 110° F, to 140° F, in the sun. There was no shade. Dudley Davis occupied a cot in my tent and his kind and sweet disposition and his courage under conditions to him peculiarly trying, were the best things I encountered during that Summer. Indeed, I could gladly pay Dudley a far higher compliment, for the competition among good things was not very strong in that locality, good fellows and good personal traits being about the only good things I encountered there, and those being exotic. But of those 1905 supplied as good as any in the person of our classmate above named.

On my return to New York in Sept., 1916, I became associated with the firm of Huntington, Rhinelander and Seymour (since changed to Rhinelander, Seymour and Barnard) and on Jan. 1, 1917, I became a member of that firm and have so remained. My experiences as a practicing lawyer have not been unusual and therefore to discuss them would be undesirable. Trying a case, organizing a corporation, arguing an appeal, settling an estate, closing a title, preparing or offering for probate a will, these and many other things every lawyer does at one time or another, and these and other such things I do and am likely to continue to do — must continue to do all the time unless the H. C. L. is to undo me altogether.

Since 1909 I have lived constantly in New York and I have become acclimated to that uncomfortable city to such an extent that despite not infrequent yearnings for New England I should probably feel a fish out of water elsewhere. There are plenty of 1905 men here, but they seldom see each other. Just what the lack of unity is due to I do not know, but by contrast with, for example, 1906, we miss a great deal. According to my experience, life in this city is distinctly unsocial. One enjoys his own group of friends, belongs by habit and training to one "set" or another, and meets certain people in certain places. But the city is enormous and one is very busy and preoccupied. These things being so, the more is the pity that one does not, through college associations and particularly through class, meet and keep up relations of familiarity with old acquaintances who live so near together but have spread out into so many varying walks of life and so many groups and corners of society.

War Record: Was special assistant to U. S. Attorney, as advisor to New York touching mailability of certain matter under the "Espionage Law" and the "Trading with the Enemy Act." Served as a member of the Legal Advisory Board, New York City; enlisted in Nov., 1917, in the 7th Regiment Infantry, New York Guard, to which I was attached for two years as private, Mess Sergeant, and Supply Sergeant, respectively.

PALFREY PERKINS

Address: (home) Conant Rd., Weston, Mass.

Occupation: Minister.

Unmarried.

IN June, 1916, I received a call from the First Parish in Weston and in Oct. took up my work as minister. Since coming here I have made two missionary trips for the American Unitarian Association, last year visiting the Middle West and this Spring the Pacific Coast.

Am a trustee of the Weston Public Library, and the Waltham Training School for Nurses, a director of the Children's Mission for Destitute Children, Boston, and general secretary of the General Unitarian Conference of the United States and Canada.

War Record: Was chairman, Weston Branch, American Red Cross, 1916, and of Home Service Section, Waltham Branch, A. R. C., 1917; served as After-Care Representative, Waltham Branch, A. R. C., 1918; was attached to Speakers' Bureau and spoke a great deal for Red Cross and at Liberty Loan meetings. Connected with local Public Safety Committee, and acted as chairman of the town committee on "welcome home."

Have written: A number of sermons have been published.

Member: Harvard Club of Boston.

HARVEY CHACE PERRY

Address: (home) 8 Margin St., Westerly, R. I.

(business) 27 West Broad St., Westerly, R. I.

Occupation: Merchant.

Married: Lydia Trimble Sharpless, Haverford, Pa., Jan. 14, 1911. Children: Edith Sharpless, Feb. 5, 1913 (died Aug. 25, 1916); Charles, Sept. 29, 1914; Sylvia Cope, May 13, 1917.

THE successful Decennial was terminated for me by the very great pleasure of seeing President Lowell confer the degree of LL.D. upon Mrs. Perry's father, President Sharpless of Haverford. I see no prospect of the Quindecennial conferring the same degree upon my own father, but I have a son coming along who may be ready for it at my Centennial.

In the Spring of 1917, shortly before we entered the war, the grain concern of which I was treasurer was sadly wounded by a fire that wiped out everything tangible. There was some consolation nine months later when the secret service got the German spy that did the work and sent him to that southern resort, Atlanta. The fire, however, put me out of the running for any war work other than service on sundry drives. The senior member of our concern did not wish to rebuild, hence I had the whole proposition to shoulder, and good friends released me from other service for a year.

Germany capitulated the day my questionnaire was filed under the selective draft!

Aside from being president of the C. W. Campbell Co., grain, I am a director of the Washington Trust Co., Westerly, trustee and treasurer of the Wheeler School and Library of North Stonington, Conn., member of the Executive Committee of the Westerly Board of Trade and Chairman of its Transportation Committee, and a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce at whose grain exchange our grain is purchased.

In summer you will find me (outside business hours) rusticating in a bungalow twenty minutes away by auto, yet beside the still waters of a salt pond overlooking Block Island Sound and the open sea, and in the rear the old Rhode Island hills and walls and oak woods. Drop off and see a fellow.

Member: Harvard Club of Rhode Island; Colonial Club of Westerly.

WILLIAM GRAVES PERRY

(business) 19 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Architect.

Eleanor Gray, July 4, 1910; William Graves, Feb. 13, 1913.

IN 1915 I started business for myself at my present address and spent most of my leisure hours in the reclamation of an old farm in Medfield which I had bought for a home. I devoted much of my time to the Harvard Architectural School, where I was appointed instructor, and also a good deal to the Boston Architectural Club, where I was a director, and chairman of the Class Committee. This is an organization which gives free instruction to the young draughtsman who cannot get his education in any other way.

I interested myself in town affairs at Medfield, organized a State Guard Company after a month at Plattsburg in 1916 — became Captain of the Company in Major Raymond Oveson's Battalion, and was chairman of the Medfield Committee of Safety. I also was president of the Medfield Civic Association.

In Nov., 1917, I left my business in charge of my present associate and enlisted in the Army.

Since my return, I have devoted myself to my business and to the cultivation of the acquaintance of my little youngsters whom I found grown out of all reason; an element new in my life, but to be sternly reckoned with.

In 1919 I was made Group Chairman for the architects of Boston in the campaign for the Harvard Endowment Fund. I still devote some of my time to the Harvard Architectural Department. Have been vestryman of Emmanuel Church, Boston, since 1915.

War Record: Received commission of 1st Lieutenant Aviation Sec. Signal Corps, Nov. 1, 1917. Commanded the 477th Aero Squadron from Nov. 12, 1917 to Oct. 14, 1918. during which time the squadron built the airdromes of Autreville, Amanty. Bicqueley, St. Mihiel (France) (after its arrival in France—on March 28, 1918). On Oct. 14, 1918, was appointed Equipment Officer of the Air Service, 1st Army, stationed at Souilly-Meuse, in charge of the airplane, fuel, and spare parts supply; the transportation supply and maintenance, and the building, choosing and maintenance of all airdromes of the 1st Army including the movement of the units of the Air Service, 1st Army. On Aug. 1, 1918, commissioned Captain, Air Service. Received the following letter from Gen. Wm. Mitchell, 1st Army Air Service Commander:

Headquarters Air Service, 1st Army, American Expeditionary Forces France — Sept. 3, 1918.

From: C. A. S.—1st Army To: C. O. 477 Squadron Subject: Bicqueley Airdrome.

I wish to thank and congratulate you and the men of your squadron most heartily for the excellent work you have done in preparing Bicqueley Airdrome. Everyone who has visited the Airdrome while you have been at work agrees that this is a record job, which the Air Service may be very proud of.

(Signed) William Mitchell (Col. A. S., U. S. A.) M.

As Equipment Officer of the 1st Army I had occasion often to make use of the squadrons of the Army Observation Group, making frequent flights to the lines for the purpose of selecting advanced landing places and inspection of German airdromes as they were uncovered by the advance of the troops. Was temporarily assigned to the 3rd Army for the purpose of receiving airplanes and equipment from the enemy, Nov., 1918. During the winter and spring took a number of lessons in flying, receiving recommendation for pilot's test. Demobilized at Mitchel Field, L. I., May 31, 1919. Nov. 26 cited in G. O. as follows:—

Sec. V, Par. 7, G. O. 30, Office of 1st Army Air Service Commander.

Captain William G. Perry, A. S. U. S. A. organized and commanded the 477 Aero Construction Squadron which made such an enviable record for itself. Under his direction it built airdromes at Autreville, Amanty, Bicqueley and St. Mihiel. At Bicqueley, by superb organization and morale he was able to build the field in ten days. At these Hdqts. as Equipment Officer during the latter part of the operations West of the Meuse, he successfully and with great tact handled the very difficult proposition of obtaining and allocating to the units of this command, Air Service materials, transportation and equipment of all kinds. His extreme conscientiousness was an example which all may well emulate.

By order of Col. Milling, W. C. Sherman, Lt. Col. G. S. U. S. A., Chief of Staff.

PRACTICED my profession continually for the last fourteen years in New York. Have consistently opposed the subservience of my professional colleagues to clients whose policy seems to have been to concede everything to the client, present and prospective, in order to secure remuneration in terms of money and repute. Have taken the stand that the service of professional men must not be available for profit making to clients, when such motive conflicts with the highest welfare of our countrymen.

A FTER various difficulties with previous associates, on April 1, 1916, I entered business on my individual account under the style of H. P. Pratt & Co., handling investment securities, principally municipal bonds originating in the Pacific Northwest. This business developed slowly, owing to my necessary attention to other interests, and to the bad bond conditions during the early part of the war, until July, 1918.

From that time, however, progress has been very satisfactory. Dec., 1918, a branch office was opened at Yakima, Washington, and July 1, 1919, the business was incorporated by a number of associates and myself. While still a small concern, we are recognized as one of the reputable bond houses of the Northwest and the only one in either Tacoma or Yakima. The struggle for existence has precluded my seeking or deserving any offices of particular honor or trust worthy of being inscribed in these archives, but I hope and believe this will not be true if I live to write a duodecennial report.

COMMAND OF THE NINTH ARMY CORPS STAFF OFFICE

ORDER OF THE DAY

Availing myself of the faculty granted to me by the Article 4 of Royal Decree N. 205 of January 19th, 1918 (Circular 171 of Military Journal 1918) and of the telegraphic circular N. 31483, Comma 3d of the Supreme Commando dated June 12, according to the Art. 3 of the aforesaid decree, I confer the

to the following officer of the American Red Cross in consideration of the admirable proofs of self-abnegation and undauntedness given by him in succouring, assisting and comforting the wounded in the fights that took place on the Front of the IXth Army Corps, and as a testimony of the strong ties of comradeship which unite the Armies of the United States and of Italy. MAJOR BERNON S. PRENTICE - Director of the Ambulance Sections of the A.R.C. in Service with the IXth Army Corps.

"Organizer and Director of the Ambulance Sections of the A.R.C. in service with the IXth Army Corps, repeatedly bringing the encouragement and the prestige of his presence during fighting actions and in zones shelled by the artillery of the enemy, he gave valid cooperation to the efficient activity shown by the sections themselves."

(SEPTEMBER-OCTOBER 1918, ZONE OF BASSANO -- MOUNT GRAPPA)

THE LIEUTENANT GENERAL COMMANDING THE IXth ARMY CORPS (Signed) DE BONO

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS

Vicenza, June 1st, 1918.

Major Bernon S. Prentice, American Red Cross, Paris.

Your intelligent activity in organizing and directing during the first period the Automobile Service of the American Red Cross at our Front and the constant and generous sympathy shown to our soldiers in repeated visits to the Front line trenches most exposed to the enemy's fire, regardless of personal danger, have won for you the gratitude and affection of the officers and soldiers of our army.

It is, therefore with satisfaction and with pride that we give you a tangible sign of our gratitude for the praiseworthy service rendered at our Front by presenting you with the enclosed certificate, which gives you the right to wear the

for service rendered at the ITALIAN FRONT. With cordial greetings,

CINCE the period covered by our last report I have been engaged in the general practice of law, Tremont Building, Boston, Mass., in the office where I first hung out my shingle.

War Record: Served as a private in Newton Constabulary, Newton, Mass., from April 6, 1917, to Sept., 15, 1917, and as a private in Mass. State Guard, Co. A. 11th Regiment Infantry, from Sept. 15, 1917, to Sept. 15, 1919. Re-enlisted as a private in Mass. State Guard, Co. A, 11th Regiment Infantry, on Sept. 15, 1919.

My services consisted chiefly in attendance of drills and attendance at Summer camps for a short period each year since enlistment.

On Sept. 10, 1919, I was called for duty with my company in Boston, Mass., at the time of the police strike and did duty from that time until I was released on Nov. 16, 1919.

liam Bradford Dowse, Nov. 15, 1919.

TN Aug., 1915, I entered the office of Gaston, Snow and Saltonstall, ▲ and practiced law there until May, 1917. Between May, 1917, and Jan., 1919, I was in the army. In Jan., 1919, I entered the office of Ropes, Gray, Boyden and Perkins and have been practicing law there since that time.

The war, and my marriage in Feb., 1918, have been the oustand-ing events in my life since 1915.

War Record: Enlisted in the Harvard Regiment on May 7, 1917, and was discharged on Aug. 15, 1917. Enlisted at Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., on Aug. 25, 1917, and served as a candidate in Co. 2, 17th Provisional Training Regt. until Nov. 27, 1917, when I was discharged to accept a commission as Captain of Infantry, Officers' Reserve Corps, Army of the United States. I reported at Camp Devens, Mass., for active duty on Dec. 15, 1917, and was attached to Company K, 302d Infantry, 76th Division, doing active duty with that regiment at Camp Devens until April, 1918. Was on special duty with Co. D, 519th Engineers (colored) for purposes of organization for about two weeks. In the latter part of April, 1918, I was taken up to Hq., 76th Div., as Asst.

Div. Judge-Advocate; on active duty in that capacity, and as Acting Div. J. A., until discharged.

Sailed from New York on July 5, 1918, for Liverpool. By gradual stages we reached our permanent station at St. Amand, in the Department of Cher, France, two hundred miles from the front. There we were re-christened the Third Depot Division, and spent four months furnishing and training infantry replacement troops. Sailed for home from St. Nazaire on Nov. 28, 1918; touched at Brest, and arrived at New York on Dec. 11. Discharged at Camp Devens, Mass., on Dec. 18, 1918.

The 76th Division went overseas as a division with a strength of about twenty-four thousand officers and men. It came back with a strength of twenty-seven officers and four hundred and forty men.

I found Harvard men, of course, at every corner, and 1905 men (equally of course) every few miles — notably Joy, Winsor, Mc-Arthur, Parker Browne and Harold Mason.

THE "follow-up" notice from our diligent secretary reminds me that I have been guilty of departure from my chosen profession and have unwittingly drifted into the contracting game, the unpopular kind generally spoken of as "public paving" work.

In 1915 I found myself with the same wonderful wife I had married in 1909, a lusty year-old future Harvard man, a gradually, very gradually, increasing law practice, and a most delightful professional association with Judge Alton B. Parker of New York. In the Fall of 1916 something happened that enabled me to become one of the "landed aristocracy." Concurring in my wife's decision I bought a home at Garden City and immediately decided to introduce the community to the thrills and benefits that are direct results of practice at that honorable old pastime yelept golf, and we now have three or four excellent courses in the community.

During my spare moments from golf I continued the practice of law. In 1918 a law firm was formed under the name of Parker, Marshall, and Randall. The other members of our firm are Democrats, and recently I have learned of a conspiracy on their part to equalize the political division of our combination. Yielding gracefully to their wishes I voted with them to take in two more Democratic members. That makes five Democrats to one Republican - fair enough!

Personally, I feel no older than in 1905 and am probably but little wiser.

War Record: Served as vice-chairman of first Red Cross and first Liberty Loan drive for Garden City district; chairman of all other Liberty Loan drives except fifth, and of all other Y. M. C. Have been at the Dudley observatory ever since graduation. The work of this observatory includes the observation of the positions of stars, the collation of such observations made here or elsewhere during the last one hundred and seventy-five years, and the determination from them as accurately as possible of the positions and motions of the stars, and finally, the investigation of the laws of these motions. My own work of late years has been mostly on the last problem,— the statistical study of stellar motions.

Astronomers have always been interested in the structure and history of the sidereal universe, but for long were unable to see even what problems lay hidden there, much less how to approach them. With the accumulation of data, they are beginning to get an inkling. There has been a revival of interest; surmise is giving way — not yet to knowledge — but to research; and a series of converging attacks is being made upon the greatest of scientific problems. One of these attacks is led by this observatory, and of course I have my part in it.

To be sure this does not get one "offices of honor and trust." No matter. The front page is already too small for all those determined to camp there; and anyway I prefer my own more spacious tenting-ground.

A SIDE from war activities there is little of interest in my life to record since the last Class Report. I returned to the practice of law in the Summer of 1919, and once again became associated in Boston with the same law firm I had left when I entered the service the year before. So that except for the year that I was away I have been busily engaged in general law practice with the firm of Dunbar, Nutter and McClennen.

War Record: Enrolled in the U. S. Naval Reserve Force, on Aug. 30, 1918, with the provisional rank of Ensign, and was immediately ordered to report to the Inspector of Engineering Material of the First Naval District, Boston, Mass. I was attached to his office from Sept. 13, 1918, to March 28, 1919, under the command of Commodore B. T. Walling and Lieutenant Parker Kemble.

Was a solicitor on one of the Boston teams raising funds for the Second American Red Cross War Fund.

During Dec., 1917, and Jan., 1918, I was the associate chairman and one of the associate members of the Legal Advisory Board of Division 4 for the City of Boston, comprising the greater part of the North End and assisted many of the registrants in answering their questionnaires.

Up to the time of my enrollment in the United States Naval Reserve Force, I was a private in Company C of the First Motor Corps, Massachusetts State Guard, enlisting in June, 1917, and receiving my honorable discharge Sept. 25, 1918. I attended drill regularly and took part in all tours of duty performed by the Corps.

A FTER three years' absence from Mexico, due to the Mexican Govt. having permitted a monopoly of the sisal business I was engaged in, Aug. last found a free market once more and I returned to Yucatan as agent for Henry W. Peabody and Co., and established agencies in Merida, Progreso, and Motul (Yucatan). and Campeche (Campeche). The climate here is delightful; there is a very good Country Club, where tennis, billiards, croquet and other games are indulged in by the Anglo-Saxon Colony and certain of the native families, and the dansants every Sunday attract some of the very pretty girls Yucatan is noted for. I expect to be up for the quindecennial D. V.

War Record: Served with American Red Cross in France as Chief Medical Supply Officer and later as Inspector General of the Medical Dept. from Feb., 1918, till May, 1919. My work carried me throughout France in emergency hospital area, with three inspection trips to England and Italy. I am not permitted to give an account of our service unless with permission of the War Council of the A. R. C. in Washington, but the Medical Dept. work is fully described in the book recently issued by Mr. Davison (Dec., 1919).

On Oct. 27, 1918, was appointed 2d Lieutenant (temporary), Sanitary Corps, U. S. A., but the A. R. C. would not release me, and the Surgeon General permitted me to stay on with them.

During the Fall of 1917 I raised funds for the American Field Service and was instrumental in furnishing this unit with a field kitchen, which was assigned to the Harvard section.

Address: (home) 67 Buckminster Rd., Brookline, Mass.

(business) 123 Oliver St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Box hardware and manufacturer.

Unmarried.

DURING the last five years I have held the position of manager of C. C. Richmond and Co., box hardware and harness oil blacking, and also president and manager of The William A. Davis Co., treasury writing inks, mucilage and paste. The latter position I held till Oct., 1918, when I sold out to take a Government position, and at that time closed down the factory of C. C. Richmond and Co. In Oct., 1919, I started back in my old position as manager. In both lines of business I did some manufacturing for the Quartermaster Dept.

War Record: In Oct., 1918, was called to Washington, D. C., to take position of Vocational Advisor. Federal Board for Vocational Education, Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. Held this position until Oct., 1919, spending a month in Washington, D. C., four months in Baltimore, Md., and seven months at Camp Meade, Md., interviewing disabled soldiers and endeavoring to assist them in getting back to civil employment. I was fortunate in having an opportunity of advising over seven hundred men and assisting them to further education and experience so they could overcome their disabilities.

DAVID ROBERTS, Jr.

(business) 1815 American Trust Bldg., Birmingham, Ala.

Occupation: Coal operator.

Married: Sadie Gillespy, Birmingham, Ala. Children: David, Nov. 7, 1913;
Sadie Gillespy, March 25, 1915; John Sharpe Gillespy, July 1, 1916;

Arthur Meredyth, Sept. 6, 1918 (died Sept. 30, 1919).

SINCE July 1, 1915, I have been and am now engaged in mining coal as president of the Brilliant Coal Co. of Birmingham. Am also a director of other local corporations, and have served as president of the Birmingham Country Club.

The large family which I now head, as well as the nature of my occupation, denied me an active war record, so that my service was only such as could be done at home. My only brother lost his life in France shortly before the armistice.

ATTMORE ROBINSON

Address: Smithtown, L. I., N. Y.

Occupation: Oil.

Married: Annette F. Colgate, Flushing, L. I., N. Y., Dec. 9, 1909. Child: Attmore, Jr., June 7, 1911.

WAS in Bank of Manhattan 1905–1906. In 1906 I bought a seat on N. Y. Stock Exchange and also became a member of the firm of Stokes, Robinson and Co. In 1909 my father and I formed a firm under the name of G. H. Robinson and Co. In 1913 I sold my seat on N. Y. Stock Exchange and retired from active business. From 1913 to 1918 I bought, sold and trained hunters. In 1918 enlisted. I have just taken a position in the Invincible Oil Co. of La.

War Record: Enlisted as a private 1st class. Was sent to Remount Officers' Training Camp, Fla. There I received commission of Captain. I acted as instructor in Fla. for a few weeks. I then organized and trained a Remount Squadron in command of which I was sent to France. We landed at Brest and in a few days were sent to Bourbonne-les-Bains, one of the base remount stations. From there I was sent to Commercy with my squadron to organize and open the then furthest advanced remount depot. I was in command here for six months and was then promoted to the rank of Major and attached to depot at Montur-sur-Saux. Making this my headquarters I acted for a time as Remount Depot Inspector assigned to Remount Headquarters, Advanced Section, and appointed to the commission of French and American officers to arrange the sale of the American animals to the French Government. Had charge of auction and private sales of animals to private individuals, which took me pretty well over France. Retired from active service Aug. 26, 1919. Received one citation.

GUSTAVUS HILL ROBINSON

Address: (home) 1424 Scenic Ave., Berkeley, Cal.

(business) University of California, Berkeley, Cal.

Married: Sarah Fuller Anderson, Bear Island, N. H., Aug. 16, 1916. Child:

Douglas Hill, July 9, 1918.

AS I intimated in my last report, I decided to stay in law teaching. Accordingly I returned to Cambridge as candidate for the S. J. D. degree in the Law School, receiving it in June, 1916. Incidentally I handled a course for Professor Beale in his Cambridge Law School for Women — a venture short but sweet. The school was not continued after the second year.

On the strength of the new degree I got a new job — at the University of Missouri — and on the strength of the job, I married. I was at Missouri, though on leave for army service [tin soldiering], till last Spring when I was appointed professor of law here in California, missing an appointment (temporary) at the Harvard Law School because some other Captain Robinson received Dean Pounds' letter. The other fellow accepted, too, though he was an engineer.

Here at California I find our classmate A. T. Wright likewise professoring. He and I share an office, in fact, and we compare notes frequently on the problem of getting East for next Spring. It does not look possible for me to be there except in the spirit, alas.

War Record: Served with Law Enforcement Division, Sanitary Corps, U. S. A., from July, 1918, to April, 1919, with rank of Captain. Was Law Enforcement Officer at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., and cities in vicinity.

Acted as legal advisor for Local Draft Board, Columbia, Mo.

Have written: A few scattering articles, notes, etc. Member: Faculty Club, University of California.

RALPH CHANTREY ROGERSON

Address: C/o General Electric Co., West Lynn, Mass.

Occupation: Electrical engineer.

Unmarried.

THE year 1915 and Spring of 1916 were spent in Southern California recovering from a bad break down. During that period I visited the two World's Fairs, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, the Yosemite Valley and the Colorado Rockies, besides many other lesser sights of the West. The following Summer, recovered in health, I returned to my position as designing engineer in the induction motor department of the General Electric Co. at West Lynn, Mass. Early in 1917 I was again sick and, after an operation followed immediately by sickness and death in my family, generally broken down, I returned to Redlands, Cal., for the Winter. The next June, with restored health, I was once more in my old position. On this trip I made the entire circuit of the boundaries of the United States, returning through the Canadian Rockies. As noted above I have spent my vacations in "Seeing America First" and although I have never been abroad feel that I have seen the United States and Canada pretty thoroughly. Owing to my slight physique, I took no active part in the World War.

I have never attempted anything in the line of literature or politics.

Address: (home) 580 W. Market St., York, Pa. (business) 47 E. Market St., York, Pa.

Occupation: Lawyer and manufacturer.

Unmarried.

Tave been doing very little out of the ordinary since my last Class Report. Have followed my profession since then with varying success, and have also acted as expert appraiser of estates for inheritance tax purposes. In 1917, with others, I bought the plant of the National Roofing Mfg. Co., and we have been making roofing and tarred felts since then. Last Fall we started to build a felt mill, which is now nearing completion, so that we could make our own raw material. Our mill when completed will have a capacity of about ten tons per day. Most of my time at present is given to the affairs of the Roofing Co.

CLARENCE BUCK SAWYER

Address: (home) 16 Hastings St., West Roxbury, Mass. (business) 141 Milk St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: New England manager, Cresson-Morris Co.

Married: Bertha May Watson (died July 12, 1916). Children: Richard Merrill, July 3, 1907; Arthur Gilman, Aug. 22, 1912.

PROM July 1, 1915, until June 14, 1918, I was with the Boston office of the Dodge Sale and Engineering Co., Mfrs. of power transmitting machinery, as sales engineer. From June 14, 1918, to June 14, 1919, I was in the army and since then have been getting back into the game in the same line but with a different house. The great outstanding fact during this period was my service. The death of my wife is, of course, the severest loss a man can undergo, but it brings me closer, perhaps, to the kiddies.

During the Boston police strike I served as a special policeman, so that I have acquired an advanced technique in the proper method of arresting drunks and automobile speeders.

War Record: Assisted in organizing and served from June 8, 1917, to June 4, 1918, as Captain, E Co., 10th Infantry, Mass. State Guard. Served also on Committee of Public Safety, and with secret service work. On June 14, 1918, after giving up the command of E Co., 10th Inf., M. S. G., I was ordered to the Engineer Officers' Camp at Camp Lee, Va. I had only been there a short time when I was transferred to the Ordnance Dept. and ordered to Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland, where I finished out my service, being one of the unfortunates who did not get overseas. During the Fall of 1918 I was in charge of packing and shipping artillery to the

A. E. F. For a while after the armistice we loafed but shortly after the first of the year and until I was discharged in June, 1919, I was kept very busy. I was in direct charge of receiving, overhauling and placing in storage all artillery which had been used by the A. E. F. In addition they wished on me the care of the captured artillery (German) and ammunition, as well as the material turned over to us under the terms of the armistice, and sample artillery from the British, French and Italian armies. It was hard work, but mighty interesting, inasmuch as it brought me in direct contact with every type of ordnance used by all the armies, from the various types of trench mortars, 3", 6", 210 mm., up through all the field guns, 37 mm., 75 mm., American, French and British, 4.7", 155 mm. guns and howitzers, 8", as well as all the railway artillery, 7", 8", 12", 14" (both army and navy guns) and the 16" howitzer on railway mount. I also had charge of all magazines, explosives, projectiles and fuses.

I now hold a commission as Captain, Ordnance Reserve Corps.

Retired from active service on June 14, 1919.

Have written: A few articles on power transmission for technical magazines.

ARMIN ARDERY SCHLESINGER

Address: (home) 902 Marietta Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

(business) 1112 First Wisconsin Nat'l. Bank Bldg., Milwaukee, Occupation: Manufacturing.

Married: Kathleen McCulloch, Milwaukee, Wis., June 18, 1906 (deceased). Children: Eileen, Oct. 17, 1910; Armin McGregor, March 18, 1912.

WAS elected president of The Steel and Tube Co. of America in 1919, this company being a consolidation of iron ore properties, steel plants, etc., for the manufacture of steel tubular goods. I am also the president of The Newport Co., which operates chemical plants in Wisconsin, Alabama, and Florida, and is largely the outgrowth of a very extensive phenol producing plant erected during the war for Government purposes.

War Record: Started large phenol industry at Carrollville, Wis., for French Government in 1914, and later constructed and put into operation a large unit for phenol manufacture for the United States Government. At the close of the war the Government phenol plant plus the phenol plant which was the outgrowth of the French contract, producing a total of one hundred and sixty tons of phenol per day (all this material used for the production of picric acid), this unit being the largest of its kind in the world, concentrated in one place.

GUILFORD DARBY SCHOLL

Occupation: Metallurgist.

Married: Emma Jane Bullock, Detroit, Mich., Dec. 30, 1911. Children:

Jane Darby, May 14, 1917; Elizabeth Darby, Nov. 27, 1919.

IN Aug., 1915, I left Arizona to accept the position of construction superintendent for The Walter E. Lummus Co., designers and manufacturers of chemical plants and equipment. The war had given such a great stimulus to their business that it was necessary to build up a manufacturing organization capable of taking care of a large volume of business.

I resigned from The Walter E. Lummus Co. in May, 1917, to take charge of the electrolytic zinc plant of the River Smelting and Refining Co. at Keokuk, Ia. This was an experimental plant producing electrolytic zinc, but after the close of the war conditions in the metal industry changed so much that the original plans to build a one hundred ton a day plant at Keokuk were abandoned. I am now dismantling this plant.

I expect to go into the jobbing business in Keokuk, handling pipe fittings and valves, gasolene engines, and pumps and farm ma-

War Record: Assisted in work of raising funds for Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Liberty Bonds, United War Work, and Near East Relief. Enlisted as a member of Brookline, Mass., Home Guard, 1917, and Keokuk, Ia., Home Guard, in 1918; enlisted also with the Four Minute Men organization.

Member: Keokuk Club; Keokuk Automobile Club; American

Electrochemical Society.

Occupation: Clerk.

Married: Elsa von Halle, London, England, July 3, 1915. Child: Cathleen

Lillian, Nov. 25, 1916.

WAS sent to London in Oct., 1914, by my employers, Messrs. Hard and Rand, 107 Wall St., as the staff of their London office had been greatly depleted by the war. I remained in London until May, 1919, when I returned to the United States.

EDWIN FORREST SCHWARZENBERG

Address: (home) 108 Jersey St., Boston, Mass. (business) 40 Court St., Boston, Mass. Occupation: Contractor; also attorney-at-law.

Married: Sarah Ida Clemens, Boston, Feb. 23, 1919.

BESIDES getting married I have not indulged in any exciting or interesting pastimes or adventures. I formed the Weiss Construction Co. in 1916, a construction company engaged in the work of general building contracting, and have been actively engaged in that work to the present time (treasurer, director, Weiss Construction Co.).

War Record: As treasurer and director of the Weiss Construction Co. my services to the Government during the war consisted of the construction in the Portsmouth Navy Yard, Portsmouth, N. H., of the Marine Guard Barracks, for that place, addition to the dispensary for the yard, and the construction of intake tunnel for the power plant; also the erection of pump house for dry dock, South Boston, Mass.

Enlisted as private, First Motor Corps, Mass. State Guard. Served as attorney, State Board of Charities, Massachusetts, Adult Poor Div.

Mills, Riverdale Cotton Mills, Dixie Cotton Mills, Chattahoochee R. R. Co., J. S. Thompson Co., Waltham National Bank.

ALFRED HUGO SHARON

Address: 8 Rue Edouard VII, Paris, France.

Unmarried.

TN 1915 I practiced law in Boston. I went to Bermuda on a scientific expedition and decided to settle there. In the Spring of 1916 I returned to the United States and was in service in the Cavalry along the Mexican border. From there I returned to Bermuda until the United States entered the war in Europe and I transferred into the Field Artillery. I am now engaged in business in Paris with the Amalgamated Traders, as director of the Foreign Department.

War Record: Went to second Plattsburg Training Camp; then spent four months on staff of 301st Field Artillery at Camp Devens. Two months in command of Artillery Range of 151st Artillery Brigade. Went to France end of June, 1918, with Advance Party of 76th Division. After Château-Thierry was sent to meet 76th Div. in centre of France, where division was broken up to replace losses, and balance of division was used as training depot. After armistice was sent to 42nd Division, R. R. & C. service, then to South of France as interpreter in a Rest Area. Jan., 1919, ordered to Chaumont in Division of Criminal Investigation and from there to Paris where I spent several months as the Legal Officer for the division in that district as Operations Officer. In June I went to Coblenz in the Army of Occupation and was Town Major of Urmetz, in the Fourth Division with which I returned to the United States and was demobilized about the end of Aug., 1919.

JOHN ALEXANDER SHARP

Address: (home) 22 South Park Ave., Longmeadow, Mass. (business) 387 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Married: Lucy Pierson Newton, Lenox, Mass., June 11, 1908. Children: Theodore Winston, Aug. 3, 1911; Richard Winslow, Aug. 19, 1914.

FTER an experience of about ten months soliciting business for the New York office of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., I transferred to their home office agency at Springfield, Mass.

There I remained till July 1, 1918, when I became general agent in the same territory for the State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of Worcester. Excepting these two changes there seems to be nothing worthy of record, since our last report.

THEODORE LYMAN SHAW

Married: Lillian Donahue, Boston, Feb. 1, 1913.

SINCE 1915 I have continued operating an advertising agency under same of Shaw Advertising Co. In 1917 I moved this business from Chicago to Boston. In connection with this advertising I became interested, in 1915, with a correspondence school, the Marcus Lucius Quinn Conservatory of Music, which was moved from Chicago to Boston at the same time. I am treasurer of this corporation. About a year ago I organized a company for the manufacture of talking machine records, Grey Gull Records, Inc. This company has now been on a small production basis for about three months but has not progressed far enough to determine whether or not it will be a business success.

War Record: Aided the Wellesley District in all Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and Liberty Bond drives as volunteer worker. Enlisted in the First Motor Corps, Boston.

Member: Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York; Tennis and

THEODORE SHELDON

Address: (home) 38 Bellevue Pl., Chicago, Ill. (business) 209 South State St., Chicago, Ill. Occupation: Management of improved real estate. Unmarried.

In the Summer of 1915 came the cruise of the famous Harvard ship "Finland" (later to serve so gallantly as an army transport) from New York, through the Panama Canal, and up the Pacific to San Francisco,—in time for the last day of the Associated Harvard Club meeting. A chronic slide at the Culebra Cut gave us an unexpected chance to explore the jungle; it also almost caused us to miss the meeting altogether.

1916 and 1917, in addition to regular routine office work in the mundane management of Chicago real estate, were enlivened by an arduous session as chairman of the board of directors of the Edgewater State Bank in a long struggle following a reorganization to save a rather complicated and difficult situation thrust upon erstwhile mere stockholders.

However, there has been some pleasure in banks,—for, in another institution, the Noel State Bank, there has been a splendid growth in spite of (not because of) my having served as director from 1909 when it was chartered a State bank. We are now in the midst of fulfilling a dream in the erection of a splendid bank building devoted solely to the uses of our bank. Such has been the effect of one Herr von Hindenburg on bank deposits in our fair city.

War Record: Enlisted in Navy as seaman, 2d class, on July 29, 1918; transferred to inactive duty on March 19, 1919. Was commissioned Ensign after completing four months' course at the Officer Material School at Great Lakes, Ill., and my work thereafter was at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill.

Member: Chicago, Saddle and Cycle, Midday, University, and Indian Hill Clubs, Chicago.

Address: (home) Grafton, Mass.

(business) 347 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

Married: Clara Hahn Olmstead, London, England, April 18, 1908.

SINCE July, 1915, I have served for two years as president of Woburn District Sunday School Association; during 1915 was director of Montvale Improvement Society and during 1916 was director of Woburn Y. M. C. A.; throughout both years was a member of Republican Ward Committee. Until the U. S. A. entered the war I continued as pastor of the Montvale Congregational Church and saw it increased two hundred per cent during the five years I served there.

War Record: From Oct., 1917, till Feb., 1918, I worked among the demobilizing Russian armies in Moscow and Petrograd. During April, May, and June, 1918, my work was with the refugees at Vladivostok and I taught some English classes there. I also assisted with our work for the sailors and marines of the "Brooklyn." From June to Oct. I worked among the Czecho-Slovak soldiers as they fought their way back from Vladivostok over the Siberian Railroad. Our "Y" consisted of one American freight car slightly remodelled to serve as a "hut." I was in charge of the division from Nikolsk to Blogoveschensh, some one thousand five hundred miles. We operated five or six of the club-cars over this district. While en route we served Czech, Russian, English, French, Japanese, Chinese, and American units. At Kharborovsk I established a "Y" for Kalmikoff's men (the noted Cossack chieftain of Eastern Siberia). After the uniting in Feb., 1918, I transferred from the barracks to quarters on the Main Street of the city for regular city "Y" work. We had on our committee the Major (chairman), the Judge, a Cossack General, the Medical Health Officer of the city, the financial agent of the Armour R. R. and indeed had the backing of the entire city, a town of over fifty thousand population. We served the high school boys, the district teacher, the R. R. settlement, the Arsenal settlement, and were called upon to advise or help by various departments of the city. I would like to meet any 1905 men expecting to go to Russia in the near future.

Children: Mary Lee, April 2, 1918; Allan Campbell Smidt, Jr., April 29, 1920.

ON June 30, 1916, I entered the Federal service to fight the bloodless Mexican border war, as a member of Squadron A, N. Y. Cavalry, U. S. Nat'l Guard, and was sent to McAllen, Tex.,—'nuff said! Six months later I was mustered out of the Federal service, but I remained in the National Guard, thereby completing ten transfer in the military corning of the State of New York.

years in the military service of the State of New York.

During the first half of 1917 I accomplished what to me were three most important feats: I received my officer's commission in the N. Y. State National Guard; was taken into partnership by the man I had been in business with for seven years, and got married,—but all in the nick of time, for two weeks later we were in the war. The rest of my life to date is a matter of record in the War Department, and when they give out the prize for the best "War Baby," put ten on it for me—I've got it cinched!

War Record: From the day we entered the war until after the armistice, I served as Troop Commander, commanding Troop D, 7th U. S. Cavalry, Regular Army, at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Eight months on the priority list, with a perfectly trained troop, every man of which was in the regular service before we entered the war, most of whom had seen service in Mexico under Pershing; three men in the troop with over twenty years' service, myself with over ten years' service, and they kept us on the Mexican border! A bas le greaser!

Occupation: Superintendent of Schools,

Married: Mabel Ada Rossiter, Clinton, Conn., July 5, 1910. Child: Marion

Hinckley, Oct. 20, 1919.

IN July, 1915, I stopped direct teaching of the growing generation to try my hand in the broader task, a superintendent of schools. My first position in this capacity was in a district of six towns with headquarters at Vergennes, Vt. This is one of the smallest cities in the world, being only a mile square with about 1,500 inhabitants. After a pleasant year there I was called to the district around Milford, N. H., where I stayed three years. I was planning a long residence in this delightful town, but the Rochester School Board insisted on my coming into their service and offered such material advancement that I yielded. I have now been in Rochester one year. There are forty-four teachers and about twelve hundred and fifty pupils in the public schools. I enjoy the work immensely and it appeals to me as offering a rich opportunity for public service.

War Record: Served on committees in Liberty Loan and W. S. S. Drives in Milford, N. H., and was a member of Legal Advisory Board of the same town. Assisted in classifying records in office of Local Board No. 2 of Hillsborough, N. H.

Member: Benevolent Lodge, No. 7, A. F. & A. M., Rochester Grange, Rochester Chamber of Commerce, Eastern Star, Milford, N. H.

Married: Sidney Lewis, Philadelphia, Pa., April 29, 1911. Children: Edgar Lawrence, Jr., Sept. 11, 1912; Jean, Oct. 14, 1915; Sidney Anne, June 8, 1919.

FROM 1915 to date, I have been president of The Farmers' Bureau, Inc., an organization designed to promote farming upon lines of greater efficiency. During the war our effort was redoubled, and when, after losing many of our most valued assistants we were sorely tempted to close our doors and enter one or another branch of the national service, an inquiry addressed to a friend of long standing in the Agricultural Department at Washington, brought the answer, "don't shut down, you are doing work as important as any we are doing here," we decided that our post was to remain on the job and forget the more interesting, exciting and satisfying situation which would result from direct Government service, even if we didn't altogether believe what our friend said.

After the close of the war, the work of the Farmers' Bureau had attracted favorable notice from a number of leading farmers and investors. One result was the formation of two new corporations:—
The National Farming Corporation — a farm holding and management company; and The National Farm Equipment Company, devoted to putting farm machinery and equipment into the hands of farmers with the least expense. Of both these companies I have been elected vice-president, principally, perhaps, because I helped get them up.

The work of these two companies is intensely interesting, and brings me in touch with a great many men who are alive to the greater needs of agriculture. Always glad to see any 1905 men who come through New York.

GEORGE GILBERT SMITH

Address: (home) 36 West Cedar St., Boston, Mass. (business) 352 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Physician.

Married: Ruth L. Davey, East Orange, N. J., Dec. 9, 1909. Children: Margaret Randall, Feb. 12, 1912; Huldah Marion, Aug. 24, 1913; Jane Gilbert, Oct. 23, 1917.

SINCE July 1, 1915, I have continued to practice medicine in Boston, except for two interruptions due to the war. (See war record.) A couple of years ago I limited my work to genitourinary surgery, and June, 1919. I entered into partnership with Dr. Arthur L. Chute of Boston. I am still genito-urinary surgeon to out-patients at the Mass. General Hospital. Am also asst. Surgeon at the Huntington Memorial Hospital (for cancer research), and am secretary of the Suffolk District Medical Society, secretary and treasurer of the N. E. Branch of the American Urological Assn., and asst. editor of the "Boston Medical and Surgical Journal."

War Record: Commissioned Captain, M. R. C., June 28, 1918. Began active service on Oct. 1, 1918, at Camp Surgeon's office, Camp A. A. Humphreys, Va., where I was in charge of venereal infirmary until Jan. 18, 1919. Appointed to General Hospital #9, Lakewood, N. J., on Jan. 20, 1919, and served there until the date of my discharge from the service May 26, 1919.

During Aug., Sept., and Oct., 1915, was assistant surgeon of Allies' Hospital, Anglo-French Red Cross, at Longeuil-Annel, Oise (near Compiègne), France.

Have written: "An Outline of Genito-Urinary Surgery," 300 pp., Feb., 1919, W. B. Saunders Co.; various short papers on this same subject.

JULIUS FRED SMITH

KING SMITH

Address: (home) 175 West 72d St., New York, N. Y. (business) 80 Maiden Lane, New York, N. Y.

Occupation: Insurance broker.

Married: Grace Sandford Brewster, New York, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1912. Children: Mary King, Nov. 16, 1913; Le Roy King, Sept. 5, 1916.

A M still in the insurance brokerage lines, now located at 80 Maiden Lane, New York City, being associated with Taylor and Hoe.

In June, 1916, while on a vacation was recalled to the city for Mexican border service with the 7th Inf., N. Y. N. G. Received my step to Regimental Sergeant Major and served from June 26 to Dec. 2, in Federal service, most of the time at McAllen, Tex. I resigned from the regiment on its return.

I have played some tournament tennis, winning at various times the White Mountain Championships singles and doubles and the National Indoor Doubles in 1918.

I have served as president of the 7th Regt. Tennis Club, the 7th Regt. Athletic Association, and am serving on the board of directors of the Mercantile Library and Clinton Hall Association of New York City.

War Record: Enlisted in the Depot Battalion of the 7th N. Y. Inf. in the Fall of 1917, was promoted to Regimental Sergt. Major in the new guard regiment formed, and finally commissioned 1st Lieutenant in the above command Dec. 17, 1917. This commission I resigned May 20, 1918, for overseas duty with the Y. M. C. A. in France.

Sailed from New York on May 25 to Newport News, Halifax, Liverpool and London. Our trip across was uneventful most of the way, but running up into Liverpool, our escort bagged a "sub," which had been following us up.

We were shot across the channel to Paris via Southampton and Le Havre. I was attached to the treasurer's office in the "Y" headquarters at Paris and served there until Sept. 5, 1918.

While in Paris we were under bombardment by "Big Bertha" during many days and had numerous air raids at night. Many nights, after working all day, we went down to the Paris stations to carry the wounded, our boys and French, from trains to waiting ambulances — an all night job. This helped to break the monotony of purely office work.

On Sept. 5 I was sent down to Southern France for leave area work, first to Aix-les-Baines, then to Grenoble where I aided to organize the Dauphine Leave Area. Later I had charge of the work at Uriage, a sub-leave area.

Was ordered back to Paris Nov. 7, as my time of service was to expire Nov. 15, and returned home via Brest, arriving in New York on Nov. 24, 1918.

Member: Harvard, West Side Tennis, 7th Regiment Tennis, and Kingswood Golf Clubs; Associates of Engineer Corps and K Co., 7th Reg't.; Crawford Notch Tennis Club; Clinton Hall Association.

LYON SMITH

THOMAS HERBERT SMITH

Address: (home) 63 Clark St., Newton Center, Mass.

(business) 147 Milk St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Accountant.

Unmarried.

ROM July 1, 1915, to about Nov. 25, 1916, I continued to travel as salesman for Benedict Mfg. Co., Syracuse, N. Y. In the Spring and Summer of 1917 I held various jobs, working in a munition factory, and later gardening, with the purpose of regaining condition for military service. In April, 1919, after discharge from the army in Feb., I took a position as traveling auditor in the Management Division of Stone and Webster, and am still there.

War Record: Entered 2nd Plattsburg Training Camp and emerged a 1st Lieutenant, attached to M. G. Co. 301st Inf., at Camp Devens as platoon commander. When the 76th Div. prepared to go over, and attached officers were detached, I was a member of the party sent down to Rhode Island State College to take charge of the U. S. A. Training Detachments, then being established at many technical schools to give special vocational and military training to selected men of the draft. We handled there two detachments of two hundred and fifty men each. When the Commander on Education and Special Training of the General Staff formed the S. A. T. C. in the Fall, those who had seen similar work with Training Detachments were the first officers supplied. As such, I served first as Asst. Dist. Inspector in the New England Dist., and later as Commanding Officer of the units at Worc. Poly. Institute and Assumption College, Worcester, Mass. While there I was promoted to be Captain. Discharged Feb. 13, 1919, and commissioned Captain, Inf. Section, O. R. C., April 18, 1919.

Member: Isaac Parker Lodge, I. O. F. A. M., Waltham, Mass.

(business) Emerson Shoe Co., Rockland, Mass.

Occupation: Sales and advertising manager.

Unmarried.

UNTIL May, 1918, I conducted an advertising business (The Davis-Smith Co.) in Boston. I sold that business so that I could go to work for Uncle Sam. On getting my discharge I went with the Emerson Shoe Co. as advertising manager, subsequently taking over the sales department as well and becoming a director in the company.

War Record: From May, 1918, until Jan. 1, 1919, I was District Director for Central Department of War Department; served on commission on Training Camp Activities.

Jean, June 24, 1917; Theodore Rodgers, Jan. 16, 1919.

SINCE our last report the only outstanding incidents in my life is that I have married and am now raising two children. I have accomplished nothing astonishing but have enjoyed a moderate success in the manufacturing business, in which we have been free from labor trouble and we think have had the respect and confidence of our employees.

The only offices I now hold are the presidency of our City

Masonic Club, and membership in our City Council.

War Record: Acted as a sub-committee man on all Liberty Loan and welfare work.

TAVE nothing of interest or importance to state in reference to history since the last report with the exception of a change in business. In 1916 I became president of the Hotel Imperial Corporation of New York and since then have been on the job at the Hotel Imperial. Still single, but have both eyes open.

War Record: As deputy chief of the Hotel Division, A. P. L. of New York City, I was in full charge of every hotel in the city, and at times its work was very extensive. Received certificate of exceptional service from A. P. L.

Maintained booths and corps of workers for all the Liberty Bond drives, and all the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., etc., drives.

HERBERT MORLAND STERN

Address: East Avenue Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

Occupation: Architect.

Unmarried.

TO oblige the class secretary I wish to state that my life now is just about what it was when the last class report was published. I am still unmarried, still practicing architecture under the firm name of Arnold and Stern. The war did not make a hero of me. My inglorious career as private 4914007 (Harvard Unit, S. A. T. C., Oct. 11 to Dec. 12,1918) does not tempt me into print.

CTILL at old stand pushing the hard pencil and sling'n the ink to make plans and specifications meet, specializing in bank buildings. All banks do not have money nor all bankers sense (cents). It is a great game — just like being in the army — the privates generally know it best, and officers least. Being an officer has its draw backs.

War Record: Entered Camp Lee, Va., Jan. 3, 1918, and graduated after nine weeks, a full Captain. Was sent to Camp Shelby, Miss., and became Captain, Co. B, 113th Engineers, the best company of boys in A. E. F.—barring none. Arrived in Brest, France, Sept. 28, 1918. Four days later we were sent to Latricey to build 2nd Air Depot—Kaiser Bill yelled Kammerad Nov. 11, when he heard that we had finally arrived over.

Did police work in cleaning up after the other units had done their dirtiest to mess things—and left a clean spot or trail from Larzirais, France, up to Bethung, Germany. Was recommended twice for Majority, too late, too bad. Released from service July 19.1919.

Member: F. & A. M., R. A. M., K. T.; Harvard Club; A. I. A.; Advent Club; Kiwanis Club; American Legion; Episcopal Club.

DANA WILLARD STOCKBRIDGE

Address: (home) 190 Pine St., Lowell, Mass. (business) 46 Middle St., Lowell, Mass.

Dana Willard, Jr., April 5, 1918.

Literature as a vocation had considerable attraction for me in earlier years, but I finally decided that, after all, drawing which had been my first love, still had the strongest pull. So I left Harvard at the end of my Sophomore year and commenced the study of art in good earnest. The school I attended in Boston was an excellent one, and in its last period attracted hundreds of students, some of whom have since achieved distinction. There I spent two years and would doubtless have stayed longer or pursued my studies in other schools, if necessity had not urged me to make practical use of such ability as I possessed or had acquired. In other words I had to get a job.

Then followed two years in which I gained much experience as a commercial artist (so-called) in Boston photo engraving houses, and after that chance brought me to Lowell, where I established a sure-enough studio with all the trappings dear to romantic youth. But one by one I have dropped these externals until in the course

My work, however, has not been wholly commercial, as in the last few years I have designed more than forty bookplates. The bookplate field is a restricted one, and even within its narrow limits I have made no great stir. But my designs have been represented in various exhibits in New York and Boston, and some of them have found their way into private collections. There is one designed for Royden Cheney, '01, in the collection, "Angling Bookplates," made by the late Daniel Fearing and presented to the Harvard Library.

I have now lived and worked in Lowell thirteen years, have married, and have a little son, who bears his father's name but is otherwise an improvement on the old stock.

Member: Pentucket Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Mount Horeb Royal Arch Chapter (both of Lowell); Lowell Board of Trade.

HOWARD STOCKTON, Jr.

Address: (home) 31 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

(business) 30 State St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Unmarried.

SINCE July 1, 1915, I have continued to practice law as a member of the firm of Warren, Garfield, Whiteside and Lamson, 30

State St., Boston, except while in the service.

War Record: Enrolled in U. S. N. R. F., April 3, 1917, as Quartermaster, 3rd Class. Called on active duty April 5, 1917, on U. S. S. P. "Shada," and from then until the end of June, 1917, engaged in coast patrol around Boston Harbor and Coast of Maine. Made Chief Boatswain's Mate and assigned to U. S. S. P. "Shur" as second in command and later in command. Appointed Ensign, U. S. N. R. F., Sept. 18, 1917, and assigned to command Submarine Chaser # 255. Remained in this capacity and as Division Commander until April 3, 1918. Resigned on account of ill health April 12, 1918. After an operation for appendicitis and a long vacation spent in endeavoring to recover my health and some sixty pounds of lost weight, applied for a commission in the Chemical Warfare Service. Was sent to the Engineer Officers' Training Camp at Camp Humphreys, Va., for two weeks, most of which period I spent in the hospital with influenza. Sent to Gas School at Camp Kendrick, N. J., and completed the course there, incidentally also trying the hospital there for five days on account of bronchitis. Honorably discharged Dec. 7, 1918.

THEODORE LOTHROP STODDARD

Occupation: Author.

Unmarried.

THE years since 1915 have with me been simply a continuation of my professional activities described in the 1915 Class Report. Being a writer on world affairs, these eventful years of war and world reconstruction have engrossed my time and energy to the full.

The only detail of my life which is of any importance is my change of residence from Brookline, Mass., to New York City, in Oct., 1918, where I began conducting a department on foreign affairs in "The World's Work" magazine, and am still conducting it at the present writing.

War Record: Wrote articles for the Publicity Department of the Liberty Loan Committee. Also did publicity work for the Massachusetts Committee of Public Safety.

My reference-book, "The Stakes of the War," 1913, which I wrote as a handy manual of information regarding the problems of race and territory involved in the war, was cited and starred on the War Department's list of books recommended for the "War Aims Courses" in colleges, etc. I also understand that it was of some use to Americans in Paris at the time of the Peace Conference.

Have written: "The French Revolution in San Domingo," (Boston, 1914); "Present-Day Europe: Its National States of Mind," (New York, 1917); "The Stakes of the War," (New York, 1918); "The Rising Tide of Color," (New York, 1920), to be published this Spring. Have also written about fifty magazine articles in the last six years, besides newspaper articles.

Member: Boston and New York Harvard Clubs; Academy of Political Science; American Historical Associations; American Political Science Association; American Sociological Society; National Institute of Social Sciences.

JAMES SIDNEY STONE

Address: (home) Lincoln Rd., Wayland, Mass. (business) 84 State St., Boston, Mass.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Dorothy Coburn, Duxbury, Mass., June 29, 1912. Children:

Dorothy, April 23, 1913; Olivia, March 17, 1916.

SINCE the last report I have lived a very busy life without events of interest to others. Moving about the time of that report to Wayland, fifteen miles west of Boston, I have kept a small farm going in the intervals allowed by a strenuous law practice, and am an enthusiastic all-the-year country dweller, working in the city because of necessity. Any classmates who share such feelings will receive a hearty welcome at Hazelbrook Farm, Wayland, Mass., at any time.

War Record: During the 3d, 4th, and 5th Liberty Loans, I served as chairman for Wayland; was member of the team for Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and United War Work drives. Worked with Legal Advisory Board, District 32, Mass., as a permanent member, and with the Legal Advisory Board of Boston District as an associate member.

Enlisted as a private, 1st Motor Corps, Mass. State Guard, June, 1918, and am still a member of that organization. Called out in Sept., 1919, for police duty.

Member: Harvard Club of Boston; Exchange Club; Weston Country Club.

- Occupation: Real estate.
- Married: Nina Lehman. Cleveland. Ohio. June 28, 1915. Children: Richard Lehman. Dec. 5, 1916; Nancy Rose, Jan. 22, 1920.

GRADUATED in 1904 as of 1905. During the Summer following my graduation from Harvard. I attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Summer School intending to continue my work with a course in electrical engineering. I entered "Tech" in 1905, pursued my studies through the year 1906 but did not return for what would have been my senior year at Tech.

I then secured a position with the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., where I remained for a period of one year. 1906–1907. My work there consisted in construction work upon sub-stations in so far as the electrical installations were concerned.

Had an opportunity to join a machinery selling concern in Minneapolis, Messrs. Geo. J. Caldwell and Co., which I accepted. I remained at this position for about one year and a half when I decided to return to my home city. I did not prove to be a good salesman, and thought that I could do considerably better in some other line of work.

From 1907 to 1910 I was employed in various capacities with a company manufacturing automobiles in Cleveland. This was The Gaeth Automobile Co. In 1910, at which time I was secretary and treasurer of the above company, we became involved in financial difficulties and the company became insolvent. I severed my connections with the company upon its reorganization and became connected with M. C. and I. N. Stone as "estate manager," where I have remained since.

HAVE practiced law in New York, specializing in foreign corporation matters. My work has, is, and I hope always will interest me; nevertheless when I think of the past five years I find nothing outstanding to tell you.

War Record: Served in the American Red Cross from Dec. 4, 1917, to May 17, 1919. Was assigned to the Italian Commission with the rank of Captain, and served at Rome as assistant to James Byrne, '77, Legal Counsel to the commission, taking his place (?) when he left in Dec., 1918. Was also a member of the Finance Committee of the Commission, and secretary of the Department of Military Affairs, of which Guy Lowell, '91, was chief.

My work was almost entirely office work of a legal and secretarial character at Rome. However, I was very much impressed by the deep and abiding friendship the Italians have for the Americans. It is surviving the Fiume incident, which is popularly treated in Italy as the mistake of a single man and not imputed to the American people. There were in Italy during the war hundreds of thousands of Italians who had been in the United States, and most of them boosted us. Italy's appreciation of the work done by the A. R. C. was most generously and sincerely expressed, coming as it did from a nation in some ways the most sorely tried by the war. Valley Forge was lived over a thousand times on a gigantic scale by insufficiently clad Sicilian, Calabrian and other Southern Italian soldiers, accustomed to mild climates, fighting in and near the Alps in Northern Italy. Yet in spite of such sacrifices many in Italy said that America won the war. This friendship of the Italians for America will, I hope, not be forgotten by us.

HAVING held no position of trust nor honor, nor written any book, nor having performed any of the usual items worthy of record, it is rather difficult to add anything to my previous report that will prove interesting from an historical standpoint. The following few details may swell the bulk of the book even though it adds nothing to its interest.

After leaving college I entered Boston University Law School in 1903 and graduated cum laude in 1906. Previously (in 1905) I had been admitted to the bar. After graduation I opened an office in Boston prepared to practice upon anyone ready for the sacrifice. For a number of years I gained more experience than profit but in the course of time matters improved to a point adequate for one of modest ambition. One is apt to specialize in the law and during the last few years I have been engaged principally in trial work. Aside from the law I have been interested in sociology and politics and have done considerable reading on those subjects. Generally speaking, in my experience, life, while not quite up to expectations, has been satisfactory and interesting.

Nothing eventful has occurred in my life since July 1, 1915.

War Record: A good deal of my leisure time and some that was not, since 1917, has been devoted to Red Cross work. As vice-chairman of the N. H. State Chapter, when it was reorganized in Feb. 1917, it was my job to spread the Red Cross movement over N. H. and in the Spring of 1917, I was instrumental in organizing over one hundred and thirty Red Cross branches and auxiliaries throughout New Hamshire. I had charge of the work of organizing the N. H. campaign for the 1st Red Cross War Fund in June, 1917, and in the Fall of 1917 when the N. H. State Chapter was broken up into separate chapters, I became chairman of the Concord Chapter and was a district chairman in the drives that followed until Dec. 1, 1918. I was appointed State chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call Membership Drive, and succeeded in bringing our percentage of membership to population to the point that was exceeded in New England only by Eastern Massachusetts.

Served also as member of Legal Advisory Board. Merrimack County, N. H., and of the N. H. Public Safety Committee.

A FTER graduating I entered the Medical School and continued my training until June, 1909, receiving my degree, and spent two years at the Massachusetts General Hospital. After a trip to the West Indies and South America I began the study of orthopædic surgery which I continued until the Fall of 1912 when I went to Clifton Springs Sanatorium in New York State, in charge of the orthopædic department. I was married in Oct., 1913, and continued at Clifton Springs until 1915. Went to New York City and opened an office but in the Spring of 1916 I again moved, this time back to Boston at the request of Dr. Goldthwait, where I have continued ever since in the office with Drs. Goldthwait, Osgood, and Brown. During the war Dr. Brown and I were left at home in order to make it possible for Drs. Goldthwait and Osgood to be in France.

During this time I have been to Bermuda, and had several vacations in Maine and last year acquired a small farm in Dover.

Since returning to Boston I have been connected with the Massachusetts General Hospital as surgeon to orthopædic outpatients, orthopædic surgeon to the New England Baptist Hospital, consulting orthopædic surgeon to Devereaux Memoriam, Marblehead, and New England Tubercular Sanatorium, Rutland.

War Record: Taught three times a week at the Mass. General Hospital Outpatient Clinic of Medical Officers who were sent to the hospital for instruction in orthopædic surgery. This was organized at the declaration of war and was carried on steadily for a year.

Have written: Various medical articles.

Member: Cambridge, Mass. and American Medical Societies; American Electro Therapeutic Society; Aesculapian Club; Harvard Club of New York; Boston Orthopædic Society; Union Boat Club.

CINCE 1915 I have continued to reside in St. Louis except for a year abroad during the war. I returned here in July, 1919, and re-entered my regular business after a two years' absence. I have served in various capacities in connection with civic activities in St. Louis.

War Record: Entered the American Red Cross as a volunteer. part time only, in March, 1917, in connection with the work of the St. Louis Chapter. In June, 1917, I obtained leave of absence from my business to enter the Red Cross as a full time volunteer, and served from that time until Dec., 1917, as manager, Bureau of Supplies, A. R. C., Southwestern Division, at St. Louis headquarters. From Dec., 1917, until July, 1918, I was acting manager. Southwestern Division, A. R. C., and from Aug. until Nov., 1918, served as manager, Southern Zone, American Red Cross, with headquarters at Marseilles, France, Was director, Army and Navy Dept., American Red Cross, Paris headquarters, from Nov., 1918, until May, 1919. My work in this latter department was especially interesting as all the Red Cross activities in connection with the Army and Navy in France and the zone of occupation, except those entirely medical, were centralized in the department of which I was in charge.

Assisted in raising Red Cross funds in connection with above. Member: Harvard Club of New York; University Club of St.

T EFT the office of Marbury, Gosnell and Williams at Baltimore I to go to France in May, 1917. On returning I came to New York and entered the Government service as an assistant United States attorney for the Southern District, which position I still hold. War Record: Joined the Norton-Harjes Ambulance Corps about May 1, 1917, and sailed a few weeks later with a number of other men on the S. S. "Chicago." We landed at Bordeaux and went direct to Paris. After a few days I was shipped off to Sandricourt for training. There we repaired roads and buildings, cleared land. dug ditches and drilled under an old British Major, a veteran of India. Toward the end of June, forty-five of us went out as Section 61. We obtained our cars, all Fiats, carrying five couchees or ten assis, at Dijon. Our first station was Rupt-sur-Moselle in the Vosges. It was very quiet and we were all delighted to get away after nearly a month of inaction. Within a few days we were attached to the 42nd Division of the French Army, then en repos at Revigny, and moved up with them to Verdun and took part in the offensive of Aug. 21 to Sept. 3 which resulted in a gain of territory and the capture of several thousand German prisoners. The work at Verdun consisted principally of night driving without lights. The roads that we used were under constant shell fire, — shrapnel, gas and high explosive. Every clear night brought an air attack. It was a real taste of war and tremendously interesting. Our division next moved to a quiet sector, a few miles to the southeast where the only excitement was in being shelled out of our quarters in the little town of Somme-Dieu. On Oct. 5, after two months in the front line, the 42nd was ordered back en repos and we went with them to the village of Trondes, near Toul. There we were relieved on Oct. 13. Many of the men enlisted with the A. E. F.; others, including myself, who failed to make the physical requirements, were shipped home. While in the service I ranked as a private in the French Army, and received the munificent wage of five cents a day.

John Howard, April 25, 1918; Marco George, Feb. 8, 1920.

CINCE July 1, 1915, my life has pursued its even tenor, except for The slight disturbance introduced by war and marriage. I am still continuing my work as chemist in the laboratory of the Solvay Process Co., but with an ever increasing desire to quit this lucrative occupation and devote myself entirely to the simple life of caring for the garden, the chickens, the pigs, goats and rabbits. Fifteen years after graduation I am beginning to realize that it was a mistake to devote so much time and resources to chemistry; I should have studied agriculture and animal husbandry instead. My impression is that an ordinary intellect can still make a living in farming, but only a genius can hope to rise above the dead level of mediocrity and dependence in chemistry.

My social and economic status is still where it was in 1915, barring the fact that the war obliterated what little earthly accumulation I had made in the first ten years and reduced income to forty-five cents on the dollar. I am starting now with a financial slate as clean as it was in 1905, but with the comforting knowledge that even if I can't send my sons to Harvard, at least they will not be handicapped for life by an expensive college education in the business of making a living. As for their education — I will attend to that.

Married: Elvira Paulsen, Manila, P. I., July 29, 1911. Children: Ruth, April 19, 1912; Paula, Nov. 8, 1915.

TN 1915, I was vice-president and general manager of The Times Company, Manila, P. I., publishers of the "Manila Times," oldest American daily in the Orient, and owner of the Times Press, one of the largest printing plants of the Philippines. In 1917, I became president of the corporation, editor of the paper, and general manager of the corporation's activities. In 1919, because of the necessity of educating my children in a European atmosphere, I severed the ties which bound me so delightfully to the Philippines, and in June, set sail for America, to seek new pastures, i.e., to get a job. For several months I marveled at the wonders of New York, and then joined forces with the Pacific Development Corporation, which sent me to France to look out for their interests in the Société Anonyme, Meurer Frères, 12 Rue du Faubourg Poissoniere, Paris, in which corporation they have a large interest. There I have become an official of the corporation and expect to make Paris my home for a number of years.

War Record: During the war I was a member of the executive council of the Philippine Chapter, American Red Cross. Acted as director-in-chief of the Christmas Red Cross drive of 1917 in the Philippines, raising half a million dollars for the organization.

Served in various executive capacities, on the executive committees in charge of the first four Liberty Loan drives in the Philippines.

AST year I became a partner in the investment house of Blodget and Co., which has offices in Boston, New York, Hartford, Philadelphia, and Chicago. If any of my classmates would like to become interested in this kind of business, let me suggest that we have opportunities which might interest them.

Somehow a banker and a gentleman farmer are always associated together. So in my case I operated a one hundred and sixty acre general farm at my summer place, about thirty-five miles south of Boston, and gave special attention to pure bred Holsteins. I am also interested with my brother in operating a hide fur fertilizer, and rendering business in Virginia, and which my friends call "dead horse pfd." Then I went one worse and with my brother and two others, secured the garbage contract at three of the army and navy camps in Virginia, and fed about six thousand hogs. Now we are planning a fifteen thousand hog ranch, which is an opportunity for a classmate to finance.

War Record: Not being obligated for war work on account of dependency it was logical to assist in selling Liberty bonds, which was part of my regular business as an investment banker. With no selling organization we placed over $5,000,000 of the first two issues.

IN Jan., 1916, I left the firm of Bissell, Sinkler and Tilden, Architects, a member of which I had been for three years, and formed a partnership with H. Bartol Register, M. A., 1909, University of Pennsylvania School of Architecture. In Oct., 1917, we accepted commissions as 1st Lieutenants in the Construction Department of the Signal Corps, U. S. Army, with overseas assignments. In April, 1919, I returned to my profession, having been discharged from the army in March of that year; and am continuing to practice with my partner under the firm name of Tilden and Register.

War Record: Responding to a call for volunteers from members of the American Institute of Architects for technically trained men to send abroad on construction work I was commissioned 1st Lieutenant, Signal Corps. From civil life I was ordered to Garden City and after a wait of two weeks was assigned to the 492nd Aero. Squadron and sent to France. The plans promised to us were never carried out, for in volunteering we were told that we would be sent immediately close to the front to take care of building hangars, camps, etc., for the Air Service.

We waited eight months in Tours for orders to go forward. And after that time our squadron having been made a headquarters squadron I was given assignment as Intelligence Officer in 9-2 S. O. S. I was relieved of my duties in Feb., 1919, and ordered home for honorable discharge on March 4, 1919.

WITH the exception of my war service I have been engaged in the real estate and insurance business from Nov., 1907, to date, with offices at 35 Congress St., Boston.

War Record: Enlisted in the American Field Service for service in France with the French Armies, Aug., 1917; reënlisted in the American Army at Soissons, France, Nov. 13, 1917, serving with the Mallet Reserve until Nov. 5, 1918, when I was transferred to Battery A, 101st Field Artillery, 26th Division, and remained with them until my discharge, April 29, 1919, at Camp Devens, Mass.

Was made Acting Sergeant after attending a French Motor Transport School at Chavigny Farms. Worked for about six weeks as an instructor at American Motor Transport School at Port-St. Maxens, and then went to the front with Motor Transport Section, driving a staff car. Remained there until Oct. 5, 1918, when I was transferred to an officers' school at Decies, France, where I acted as instructor. On Nov. 5, 1918, was transferred to Battery A, 101st F. A., 26th Div., as private, and made private, 1st class, in Dec., 1918.

Saw active service at the front from Cambrai in the offensive of Oct., 1917, to Verdun, where I joined the Battery. Was in practically all the offensives and defensives, working with the French Armies, except the Argonne offensive, when I was at the American Motor Transport School at Decies, France.

EDGAR PAYSON TROTT

Address: 17 Webster St., Winchester, Mass.

Occupation: Construction engineer.

Ruth Marion, Sept. 29, 1918.

WAS connected with the B. and M. R. R. as civil engineer on construction until April 1, 1916, when I left to join Stone and Webster.

In the latter firm I worked at Pawtucket and Woonsocket, R. I., and Passaic, N. J., until May 1, 1917, when I left to go to the first Plattsburg camp.

War Record: At completion of training camp at Belvoir, I was commissioned Captain of Engineers and was assigned to Co. A, 301st Engineers, at Camp Devens. As topographical officer I finished the mapping of Camp Devens started by the 101st Engineers. On April 1, 1918, was assigned to command of "A" Company, which post I held until discharged from the army.

We sailed from the United States July 13, 1918, landing in England. After ten days' rest at Winchester left for St. Cunard, France. Our regiment was made corps engineers and we proceeded to Toul and joined the 4th Corps of the 1st Army. On Sept. 12, 1918, we went over the top in the St. Mihiel drive. Our regiment as corps troops had to keep all roads in passable condition for transportation, also build ammunition dumps, second line and switch trenches, etc. Although under a shell fire continually for ten months we were very fortunate in having only seventeen casualties.

We were ordered to the Argonne, but held as 4th Corps troops when the second Army was formed and stayed in the Woevre plains.

When the armistice was signed our regiment was assigned to the 3rd Army of Occupation and started the hike into Germany.

In Germany my company was assigned to Army headquarters at Coblenz, where we took over all public utilities. Performed this duty until ordered home June 1, 1919. We were mustered out at Camp Devens, July 9, 1919, two years and one month after entering Plattsburg.

JOHN APPLETON TUCKERMAN

Address: Hoffman, N. C. Occupation: Farmer.

Married: Katharine Susan Atterbury, New York, N. Y., Dec. 10, 1910. Child: Anne Mercer, Dec. 8, 1911.

MY life since July, 1915, until recently has been a natural continuation of the five or six years before that date. I still worked as a bond salesman for Lee, Higginson and Co. in Boston. In the Fall of 1916 I was made New England sales manager of five branch offices scattered through New England.

For some time, however, I had had the desire to give up office work and take up life in the open. While visiting our classmate, Roger Derby, in Dec., 1918, I felt that I had found an opportunity not only to work out of doors but also to make a little money. Derby had become interested in growing peaches and the proposition looked so promising to me that I decided to move down here. I bought land, planted some trees and built a house. On Jan. 1, 1920, I left Lee, Higginson and Co., and took up life in the sandhills of North Carolina. Money returns in the farming business may be hard to grasp and the life difficult, but it is full of fascination. I hope that in the next class report I may tell of great success as an agriculturalist.

War Record: Enlisted in Oct., 1918, to go to training school in the Remount Service. I received orders to start for Jacksonville, Fla., on Nov. 12 but did not go owing to the signing of the armistice.

Member: Harvard Club of New York; Somerset Club of Boston; Myopia Hunt Club of Hamilton, Mass.

ARTHUR PIERS LEGH TURNER

Address: (home) 426 Walnut Rd., Ben Avon, Pa.

(business) 201 Jenkins Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Occupation: Lumberman — wholesale.

Married: Ora Weimer, Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 16, 1907 (died Nov. 16, 1918). Children: Arthur P. L., Jr., Dec. 31, 1908; Catherine Weimer, July 3, 1910 (died July 8, 1910); Richard Weimer, July 22, 1911.

A FTER having been connected with several lumber firms in Pittsburgh, I started my own wholesale lumber business on Nov. 1, 1916, which I laid on the shelf in Jan., 1918, to enter the service of the British Government. On being released June 1, 1919, I returned to Pittsburgh and reopened my office on July 1, 1919.

In the meantime I have been rather active in Harvard affairs in Pittsburgh. From 1915 to 1917 I was secretary and treasurer of the local club. In 1917 they elected me vice-president. At our last annual meeting in Nov., 1919, I was elected president of the H. C. of W. Penn., in which capacity I am now serving.

In Sept., 1919, I took on the duties of executive secretary for Western Penn. and West Virgina of the Harvard Endowment Fund and this work is still carrying on.

The last club election resulted in four '05 men taking office, viz.:

A. M. Scully as vice-president, Sidney J. Watts as treasurer, H. V. Blaxter as member of the scholarship committee and myself as mentioned above, all of whom were members of table seven, Memorial Hall, in Freshman year. In the face of such circumstantial evidence, I wish to state emphatically that this state of affairs was not the result of collusion or politics, but a recognition on the part of the club of the real value of the class of 1905.

War Record: In Sept., 1917, I offered my services to the British Government (being a native Britisher) and also to the U. S. Government. In Jan., 1918, the British Government assumed direct control of their war supplies in lumber and called on me to go south and take charge of the organization of the production, inspection, and delivery to shipside of all yellow pine purchased. I accordingly established headquarters in New Orleans, took on a corps of twenty-two inspectors and an office staff, and from that office looked after the yellow pine from about seventy-five mills scattered from Texas to Florida and its accumulation at eleven Gulf and South Atlantic ports for shipment overseas, some to the United Kingdom and some direct to Expeditionary Forces in France. Practically all of it went in straight cargoes, the Ministry of Shipping allotting me the necessary boats. Toward the last I also handled the hardwoods, mahogany, etc.

SAMUEL EPES TURNER

Address: (home) 700 Linwood Place, St. Paul, Minn. (business) 50 West Third St., St. Paul, Minn.

Occupation: Law book publishing.

Married: Catherine Ames, St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 24, 1910. Children: Samuel Epes, Jr., July 18, 1911; Mary Ames, Oct. 27, 1912; Alice Moore, March 31, 1914; Clara Barbara, May 19, 1916; Elizabeth Holyoke, March 9, 1919.

VERY little important enough to chronicle has occurred in my life since my last report in 1915. I have continued in business with the same firm (the West Publishing Company) changing from the Sales Department to the Advertising Department, and about two years ago I was put in charge of our Law School Department. My new work involves a good deal of traveling to the different law schools throughout the country.

War Record: Took part in the Liberty Loan and Red Cross Drives in St. Paul whenever I was in town for same; beginning in the early Spring of 1916 I served with the Minnesota Home Guard, and later enlisted with the Minnesota National Guard, from which I was honorably discharged in the Fall of 1919. Served first as private, and later as Battalion Sergeant Major.

Member: St. Paul Athletic Club; Harvard Club of Minnesota;

Minnesota Boat Club.

liam Wark, Dec. 2, 1918.

MY "parish" includes all of Hunan Province north of the 28th parallel,—that is, an area with a population of some twelve million people. Other churches have missionaries in this area, but I am the only man representative of the Episcopal Church. We have work in the two largest cities; Changsha, the provincial capital, with population of three hundred and fifty thousand, and Changdeh, situated one hundred and fifty miles from Changsha, with population of two hundred and fifty thousand persons. Have a fine staff to work with; we have one church which seats six hundred persons, one boys' boarding school, one girls' boarding school, primary schools for boys and girls, and residences for staff, at Changsha; we have a chapel which seats one hundred persons, primary schools, and sheds rented for Chinese staff at Changdeh. We are running full capacity at the present time. The church at Changsha can be left right now as a "self-supporting" church. Am business manager, occasional preacher, Bible class teacher, superintendent of schools, architect, accountant, father to orphaned children, parish priest, etc., etc.

We have an English Holy Communion monthly for foreign business people. The total foreign community here numbers some two hundred. American business is growing here, and the growth of my work is rapid and inspiring.

Have written: One Chinese pamphlet on "The Problem of Suffering" (in Chinese); several articles printed in "The Spirit of Missions" (in English).

THE most important event to me since writing for our decennial class report has been an addition to my family of three more rookies for Harvard. I am accused of engineering a deal to furnish Harvard with an eleven — that I deny most emphatically and even if my huskies commit the Octopian crime of enveloping the center or backfield trio in their tentacles, I shall plead not guilty as accessory before the fact in violation of the anti-trust laws. And for my defense I shall put in evidence the silver cup bestowed upon me by Jack Prentiss for being on the winning team — (for the largest amount of subscriptions) of the New York Committee of the Endowment Fund, to prove that the only malice aforethought harbored by me was education for the rookies.

As to more serious matters there isn't much for me to say. When I sent in my "life" without saying anything about it, Charlie Mason threatened me with bodily injury if I didn't say something. Of course, I was dreadfully frightened, because I can lick Charlie Mason any day, except at auction. I guess he never heard the story about the ace or the lobster sandwich. Anyway he rebuked me thus:

— "Certainly a gent who holds an important position with the biggest banking house in the world should have something to say for himself." Charlie accounts for a species that Darwin doesn't—the office-boy on State Street.

As a matter of fact, I have been with J. P. Morgan and Co. since shortly before the outbreak of the Great War. The years elapsed have been years of drive, strain, fascination, and greatest of all, esteem for the firm. As the dark days of the war fade from man's memory, the services rendered to the Allied cause by that firm will be appraised at appreciating values. And Harvard smiles with pride upon Thomas W. Lamont, superhuman worker. Harvard is well represented in the firm, on the staff and in the organization. We have some Elis and some Nassaus, too, which makes it all the more interesting, especially when Harvard wins the money.

ALBERT GOODNOW WAITE

Address: (home) 16 Cedar St., Worcester, Mass.

(business) 56 Walker St., Springfield, Mass.

Occupation: Sales and advertising manager, American Textile Soap Co.

Unmarried.

THERE'S little to report since the record of 1915. I remained with the Wright Wire Co. as manager of the fence department, and for a while as advertising manager until Oct. 1, 1918. Having decided to concentrate my energies on the sales and distributive ends of business, I accepted the position of sales and advertising manager of the American Textile Soap Co., Springfield, Mass., a reorganization of the old Fisk Mfg. Co., which had been some sixty years in business, and moved to Springfield early in Oct., 1918.

Since then I have devoted all my time to building up a sales force and developing new business all over the United States, as well as exporting to foreign lands; meeting with some degree of success. All members of the class of 1905 and friends who have use for soaps in their business, are cordially invited to investigate ours, which are generally admitted by the trade to be reliable and of excellent quality. All 1905 men will be welcome at our plant, 56 Walker St., Springfield, and when passing through town are requested to call, or phone me there or at the Navasset Club.

Ill health prevented me from entering the service, but I was able in my position as department manager of the Wright Wire Co. to execute a good deal of work for the War and Navy Departments direct, as well as a wide variety for other industrial concerns which were on war work.

Much government property and many plants producing Ordnance. Navy and Quartermaster supplies were surrounded and protected by unclimbable wire and iron industrial fencing installed under my supervision.

Now, feeling as fit as ever, I am looking forward to meeting again all my fellow classmates in June and doing my bit to make our Fifteenth Anniversary the best of all the wonderful reunions of the good old class of 1905.

War Record: Attended July to Aug., 1916, the Voluntary Training Camp at Plattsburg. Was studying in preparation for en334 tering the official camps in May, 1917, but in April broke down from overwork and nerve strain, and was refused permission by doctors to attend any of the training camps or to enter active service. Was offered a tentative commission in the ordnance department on production work in 1918 and had the war continued into 1919 should undoubtedly have gotten into government service in some form.

During the past five years I have continued my engineering research, a work that has exclusively taken up my life since leaving Harvard.

War Record: During the war I developed the Wales Barbwire Shell, a shell designed to spread in proper form and location barb wire as an entanglement. This shell was built in quantity by the Driggs Ordnance Co., of New York City. The Japanese and Russian Governments confiscated the patents as military secrets. I also built under my patents a pneumatic parachute which was made by the Goodyear Rubber Co., at Akron, Government contracts on which were cancelled when the armistice was declared.

(business) Power Construction Co., Vernon, Vt.

Married: Lena Frances Phillips, Albany, N. Y., June 23, 1906. Child:

Lawrence Scott, Sept. 20, 1908.

JULY 1, 1915, found me city engineer of Greenfield, Mass., which position I held at the time of our entrance into the war.

Since my discharge have been employed with the Power Construction Co. of Worcester, Mass., as superintendent in charge of night work on the extension of the hydro electric plant at Vernon, Vt.

War Record: Events of the winter of 1916-17 induced me to seek a commission in the Engineer Officers' Reserve Corps, and after much exemplification of fitness and considerable correspondence with Washington offices, a commission as First Lieutenant of Engineers was grudgingly tendered under date of April 6, 1917. Almost immediately we were politely invited to present ourselves at Plattsburgh for training without pay. We accordingly, rather dubiously "chucked" our several jobs and wended our way to Northern New York with vague ideas as to our authority or lack of some. We soon discovered and gradually accustomed ourselves to lack of authority and many other things. We alternately froze and sweltered, as you all recall, and after being herded to Washington, D. C., finally drew our commissions and assignments at Belvoir, Va. At that time it was my privilege to receive a commission as Captain Engrs, and a detail as Captain of Co. B, 301st Engrs., 76th Div., at Camp Devens. At the latter place many of the Harvard enthusiasts trained recruits in hopes of reaching such excellence as to warrant an early crossing only to have the men transferred with an opportunity to do it all over again. Nothing daunted, we persevered until June, 1918, when we all reached the other side. Unfortunately for most of the units the Division was sidetracked, but the 301st Engrs. remained intact and entered the advanced zone in time for the St. Mihiel drive, in which sector we remained until Nov. 9, 1918, when we prepared to go forward with the drive on Metz which the armistice prevented. We reached the Rhine Dec. 11, 1918, where we practiced watchful waiting until May 27, 1919, when we entrained for the States. On March 25, 1919, was commissioned Major, Engrs., and placed in command 2nd Batt., 301st Engrs., in which capacity I reached the States June 13, 1919, being discharged July 5, 1919.

CLAUDE CARLOS WASHBURN

Address: Tryon, N. C. Occupation: Author.

Married: Ive Gowan, Florence, Italy, Nov. 18, 1911. Child: John Larry.

July 3, 1918.

WENT to Italy, with my wife, in the autumn of 1916. We returned home in June, 1919. Since then I have resumed my writing, first of all getting ready for publication a novel that had lain almost completed in my desk for a year and a half. We have given up our home in Italy and have come to Tryon, N. C., to live, after first visiting at my father's home in Duluth, Minn.

War Record: As soon after America entered the war as I could I looked for something in which I could be of immediate service. On the advice of the American Ambassador and of the American Consul in Florence, I joined the staff of the Military Attaché to the American Embassy in Rome, and acted as Chief Translator there for sixteen months, resigning March 1, 1919. It was my great good fortune to find that the Assistant Military Attaché was Captain Chandler Post (1904, I believe), and I worked under him during all my time at the Embassy. The work was very interesting, as the Military Attaché's office was closely and harmoniously in touch with the Italian Intelligence Section.

SINCE Jan. 1, 1916, James Grier Marks and I have had law offices together at rooms 1257 and 1258 Frick Bldg. Annex, Pittsburgh. We plan to remove our offices on April 1 next to the Union Arcade Building. Since Nov., 1917, I have been treasurer of the Harvard Club of Western Pa. I was not engaged in any war work, but rendered temporary assistance in the office of Gordon and Smith, whose force was considerably depleted by enlistments of younger men.

LEFT the office of Cram and Ferguson on Jan. 1, 1916, and opened an office of my own in Boston. I was just getting things going well when this country went into the war, so when in July, 1917, an opportunity came to take charge of plant construction for The Burgess Co. at Marblehead I closed my office and entered their employ. Besides putting up several buildings for them I gradually took over all the work of plant maintenance. I ended my manufacturing career by sitting in The Burgess Co. exhibit at the Air Craft show in New York for two weeks in March, 1919.

Starting about the twenty-third of March I then went on a five months' cruise on a sixty-eight foot schooner, calling in at Norfolk, Va., Nassau in the Bahamas, Havana, and other ports on the northern coast of Cuba, San Juan, Porto Rico, Cape Haitien, Charleston, S. C., arriving back at Marblehead about Aug. 1.

I then reopened my office expecting to settle down to small practice of my own when a fellow architect engaged my services to help him get out the drawings for a large office building in Hartford, Conn., on which I am still working.

TACKSON PALMER sends in the following story of "Bunty"

"Just before sailing for France, I met 'Bunty' Webster at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. I was a buck at the time, while 'Bunty' wore two bars, and was in charge of an overseas sanitary train. 'Bunty' watched our artillery work with interest, being himself a former member of Battery A. Before I left him he wished that 'I were going with you fellows. You will have something exciting to do, while I'll be cleaning up afterward.'

"That was the last time I saw 'Bunty.' It was a great shock to me to learn of his death on the battlefield, but as he must die, I am glad that he died as he lived, — in the service of his fellows."

CHARLES WEIL

Address: (home) 283 St. Paul St., Brookline, Mass.

(business) 79 Milk St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Ida Mae Frank, Boston, Mass., Sept. 11, 1915.

THE most important event since July, 1915, was my marriage in Sept. of that year to Ida Mae Frank. I am still a partner in the firm of Weil, Farrell and Co. in the banking and commercial paper business, and spend a good deal of time in our offices in New York City, Philadelphia, and Chicago. From Sept., 1918, to May,

HARRISON BRIGGS WEBSTER

1919, I lived in Chicago to take charge of our office there in order to relieve my brother, who had enlisted during the war in machine gun service.

My home in the winter is in Brookline, and in summer at Clifton, Mass., where classmates and their friends are always welcome.

War Record: Served on local committee in every campaign to raise funds for Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and Liberty Bonds.

JACOB HARRY WEIL

Address: (home) 401 S. Perry St., Montgomery, Ala.

(business) Cotton Exchange Bldg., Montgomery, Ala.

Occupation: Cotton merchant.

Unmarried.

NOTHING of note has occurred since last report. I have continued in the same business, satisfactorily successful. It is surprising to know how many 1905 men have engaged in the cotton business, and it is always a pleasure to meet them both here and in the East.

Am still leading a life of single blessedness and beginning to give up hope.

War Record: Enlisted in Officers' Training School, Camp Jos. E. Johnston, Sept. 2, 1918. After eight weeks' course was ordered to Washington for duty in office of Director of Purchase and Storage, Salvage Division, and recommended for commission as First Lieutenant. The armistice intervened and I was discharged Dec. 23, 1918, with commission of Second Lieutenant, Q. M. R. C.

Served as secretary in Red Cross drive of May, 1913, and helped with all other drives up to time of enlistment.

CHARLES ADAM WEISSERT

(business) State Capitol, Lansing, Mich.; 400 Holden Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

Occupations Sec'y., Leonard Wood League of Mich.; writer; member of the Michigan House of Representatives.

Married: Miss Elaine Bauer, Hastings, Mich., June 20, 1914. Children: Charles, 3d, April 23, 1915; Frederic George, Dec. 26, 1917.

IN the Fall of 1916, was re-elected a member of the House of Representatives in the Michigan Legislature where I served as chairman of the Committee on Education, and also as third member of the committee on Military Affairs. In the interests of the preparedness movement, I assisted in passing in the face of stiff opposition a bill providing optional military drilling in Michigan high schools. When the United States entered the World War, our committee and that of the Senate jointly reported out a bill providing a state war loan of $5,000,000, which passed without opposition. The Legislature passed a bill which I introduced providing a monument in memory of Major General William Rufus Shafter, the conqueror of Santiago, who was born in the Michigan wilderness. The log cabin which his parents erected is still standing at Galesburg, Kalamazoo County, where the memorial, designed by Pompeo Coppini, was erected and dedicated. In the Fall of 1918, I was again re-elected a Representative by an increased majority over the two preceding elections. During the session of 1919, was chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, which established a record in providing legislation for the benefit of the National Guard. In spite of great opposition, a bill which I introduced making permanent the state constabulary established during the absence of the State guard during the war, was successfully passed. Governor Albert E. Sleeper appointed me one of the commissioners to represent Michigan at the dedication of the State's monument on Shiloh battlefield, and I participated in the services with his party on last Memorial day. At the annual meeting of the Michigan Historical Society last June I was elected a trustee of the organization.

On Jan. 2, 1920, I became secretary of the Leonard Wood League of Michigan, which at the date of this writing, is endeavoring to secure Wood's nomination in the primary. The president of the organization is Colonel Frederick M. Alger, of Detroit, Harvard, 1899; the chairman of the executive committee is Captain Alton T. Roberts of Marquette, Harvard, 1904.

Any time that I have for recreation is spent in motoring, in canoeing and walking.

War Record: During the war I was a member of the House of Representatives in the Michigan Legislature. I assisted in passing legislation providing a loan of $5,000,000 for war purposes and for improving efficiency of the National Guard. We also passed a bill creating the Michigan State troops for duty in the State during the war. With the intention of preparing myself for service I served as a non-commissioned officer in Company 5, State troops. Served as a member of the Committee on Military Affairs in the Michigan House of Representatives during the session of 1917.

Have written: "The Indians of the Thornapple Valley"; also contributions to the Michigan Historical Collections; translated Sardou's drama, "The Sorceress," together with a biographical sketch of the author and a technical analysis of the play, which is included in the Contemporary Dramatists' Series.

Member: Harvard Club of Michigan; Michigan Historical Society; Hastings Lodge No. 52, F. & A. M.; Drama League; American Historical Association; Richard Westnege Camp No. 16, Spanish War Veterans, Kalamazoo.

(permanent) Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C.

Occupation: U. S. Marine.

Married: Katharine Heffernan, Newark, N. J., Jan. 22, 1920.

HAVE been a commissioned officer in the U.S. Marine Corps since Feb. 2, 1909. Commissioned Captain to date from Aug. 29, 1916, Major (Temporary July 1, 1913 to July 31, 1919). After attending the Decennial celebration, I returned to San Diego, Cal., where I was stationed. In June, 1916, I went to Santo Domingo, where I was stationed until Feb., 1918, when I was transferred to the U.S., and assigned to duty at the New York Navy Yard, where I have been ever since. I managed to attend Commencement last year. Except for this, my "life" since July, 1915, has been that of an officer in the Marine Corps on a peace basis.— nothing worthy of mention until Jan. 1, 1920,— when my supply was exhausted and I became an enthusiastically unwilling prohibitionist. Like many of those who used to say that they could "take it or leave it alone," I have discovered that I can "leave it alone."

War Record: I have been a commissioned officer in the U. S. Marine Corps, since Feb., 1909. During the war I was stationed in Santo Domingo and in the U. S., and did not have any service in the field against the Central Powers.

Member: Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C.

SINCE my last report five years ago I have done little of interest as far as my classmates are concerned. I live in Boston in the winter and go down to Wareham on Cape Cod in summer. For physical recreation I play golf, and for mental recreation I collect unpublishable limericks. Any classmate who has a new one will confer a distinct favor by mailing it to me marked "personal" as my secretary (female) does not seem to appreciate them and has authority to open my ordinary mail when I am away on trips in the south. These trips south which I make every year are not for health or pleasure, but in connection with my business. I have been working in the cotton business ever since I left college and expect to continue working at the same until I die.

The only trip I have made abroad during the last five years was in 1916 when I was called to Liverpool, where I stayed for about six weeks during Oct. and Nov., working in my Liverpool office as they were short-handed there at that time.

I am in good health and contented with life and hope all my classmates are the same.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Married: Frances Gordon Alexander, New York, N. Y., Nov. 21, 1910.

Since the last published report, nothing really of note, has happened to me.

War Record: I was connected from May, 1917, until the end of the war with the Office of Naval Intelligence, New York City Branch, doing so-called "gum shoe" work, investigating pro-German suspects, running down plots of all kinds — from plots to sneak contraband into Germany to plots to obtain and impart to the enemy military and other information, also propaganda, etc., mighty interesting though, (worse luck) far from the smell of powder and the din of battle. I was about to be commissioned in the Judge Advocate's Department, with a real chance to get "over," when the armistice was signed.

Member: Harvard, Union, and Knickerbocker Clubs.

HENRY MORSE WELLS

Address: The Taft School, Watertown, Conn. Occupation: Professor of romance languages.

Married: Lucia Darling, Newbury, Vt., Sept. 7, 1910. Child: Charles

AVE sat tight trying to make enough money to send my two boys to Harvard and the two girls to its equal for girls.

Outside of war work, principal milestones were meetings of Associated Harvard Clubs at Pittsburgh, 1916, and Buffalo, 1919, both of which I enjoyed attending.

Summer, 1919, attended old grads' summer school preparatory to Harvard Endowment Fund Campaign. Busy on campaign in Michigan, Fall of 1919.

Was present in Cleveland at the opening of H. E. F. drive and saw "Chet" Bolton start the ball rolling.

Had the pleasure of entertaining President Lowell at the time we

War Record: My factory, being in Canada, we started to make war materials and munitions as soon as Canada went to war. Among other things we made saddle arches for Canada, England, France, Belgium and Russia. Shell parts as follows: "Base plates and nose bushings, shrapnel discs, shrapnel adapters, for time fuses, etc. Also made forging for U.S. Artillery tractors and class B trucks. One of my associates was called upon to raise a battalion of engineers for the Mich. State Guard, Spring, 1917. This was federalized in July and he trained with his unit, 107th Engineers, at Waco, Tex., and sailed Dec., 1917. His absence and the fact that we were making munitions made it seem better for me to stick to the job. Naturally it has been a bitter disappointment to me not to get into active service.

FREDERICK ORRA WEST

Address: 60 Pleasant St., Woburn, Mass.

Occupation: Physician.

Married: Gretchen R. Van Tassel, Woburn, Mass., Sept. 15, 1917. Child:

George Van Tassel, Nov. 22, 1919.

TAVE continued to practice medicine in Woburn, with gratifying results, to myself at least.

In 1916, I was re-elected to the Woburn School Board for a second term of three years. During these six years. I have developed some ideas about education, but see no chance of their being put in operation.

When the Honorable H. P. Johnson was serving his first term as mayor of our city (see class report 1915), he wished on me the chairmanship of the Board of Health and Charities; a job that I have held ever since, but hope to retire from soon.

I hesitate to add that I am also school physician, for fear of giving the impression that I am the only physician in this community. I do not know whether my accumulating municipal positions is a habit or a mania.

That small portion of my life that remains after I have attended to my professional and civic duties I spend at home. Here we have a lusty youngster, who should lead a noble life as he was born the day Harvard licked Yale.

War Record: During 1916, 1917, and 1918 I was medical officer at a war plant which was engaged in the manufacture of high explosives. We had two T. N. T. explosions that gave a faint idea of what happened to Halifax. In Oct., 1918, was recommended for commission in the Medical Service, but was not called into active service.

Have written: "Manufacture of Picric Acid from the Medical Standpoint," "A Study of the Urines of Picric Acid Workers," "The Medical Department of a Modern Industrial Plant"; all of which are articles.

Member: Massachusetts Medical Society, and the American Medical Association.

FOR the last four years, a nervous trouble apparently beyond the understanding and ability to aid of the medical profession has prevented me from walking. Necessarily I have given up many of my former activities.

In July, 1919, I was appointed Solicitor of the Town of Longmeadow.

INTY life has been so uneventful during the past five years that I doubt very much if it would interest any one. It has not interested me very much and still it has been a busy five years spent at my old job of malleable iron castings, and working at high pressure all the time to keep up with first the demands of our Uncle Samuel and more lately of the tom fool automobile manufacturers.

I have also been moved from Boston to Cleveland, and that's a long

Member: Harvard Clubs of Boston, New York, and Cleveland.

Married: Marion L. Wheeler. Buffalo, N. Y., April 21, 1908. Children: Elisabeth Townsend, Feb. 5, 1911; Jane Howell, Feb. 20, 1913.

Am still with Parkinson and Burr, the only change in my position being my admission to the firm in 1917.

War Record: Helped in sale of Liberty Bonds as member of Boston Trades Committee; enlisted with Newton Home Guard.

REGINALD TREMAINE WHEELER

Address: (home) 61 Hodge Ave., Buffalo, N. Y. (business) 122 Pearl St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Married: Emily Burnett, Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 1, 1909. Children: Townsend, March 12, 1913; Reginald Tremaine, Jr., Aug. 13, 1915.

TP to the Spring of 1915 I had spent most of my time and my energies in selling mill and factory supplies. In March of that year I became associated with a firm of insurance brokers, one of whom is a Harvard '99 man. We write all kinds of insurance in our office but I give most of my time trying to help my fellow men along the straight and narrow path of life, chiefly by the aid of that good old Boston firm called the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co.

My activities during our part in the world war were only those of the average civilian who wished he were not a civilian and who did what he could on all the drives for the Liberty Loans, Red Cross, etc. In addition to which I got some training as an enlisted man in the 74th Infantry Regiment of the New York Guard.

As I have shown above there are two in my family who already are planning to go to Harvard, which will make the third generation in succession. They should be in the classes of 1935 and 1937.

In June, 1919, we, in Buffalo, had the pleasure of entertaining the Associated Harvard Clubs and 1905 had the largest representation of any class, although Russ Bryant and I were the only '05 men who live in Buffalo. I think the unanimous vote of our classmates would be that brother "Chicken Henry" Stevens supplied our class with the greatest excitement during the two days of the meeting.

War Record: Enlisted in Company C, 74th Regt., Inf., N. Y. G.

Served as Supply Sergeant until end of Sept., 1918, when given honorable discharge. Had made application for service in Q. M. Corps of the U.S. Army, and had been instructed to get my discharge from the N. Y. Guard, by authorities in Washington. The armistice was signed before I had been inducted into the service of the U.S. A.

Occupation: Shoe machinery.

Unmarried.

THERE is no special event of importance to note during my past years of existence, the time having been consumed in working in the main offices of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation in Boston with an annual hunting trip in Maine or the Provinces, and enjoying the congenial gatherings of the Class in June of each year. It is with regret that I am forced to leave the bulk of the questionnaire, that pertaining to marital relations, blank, but luck has been contrary, outside of an attack of the country-wide epidemic of the winter of 1918-19, the doctors haven't had a chance.

War Record: The Government declared that the United Shoe Machinery Corporation, in which I am an employee, was a vital factor during the war to aid in keeping the Army and Navy properly shod and therefore I was listed for active service in a classification too low to be reached. The Corporation by maintaining its efficiency fully justified its ability to care for its share of this important branch of equipment with the result that the United States soldiers were the best shod of all.

A T the date of the 1915 report I was still geologizing in the Iron Country. In June, 1916, I went to India as general superintendent of mining and prospecting for the Tata Iron and Steel Co. Mrs. White went with me. We had a fine trip and saw everything there was to see on the way, via Pacific. I enjoyed the work in India, and living conditions were very agreeable, but I unfortunately was taken sick with dysentery and had to return to this country in Aug., 1917. Since then I have been trying to strike oil down here in the Southwest, and am still trying. However, whether I get the oil or not, I found a fine baby boy down here in Texas who is worth a lot of oil wells.

FINISHED in June, 1917, my fifth year as principal of Bel Air High School at Bel Air, Md. As we were then about to enter the war I applied for admission to the Plattsburg Training Camp, but, I suppose, as I was older than men who were being accepted at that time, I did not receive admission.

In the Fall of 1917 I took up graduate work at Johns Hopkins University and also taught a few hours a day at the Roland Park Country School; and in June, 1918, I received the degree of M.A. in education from Johns Hopkins. I then applied for a position in the War Department at Washington and received an appointment Aug. 7, 1918.

War Record: Served as statistician in the War Department at Washington, in the Ordnance Bureau, from Aug. 7, 1918, to Feb. 1, 1919, and in the Motor Transport Corps from Feb. 1, 1919, up to the present.

SINCE our last Report very little has happened to me which would be of interest to my classmates. I am still with the General Electric Co. but have been recently transferred from the laboratory to the lightning arrester engineering department, where I have charge of the development work carried on. This is extremely interesting work and gives me great opportunities to know some of the most prominent electrical engineers of the present day. During the war I was one of those who kept at their regular jobs, as our plant here in Pittsfield got very little "war work."

At home there is one more small daughter running around. We have moved to a more central location and will be glad to see any friends who happen up this way.

SINCE the last Class Report I have done nothing very exciting except getting married, and the consequent settling up and then down. I have located permanently in Winchester by the simple act of buying a house there, that settles it, and also me.

My main recreation is golf, and plenty of it, when the kids do not need attention (usual remarks from the deadlier of the species, you

Chairman Golf Committee, Winchester C. C.

War Record: Enlisted as a private in First Motor Hospital Unit; afterwards was a member of State Guard of Mass. in Hospital Ambulance service from May, 1917, to Dec., 1918, all through the influenza epidemic. When the epidemic started at East Boston on the training ships, we ambulance drivers worked day and night, taking men to the Corey Hill Open Air Hospital, which was erected in one night by the State Guard; we were afterwards detailed for the various towns around Boston as the epidemic broke out in these various towns. We were often called out after dinner in the evening and worked all night, and were constantly exposed to the disease. The unit did a wonderful work; I did not do anywhere near as much as some others did, and I feel that some of the boys did not get the credit they deserve for the sacrifice they made.

Member: Winchester Golf Club.

Susan Holdrege, Oct. 20, 1908; Martha, Dec. 18, 1909.

Am a director of Great Fall Mills, and of the Everett Mills.

War Record: Was called into the U.S. service with the 101st F. A. and was in the artillery concentration camp at Boxford, Mass. till Sept. 7. On this date we entrained and were taken to New York. from which port the Regiment sailed on Sept. 9. After joining the rest of our convoy at Halifax, we started for "over there," and landed at Liverpool about ten days later. We were hustled across England and the following night sailed from Southhampton, landing at Le Havre the following morning. The 51st Artillery Brigade trained from Sept. 26, 1917, to Feb. 1, 1918, at the French artillery camp at Coetquidon (near Relm). In Jan. I was sent to a British Artillery School at Saint Omer but was fortunate enough to be able to rejoin the Regiment just after its arrival at Soissons. At the end of February I was again ordered away from the Regiment and went for a three months' course at the U. S. Army Staff College at Langres-Haut-Marne. My next sample of the front was in the neighborhood of Barnicourt in the Toul sector. This was a "quiet" sector; but early in July orders were received which landed us in the thick of the Château-Thierry advance. About the middle of Aug. we were ordered back for the first rest the Division had had since Feb. During the last part of Aug. I had charge of the Headquarters Co. On Sept. 12 I sailed for the U. S. and on arrival was given a Major's Commission, and ordered to the 34th F. A. (part of the 12th Div.), which was in training at Camp McClellan, Ala. The 34th F. A. was mustered out of the service during the latter part of Jan., 1919, and I received my own discharge on Feb. 3, 1919.

SOLON WILDER

Address: 34 Woodland Ave., Gardner, Mass.

Occupation: Manufacturer.

Married: Edith Leavens, Newtonville, Mass., June 12, 1907. Children: Ruth, Feb. 28, 1910 (died March 31, 1911); Richard, Sept. 11, 1911; Robert Dinsmoor, April 2, 1916. I'T seems a mighty short time ago that we sat down to tell our ten years' story, and yet here we are struggling to recall events for our fifteen years' out report.

It's the same old job with me, only more so — president of the Central Oil and Gas Stove Co., manufacturers of Florence oil stoves. But, sirs, we've grown in five years, indeed we have. Our business has been once re-organized and several new directors have been added so that now we have a real board whose chief joy in life seems to be found in the restraining of my youthful enthusiasms. Our advertising appropriation for 1920 equals our gross volume of sales ten or eleven years back, while my salary is of such proportions that could I have known what it was to be, back there in June, 1905, as I stood on the Threshold of Life, and all that sort of thing, I would have marvelled at the fatuousness of a board of directors who would bestow such an amount upon such an unworthy dub as I. At that I don't get as much as I'm worth.

I'm still president of the Meals Printing Co., a trustee of Wilder Associates, and the Gardner Associates (real estate operators), a director of the First National Bank of Gardner and the Chairtown Cooperative Bank, Gardner. In addition I am a director in the Logan Johnson Co., Ltd., the Gardner Chair Co., and vice-president and director of the Riverside Boiler Works of Cambridge.

I write a good many letters every day in a business way, and some of them (I have been given to understand) are literary masterpieces, and models of diction, to say nothing of mass, coherence and unity. I have written one tenor solo to James Whitcomb Riley's words "The Perfect Prayer," which listens good to my prejudiced ears. I'm going to send it to Lambert Murphy; if he'll sing it I may qualify yet. I've almost completed also a duet for soprano and contralto. It's quite dramatic and I don't know whether it's a contribution to posterity or the wastebasket. I'll let you know five years hence.

In general, time has dealt kindly with me. I still dance whenever the opportunity occurs and drive a Fleetwood twin-six roadster whenever my wife doesn't happen to have it. I am happy in my home life, where two corking fine boys of eight and four, already in training for the 'Varsity, permit of no idle moments. I am happy in my business life, where my associates are ever considerate of my shortcomings, while socially — well, folks around here are very nice, that's all. In addition I might state that I have a police dog, and a Hodgson portable garage; I have also purchased my next season's supply of Ground Grippers at prices which I am reliably informed are quite some below the quotations which will obtain in the Spring.

War Record: In common with other Mass, appointees to the Draft Boards I was appointed by Gov. McCall to Local Board Div. No. 13. Selective Service, on June 21, 1917, and served until discharged March 31, 1919, when all boards were discontinued, being released by my company (Central Oil and Gas Stove Co.) for this service, and acting as secretary of the Board. It was the most strenuous job that I ever expect to have to tackle, but considering the work to be done it was an example of wonderful conception on the part of General Crowder, and equally brilliant in what it did for this country in raising literally millions of men in the shortest time known in history, and on a basis which was so completely fair and equitable that it was next to impossible for anyone to pick a flaw in the system after it had been running for a comparatively short time. Our experiences ran the whole gamut of human emotion from the tragic to ridiculous, and humorous to pathetic. Not a day passed but what I was a Solomon in all my glory, passing upon something or other which affected not only the fortune but perhaps the life of a member of some family. I don't want to do it again, but it was a necessary and vital part of the whole war as was any branch of the service operating on the front line. It wasn't spectacular. I thought for a while that we ought to be brevet colonels or something but I have changed my mind — I am satisfied now with the little bronze button. Was a member of executive committee on all Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., United War Work and War Service drives, as well as during the five Liberty Loan Sales.

Occupation: Investment securities.

Married: Dorothea C. Knight, Portland, Me., Sept. 8, 1906. Children:

Franklin A., 2d, June 4, 1907; Roger, July 2, 1910.

FROM the date of the last class report up to now I have been, with the exception of a period during the war, continuously engaged in the investment business in Boston, and have continued to live in Chestnut Hill.

In 1915, H. C. VanVoorhis and I formed a partnership under the name of VanVoorhis, Wilson and Co., and spent a pleasant and profitable two or three years in the bond business.

On my discharge from the Army in 1919, I reentered the same kind of business with Bonbright and Co., Inc., Mass., of which I am now vice president and Boston manager. Although our New York partners are largely Elis, we have mostly Harvard men over here in Boston, including J. B. Noyes, 1891, C. S. Stillman, 1896, Gilman Churchill, 1909, R. W. Dibble, 1901, S. T. Guild, 1912.

We are constantly looking for young graduates, and if any class mate has young relatives or friends getting through this year who want to make a connection with an international banking house, he will be doing them and me a mutual favor by putting us in touch.

War Record: Enlisted July 25, 1918, with the U. S. Army, Bureau of Aircraft Production, and served with them as 1st Lieutenant until March 17, 1919, being located at various times at Washington, D. C., New York City, Waltham, East Cambridge, and Boston, Mass. The principal function of the Bureau of Aircraft Production was the making of and completing payments under contracts for airplanes and balloon parts and equipment, and the principal duties of the approvals and property sub-divisions thereof, in which I served, were to protect the Government financial interest in the execution of these contracts, and to hold title to and account for material as it became Government property. Each contract of importance had a so-called Plant Approvals Officer and Plant Property Officer, who were responsible to a District Approvals or Property Officer, as the case might be. At the time of my discharge, I was District Property Officer of the Boston district, which embraced all New England, and was engaged in the disposition and accounting of property which the Government was taking over under cancellations of contracts. From Dec., 1917, to July, 1918, served with the Mass. State Guard, Commonwealth Armory, as a private in the Motor Ambulance Corps. Was volunteer worker with Department of Justice, Bureau of Investigation (A. P. L.), from Feb. to July, 1918.

Member: Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York; University Club of Boston; Longwood Cricket Club; Harvard Union; Mass.

Automobile Club.

Occupation: Banker and broker.

Married: Susan Revere Baker, North Hampton, N. H., Sept. 27, 1919.

CONTINUED in the banking business with Kidder, Peabody and Co., until May 12, 1917, the only incidents of interest during that time being a trip to Cal. in 1916, and a month at the Military Training Camp at Plattsburg in Sept., 1916. And now at last I have changed my colors, and am living life as it should be lived.

War Record: Commissioned Captain of Infantry at Plattsburg Aug. 15, 1917; reported at Camp Devens, Mass., Aug. 29, and placed in command of Co. F, 303d Inf., Sept. 1. Co. F won Regimental Training and Drill Competition Dec., 1917, and the Divisional Training and Drill Competition, April, 1918. Division left Camp Devens on July 5, 1918; embarked from Montreal on July 6 and arrived in London, July 23. Stopped five days in British camp at Winchester, England. Sailed from Southampton and arrived in Le Havre, France, July 30, 1918, and at La Celle (Cher) on July 31; went into billets in this latter place. Training Replacements until Nov. 9, 1918; moved to St. Aignan and Division broken up on Nov. 10. Was at school at Langres until Dec. 1; assigned to 26th Div. at Mandres; in command of 3d Battalion, 102d Inf.; in command of Co. K 102d Inf., Dec. 18; moved to Le Mans area Jan. 25, 1919.

Entrained for Brest on March 24; embarked on U. S. S. "Agamemnon" on March 31; arrived Camp Devens, April 8; participated in 26th Div. parade April 25 in Boston; discharged Camp Devens, May 1, 1919; re-commissioned in Reserve Corps, June 29, as Captain of Inf. While in France, at Chaumont with the 26th Division, I learned of my brother Philip's death at Bussang-Vosges. Went there and learned that the influenza got him and he died alone in the French hospital on Oct. 24, 1918. He had been a member of S. S. U. 627 Ambulance Américaine from June, 1917. We now have at home his Croix de Guerre which he won at Château-Thierry. Served as private, 1st Motor Corps, M. S. G., Sept. 10 to Dec. 6, 1919, on traffic police duty.

Member: Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York; Union, Exchange, Somerset, Weston Golf, and Pocasset Golf Clubs.
